BOMBAY POLICE FIRE ON RIOTERS, KILL 4 MORE AS REVOLT SPREADS

Deaths Mount to 10 in Three Days of Violence in Protest of Nehru Separation Plan for City.

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 18 (AP)—Police opened fire again today on waves of rioters protesting against Prime Minister Nehru's plan to sever this west coast metropolis from Bombay state. At least four of the demonstrators were killed, bringing the death toll in three days of violence to 10 in Bombay state.

Indian army units were ordered to stand by and a 24-hour curfew was clamped on the big industrial sector in the northern part of the city. Various other parts of the city were put under dusk-to-dawn curfew.

During yesterday's rioting thousands of the demonstrators carried placards proclaiming "Death to Nehru!"

At least 300,000 workers in the city of nearly 3,000,000 people answered a call by leftist unions for a general strike to reinforce demands that the city become the capital of a new Marathi-speaking state.

Police jailed one of India's leading Communists, S. A. Dange, as he arrived by plane from New Delhi. He is vice president of the Red-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions.

Driven From Factories.
The rioters held virtual control of the factory area until police and special armed units drove them out with shots, tear gas and clubs.

Yelling, stone-throwing mobs ranged the streets. They felled trees to barricade highways and hurled stones at passing trains, buses and cars.

Street were littered with broken glass, wood and debris. By noon the fire brigade had answered 49 calls in 14 hours, but no big buildings were set on fire. It also said nearly 400 persons were arrested this morning, increasing total arrests to nearly 1,000.

Downtown Bombay was deserted, with business virtually at a standstill. Shops which opened were looted.

Billy Graham at Hotel.
Police barricades kept the mobs out of the waterfront area where most hotels were located. American evangelist Billy Graham was at one of the hotels.

One crowd of demonstrators attacked an office of the ruling Congress party. Windows were smashed and several persons injured. In South Bombay, rioters hurled stones at many shop windows.

In New Delhi, official sources said Nehru would not attempt to halt the wave of violence sweeping Bombay and other cities in Bombay state by a personal visit because "that would dignify the unruly elements who are responsible for the disorders." Instead, they said the Nehru government will "sit tight," waiting to see whether the curfew and other restrictions will halt the rioting.

If the situation worsens, these sources said, the central government is ready to take more drastic measures.

N. V. Gadgil, a former minister in Nehru's government and a Congress party leader in Bombay state, called the government's decision on Bombay "against all democratic rights and liberties." The violent struggle for control of Bombay state revolves around several

Representative Had 'Bribe' Offer
On Air Base Site, She Says

REPRESENTATIVE RUTH THOMPSON

PRESIDENT GIVEN GRANDMA MOSES PAINTING OF FARM

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (UP)—President Eisenhower was given an original Grandma Moses painting of his Gettysburg farm today to mark the third anniversary of his inauguration. It was a surprise gift from the Cabinet.

Mr. Eisenhower was inaugurated Jan. 20, 1953, but the gift was presented today because the Cabinet will not meet Friday, actual anniversary date.

Some members of the Cabinet were at the White House today for a National Security Council meeting. Others attended just the presentation ceremony.

Mrs. Eisenhower shared in the surprise presentation. Miss Bertha Adkins, assistant to the chairman of the Republican National Committee, gave her a large gold serving dish on behalf of the Republican women of the nation.

Grandma Moses, the American primitive artist who is in her early 90s, did the picture two months ago, working from a large collection of photographs.

Yesterday the President, an avid painter, relaxed with his own easel and paints during the doctor-enforced afternoon relaxation period. Afterward he returned to his desk for an hour and 55 minutes of what the White House described as staff work.

12-INCH SNOW HITS SOUTHERN NEW ENGLAND

BOSTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Eight deaths were attributed today to the heaviest snowstorm of the season, which yesterday dropped up to nearly 13 inches of snow on southern New England. It was the tenth consecutive day New England has had precipitation of some kind, a weather bureau record.

Six of the deaths were from heart attacks after shoveling snow. The other two were traffic deaths.

Fifteen children were marooned for two and a half hours on a school bus at Coventry, R.I., when the bus bogged in heavy snow. The children were unharmed and seemed to enjoy the experience.

About 1,000 telephones were reported out of commission in Rhode Island, where the snowstorm was the worst since 1948.

CZECHS REPORT ANTI-RED BALLOON BLAST HURT BOY

VIENNA, Jan. 18 (UP)—Communist Czechoslovakia charged today that a 13-year-old boy was seriously injured when a Radio Free Europe propaganda balloon exploded.

The charge was broadcast by the Prague radio. It said the balloon exploded at Drieny near Presov and badly damaged the home of railroad worker Ladislav Jurick. Jurick's son suffered severe burns and was hospitalized at Presov, the broadcast said.

Ruth Thompson Won't Identify Man Whg Proffered $1000 for
'Cadillac (Mich.)
Boys.'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (UP)—Representative Ruth Thompson (Rep., Mich.), said today she was offered a $1,000 "bribe" to help get the Air Force to build a jet fighter base in Cadillac, Mich.

She refused to say who made the offer. Miss Thompson made the statement in a letter to the Wexford County (Mich.) Jet Air Base Committee. The letter was in reply to a request that she clarify published reports that she had been offered a bribe.

Miss Thompson said the bribe offer was made after the House Armed Services Committee had turned down Benzle county as a site because of its nearness to the Interlochen Music Camp.

"Shortly after that I was approached in the city of Washington by a man who apparently had assumed the role of intermediary between some people in Cadillac and myself," she said. "I now state that he told me bluntly that I must support the air base in Cadillac and then added the Cadillac boys are going to give you $1,000 for your campaign."

"Never, at any time, have I known the number of persons who sought to bribe me," she said. "Never, at any time, have they been identified to me by their names."

"I never have told anyone that I knew the number, or the names, of my would-be bribers," she said. "They were mentioned as living in Cadillac by the person who proposed the bribe."

A reporter asked her to identify the man who approached her with the bribe offer.

"I'm not telling you that," she said. "There are some things you can't divulge."

In reply to questions, she said the man was not from Cadillac. She refused, however, to answer whether the man was in the Government.

The House Military Appropriations subcommittee turned down Cadillac as the site last year and approved funds for construction at Kalaska in the district of Representative Victor A. Knox (Rep., Mich.).

Miss Thompson said in her letter that it was "prompted by the demand that I make a public apology in the mistaken belief that I have somehow cast aspersions on the good people of Wexford county, who wanted a jet air base in or near the city of Cadillac."

"On three occasions I have brought out this insidious and illegal approach," she said. "The first was when I requested, in the name of my constituents, that the Secretary of the Air Force (Harold E. Talbot) give me a hearing."

He did so and when I had finished he stated that the jet base would never, never go to Cadillac," she said. "He continued that statement several times, the last time vehemently, and with evident impatience, on Nov. 16, 1954."

"But on Dec. 2, 1954, with no previous notice or explanation, I received a telephone call from the Secretary's administrative assistant saying that the jet base would go to Cadillac," she said.

CHARTER BILL
QUICKLY TO HALT
TUCKER'S ACTION

Special Meeting Likely Saturday or Early Next Week—Passage
Would Probably Stop Initiative Petitions.

Members of the Board of Aldermen are considering holding a special meeting Saturday or early next week to pass the pending charter freeholder bill, to ward off circulation of initiative petitions by a citizens committee appointed by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

"If the new bill is quickly approved by the aldermen, it is believed the Mayor will sign the measure and drop his plans to secure the election of charter freeholders by the initiative process."

Alderman Anton Niemeyer, who introduced the new freeholder bill after the Mayor's proposal was defeated in the board 20 to 7 last Friday, told the Post-Dispatch today that his bill "may be passed sooner than you think."

He pointed out that the measure, under board rules, will be referred to the aldermanic legislative committee, which he heads, at the board's regular meeting Friday. He said his committee could act promptly on the measure, and have it ready for passage at a special meeting called for Saturday, or possibly next Monday.

Group to Be Organized.
Meanwhile, Mayor Tucker will go ahead with his plans for a meeting with civic, business and church leaders at his office tomorrow, for the organization of a group to sponsor the circulation of initiative petitions forcing the election of 13 freeholders to study modernization of the city's 42-year-old charter.

"So far," Tucker asserted, "I have no other recourse at this time but to proceed along the initiative route. The Board of Aldermen has done nothing to give me any other choice."

But it was learned that the Mayor would probably abandon the initiative proposal if the aldermen pass the pending measure, which calls for the election of charter freeholders next May 8.

Aldermanic approval of the measure would bring about the major objective sought by the Mayor—the naming of a board of citizen-freeholders to study charter revision—and eliminate the need for the circulation of petitions to obtain this end.

Fight Over Procedure.
Friends of the Mayor report he feels he would be "arbitrary and unreasonable" if he vetoed Niemeyer's bill unless it was materially weakened by amendment before its approval.

They point out the major fight has been over the procedure to follow in revising the charter—whether it should be done by citizen-freeholders with power to completely rewrite the charter if deemed necessary, or through specific amendments by the Board of Aldermen.

Niemeyer's substitute proposal differs in some respects from the Mayor's bill, but it is a copy of the 1949 freeholder measure and would set up the basic machinery for charter revision by the people rather than the politically controlled Board of Aldermen.

Proponents of a new charter believe that passage of the Niemeyer bill would be preferable to the initiative plan because it would save time and expense in bringing out this insidious and illegal approach," she said.

"The first was when I requested, in the name of my constituents, that the Secretary of the Air Force (Harold E. Talbot) give me a hearing."

He did so and when I had finished he stated that the jet base would never, never go to Cadillac," she said. "He continued that statement several times, the last time vehemently, and with evident impatience, on Nov. 16, 1954."

"But on Dec. 2, 1954, with no previous notice or explanation, I received a telephone call from the Secretary's administrative assistant saying that the jet base would go to Cadillac," she said.

HUMPHREY SAYS
DULLES HELPS
RED PROPAGANDA MACHINERY

Bender Replies 'Blunders' by Truman, Acheson Brought U.S. to Verge of War
in Three Areas.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Senator Humphrey (Dem., Minnesota), told the Senate today that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' "brink of war" interview delivered this country "into the hands of the Soviet propaganda machine."

On the other side of the row over the Dulles quotations in a Life magazine article, Senator Bender (Rep., Ohio), said in a statement that "colossal blunders" by former President Truman and his secretary of state, Dean Acheson, brought this country to the verge of war in Korea, Indochina and Formosa.

Those were the areas in which Dulles was quoted as saying America had been brought to the "brink of war" and had been saved by the Administration policy of "deterrence." His view was that the Chinese Communists backed off in the knowledge that this country would fight.

Humphrey said Dulles' news conference explanation yesterday, in which the Secretary backed away from the article's precise presentation of his views but reaffirmed the general views expressed, was "totally unsatisfactory."

He described the original statements as a "catastrophic mistake."

Bender accused the Truman Administration of having "hoisted the pistol pointed at our head in the very danger spot on the globe today."

Aiming primarily at Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate who has accused Dulles of "playing Russian roulette" in foreign policy and has suggested that President Eisenhower ought to repudiate the ideas of the magazine interview or fire Dulles, Bender said.

"The leadership of the opposing party is indulging in an amazing demonstration of self-inflicted amnesia," he said.

"They are eager to forget, and they wish the nation at large to forget, that the key to all developments in Korea, Indochina and Formosa was the Communist conquest of China."

Bender added that "the secret agreements recognizing Russia's claim to pre-eminence in Manchuria were part of the same pattern."

British Newspapers Assail
Dulles' Defense.

LONDON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' defense of his controversial foreign policy interview in Life magazine got a going over today in the British press.

"Dulles has again put both his left foot forward," said the Morning Guardian in commenting on the Secretary's news conference yesterday.

The Daily Mirror said: "At the end of it all, nobody was much clearer than before about what he had said and had not said."

The Daily Herald remarked that Dulles had passed up a chance to "withdraw his charge that the British Government had first agreed to 'united action' against the Communists in Indochina and then backed out on the agreement."

"His refusal . . . to do so is hardly calculated to make for a pleasant atmosphere when Anthony Eden and Selwyn Lloyd get to Washington in 10 days' time," the Herald added.

The Daily Express accused Dulles of "hedging." It complained that "many reporters never had a chance to put their questions to him."

The Daily Mail noted that "Mr. Dulles refused to revive the controversy over whether RED CHINA REJECTS U.S.

PROPOSAL NEITHER SIDE USE FORCE IN FORMOSA AREAEDEN TELLS OF DANGER OF 'UNIVERSAL EXPLOSION'

Says at Conservative Rally It Could Be Touched Off by Hostilities in Some Critical Region.

BRADFORD, England, Jan. 18 (AP)—Prime Minister Eden told a Conservative party rally tonight the struggle between the Communist powers and the West has changed in recent months and "not for the better."

He said a "universal explosion could easily be touched off by hostilities in some critical region, such as the Middle East."

"I do not want to be misunderstood," he added. "The risk is always there."

"There is plenty of dry tinder about. Governments should beware lest, in trying to undermine the long-established friendships between others, they embroil themselves in graver perils."

The Prime Minister did not name Russia, but it appeared clear he had in mind the Soviet Union's efforts to win influence with the Arab countries.

Eden made no mention of the Dulles' incident, that has aroused worried reaction in the British press.

By the United Press.
Eden said:
"As events are unfolding in the world today, two conditions are necessary if there is to be enduring peace.

"First, that all countries should remember what a world conflict would involve.

"Second, that this awful knowledge should build up a growing sense of responsibility that peace must be kept everywhere."

"It is increasing carelessness about this which is our greatest danger today."

Without naming names, he took Soviet Premier Bulganin and Russian Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev to task for the anti-Western speeches they made on their recent Asian tour.

"It is a fantastic travesty on this country's policy to pretend that our purpose is to put our feet on other people's necks," Eden said. "The opposite is the truth. The address of the power which dragons and dominates its satellites is 'Kremlin, Moscow'."

The speech was aimed at calming domestic politics in the last days before Eden's departure for Washington and important talks with President Eisenhower late this month.

RECORDS SHOW TALK ON PHONE BEFORE GRANTING OF MINE RIGHTS

Support G.O.P. Statements That Interior Aid Had Knowledge of Report Before He Gave Approval.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — Congressional investigators were given records today showing that Under Secretary of the Interior Clarence A. Davis talked with a Bureau of Mines engineer before granting mining and timber rights to the Al Sarena Mining Co.

C. C. Davison, assistant chief clerk of the Department of Interior, told a joint Senate-House subcommittee that Davis placed a long-distance telephone call to Richard N. Appling Jr., bureau engineer at Grant's Pass, Ore., on Dec. 29, 1953.

Davison gave the subcommittee a certified record of the telephone call and a bill which showed the conversation lasted 18 minutes.

The records supported Republican statements that Davis had knowledge of the Bureau of Mines report on the Al Sarena mining claims before he approved the company's application for mining and timber rights.

Democrats on the subcommittee had charged that Davis had approved the application before seeing Appling's report on the company's claims.

Request for FBI Study.
Appling was recalled for further testimony today after Senator W. Kerr Scott (Dem., North Carolina) said he would ask the Federal Bureau of Investigation to determine whether the engineer's report had been "doctored" before it was given to the subcommittee.

Scott, chairman of the Senate subcommittee, accused Appling yesterday of being an "evasive" witness.

The engineer was on the stand only a short time today.
He testified that he had been "pressed" by Davis for an opinion on the disputed Al Sarena claims to 300 acres in the Rogue River National Forest in southern Oregon.

Appling said he was "reluctant" to give an opinion because he had not made a full study of the claims. He said he finally told Davis he thought the claims were good enough to justify additional exploration.

In answer to a question, Appling said he never had brought on him the Department of the Interior officials and he had not been "coached" on what testimony to give the subcommittee.

He acknowledged that he had conferred with various Interior Department personnel but said they only advised him to "give the facts as I know them."

His Original Report.
Yesterday Appling gave the subcommittee his original report and showed its members that the last paragraph recounted a telephone conversation he had with Davis, who was then Interior Department secretary.

The paragraph indicated that Appling gave Davis the substance of his report on the value of the Al Sarena claim and that Davis therefore had some knowledge of the findings before he approved the company's application.

Subcommittee Democrats immediately suggested that the report had been "doctored" in Washington and the final paragraph added. Appling denied this, emphatically. Scott then said he would send the report to the FBI.

The subcommittee already have developed evidence that Appling's letter was mailed to Washington on Jan. 5, 1954.
Davis approved the claims the next day, according to official documents in the possession of the subcommittee.

Hearings Counsel Robert W.
Redwine told the Post-Dispatch he would introduce evidence that the report did not reach Washington until Jan. 8, 1954, two days after Davis gave his approval. This will be shown Redwine said, by a time stamp on the letter of transmittal accompanying the report.

Redwine called attention yesterday to these features of the letter:

1. The key paragraph was the last in the report rather than in the rest of the letter.
2. The ink was much lighter on the final paragraph than in the rest of the letter.
3. Several letters and the numeral "6" in the last paragraph showed obvious differences from corresponding letters and numeral "6" in the body of the letter, indicating the final paragraph may have been written on another typewriter.

Appling testified he had added the last paragraph as an "afterthought" after removing the carbon copies before he sent the report to his superiors in Spokane, Wash., who mailed it on to Washington.

The engineer said the last paragraph was typed with either the same portable he had used for the rest of the report or another machine in his office.
"As a matter of fact, wasn't that the final paragraph typed right here in Washington?"
Redwine asked.

"No sir, it was not," Appling replied.

Wilson Confirms Gen. Ridgway's Claim, Contradicts Eisenhower

DEFENSE SECRETARY CHARLES WILSON studiously answering question at press conference yesterday where he said he thought Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, former Army chief of staff, was correct in stating that Ridgway was opposed to a cut in Army strength two years ago.

Admits Armed Forces Cut Didn't Have Unanimous Approval of Chiefs of Staff.

By BRIG. GEN. THOMAS R.
PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — Secretary of Defense Charles E.
Wilson at his press conference yesterday confirmed Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's statement in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post that the Joint Chiefs of Staff had not "unanimously recommended" the new military program of the administration for the 1955 budget.

Wilson thus contradicted the statement by the President in his message on the State of the Union in January 1954 that "the defense program recommended for 1955 . . . is based on a new military program, unanimously recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

This leaves the question open as to who from the Pentagon informed the President, or his staff, about the facts of the disagreement on the force levels of the 1955 budget.

Wilson said that there was disagreement about the 1956 budget and quoted from his statement before the Senate Services Committee of the Senate to show that he had reported this disagreement. He did not, however, quote from his statement for 1955, which was the pertinent year. This statement made no mention of the Chiefs of Staff's part in determining force levels.

Wilson said that the 1957 budget was the first one in which the chiefs of staff were in unanimous agreement on force levels. He made the point that the chiefs of staff do not approve or disapprove the budget itself, but only the force levels on which the budget was predicated.

Questioned about Ridgway's article, Wilson said that he had no quarrel with Ridgway, that he was sure Ridgway was a dedicated officer who has done a great deal for his country.

The series of articles in the Saturday Evening Post had been submitted to the Pentagon for security clearance, Wilson said, in the proper manner. No deletions were requested by the security review officers, he declared.
He said he had not read the articles although he had been informed that they had been submitted.

With reference to Ridgway's statement that "incessant pressure was brought to bear on me to make my views conform to a preconceived politico-military party line," Wilson said that he did not recall any instance of bringing pressure to bear on Ridgway to prevent him from expressing his own views or views in opposition to the President's on military policy.

Against Apple-Polishing.
Wilson declared that he did not expect people around him to be apple-polishers. He preferred, he said, people who have strong opinions and are not afraid to express them.

As to how to get these opinions accepted, the former president declared that he had found in his own experience that if he could not sell his views to his associates he tried to find better ways of convincing them.

Asked the $64 question whether the present military program is improving our power position vis-a-vis the Soviet Union, maintaining it at the same relative level or "something else," Wilson evaded by answering that "I think it is to keep it on the proper level."

With reference to funds for guided missiles in this year's budget, Wilson explained that about $1,750,000,000 of new objective authority had been asked for and that expenditures would be about $1,250,000,000.

This will be divided among the services with $300,000,000 to the Army, $177,000,000 to the Navy and $779,000,000 to the Air Force.

The Big Three revised their resolution to say that Syrian interference with the Israeli "in no way justifies the Israeli attack."

Delegates said one further change in the works would concern
a follow-up to see how the Council's efforts to prevent further attacks were being carried out.

Ambassador Joza Brilej of Yugoslavia proposed a compromise resolution. It was reported the proposal carried a condemnation of Israel for the raid and also condemned violations by anyone of the Syrian-Israeli armistice.

Regarding demands for Israel to pay damages to Syria, the Yugoslav resolution was reported to state that any party violating the armistice should be held responsible for damages.

The Soviet Union has introduced a tougher resolution
based on Syria's demands before the 11-nation Council. It carries a specific warning of possible penalties for any repetition of the attack and would have the council decide that Israel should pay compensation.

expected to make last-minute changes today to toughen their proposed Security Council resolution condemning Israel for its Dec. 11 raid on Syrian posts along the Sea of Galilee.

The sponsors of the Western proposal hoped to win approval at a Council meeting this afternoon.

The Big Three worked out the revisions in talks here yesterday with Iranian delegate Djalal Abdo. Informed delegates said Abdo wanted the Western resolution stiffened to please Syria and to "remove further ground for Soviet propaganda" among Arab countries.

The Iranian proposed that the Big Three call for payment of compensation to Syria for its 56 soldiers killed in the attack and for property damage. He also proposed that they delete a mention of Syrian interference with the Israeli activities on the Sea of Galilee, which lies within Israel near the Syrian border.

Israel, which lost six men in the raid, said that Syrian firing on its fishing and police boats on the lake provoked the attack.

The Big Three revised their resolution to say that Syrian interference with the Israeli "in no way justifies the Israeli attack."

Delegates said one further change in the works would concern
a follow-up to see how the Council's efforts to prevent further attacks were being carried out.

Ambassador Joza Brilej of Yugoslavia proposed a compromise
resolution. It was reported
the proposal carried a condemnation of Israel for the raid
and also condemned violations
by anyone of the Syrian-Israeli armistice.

Regarding demands for Israel
to pay damages to Syria, the Yugoslav resolution was reported to state that any party
violating the armistice should
be held responsible for damages.

The Soviet Union has introduced a tougher resolution
based on Syria's demands before the 11-nation Council. It carries a specific warning of
possible penalties for any repetition of the attack and would have the council decide that Israel should pay compensation.

EARL LONG WINS BY LANDSLIDE IN GOVERNOR'S RACE

Revisions in Wording of Proposal in U.N.
Worked Out With Arab Delegate.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 18 (AP) —Former Gov. Earl Long won an overwhelming victory in the Governor's race in yesterday's Democratic primary.

Mayor De Lesseps Morrison of New Orleans, the only candidate in the five-man field who could have forced the race into a Feb. 21 runoff, conceded at 2 a.m.

Building his lead constantly as late rural returns trickled in, the 60-year-old Long rolled to ward the majority vote needed to avoid a runoff with the second-place candidate.

Official returns from 1818 of the state's 2039 precincts showed:

Francis Greenberg 54,293.
Earl Long 367,384.
James McLeure 32,020.

DeLesseps Morrison, 171,615.
Fred Preaus 171,615.

Long, uncle of Senator Russell Long (Dem.), Louisiana, and brother of Representative George Long (Dem.), Louisiana, had 51.2 per cent of the votes counted so far.

The Republicans did not hold a primary to nominate a Governor. Thus Long's victory assured him an unprecedented third stay in the 45-room mansion that his brother, the late Huey Long, built.

Louisiana law requires a candidate receive a majority of the votes cast to avoid a runoff with the second-place contender.

Morrison, making his first state race after 10 years as Mayor of the state's largest city, ended the anxiety about percentage points by conceding.

Preaus was supported by pro-Eisenhower Gov. Robert Kennedy, who by law couldn't succeed himself. Long backed Adlai Stevenson in 1952 but national politics did not play a part in the primary.

Long, younger brother of Huey, showed amazing comeback strength. After failing to name a successor four years ago, he swept every large city but one and every parish but one. The exception was Orleans, county-name for New Orleans.

With all five candidates in agreement on segregation, law enforcement and industrial development, the race boiled down to the traditional Long vs.
anti-Long battle.

Knocked out early in the night were independents Greenber, the former state police superintendent who ran on his slot machine-busting record, and Alexandri rancher James McLeure, who ran fourth in the nine-man 1952 race and had hoped to improve that rating with a strong segregation stand.

New restoration rose to a record of 154,000, up 50 per cent since 1952.

Long took an early lead in

SALE OF FOURTH OF COUNTY BONDS THIS YEAR URGED BY MATTHEWS

Supervisor Proposes Action to Speed Improvement Projects That Can Be Started This Year.

Recommendations that $10,715,080 of the $39,712,000 St. Louis county bond issue be sold to finance construction of public improvement projects to be started this year was made today by County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews.

Matthews expressed the hope that the projects, based upon proposals made by various county departments, would be transmitted promptly to the Citizens Bond Issue Public Works Advisory (Watchdog) Committee by the council. If approved by the committee, they would be sent back to the council for final action which would include approval of the items and the necessary legislation to authorize sale of the bonds, he said.

Largest item was $5,000,000 for the county's one-half share of acquiring right-of-ways for the Mark Twain, Daniel Boone and Ozark expressways. Purchase of right-of-way is already under way by the State Highway Commission which has announced that reimbursement of the county share will be required by June 30, Matthews said.

Also proposed is a $3,790,080 item for financing 58 road and bridge projects and a traffic survey into each of the three urban and one rural areas into which the county has been divided for the purpose of apportioning projects. These districts were set up so that each part of the county would be represented in projects to be started this year.

Other proposals include $675,000 for voting machines, purchase of which is already under way; $600,000 for hospital and health center projects; $250,000 for engineering services; $200,000 for purchase of park sites; $100,000 for landfill sites; and $100,000 for establishment with the City of St. Louis of a joint civil defense control center.

Matthews explained that the amount earmarked for engineering services was intended originally for the preparation of plans for the proposed Inner Belt Highway. He said, however, it is possible that some other county road projects also might be handled from that fund.

The 58 county road and bridge projects proposed by Matthews were divided among three urban districts and a fourth group of projects went to a rural district so that several projects may be undertaken simultaneously in all county areas with the least inconvenience to motorists and residents.

In the northernmost district, an area north of St. Charles road and generally east of Lindbergh boulevard, nine projects were proposed at a cost of $983,250. In a district between St. Charles and Manchester roads and east of Lindbergh, seven projects, costing $1,116,930 were suggested. In an area south of Manchester and east of Lindbergh, 12 road projects were proposed at a cost of $1,170,820, and in the fourth area, embracing all of the county generally west and north of Lindbergh, 30 projects, costing $519,100, were outlined.

Preparation of a list of projects will be started by the watchdog committee as soon as Matthews' recommendations are forwarded to it by the council, it was announced earlier today.

Donald L. Barnes Sr., co-chairman of the Watchdog committee, which held its first meeting yesterday at the Clayton Courthouse, said the recommendations would be parceled out immediately to the various subcommittees established at the meeting.

After the subcommittees complete their study of particular projects, their recommendations

First Meeting of County Bond Issue 'Watchdogs'

First meeting of Citizens Bond Issue Public Works Advisory (Watchdog) Committee of St. Louis county yesterday being addressed by its co-chairman, DONALD L. BARNES SR., standing, back to camera. The 59-member committee was organized into subcommittees to tackle the job of supervising the expenditure of funds from the $39,712,000 bond issue.

will be forwarded to the executive committee, Barnes said.

Procedure Set Up

Under regulations adopted at yesterday's meeting, the executive committee may transmit to the county council and supervisor any subcommittee report it has approved unless at least 25 per cent of the membership of the full committee files written objections to the report within five days after receiving a copy of it. The percentage is figured after deducting the executive committee and the originating subcommittee from the 59-man membership. If such objections are filed, the executive committee must refer the report back to the subcommittee for further study.

Expressing the hope the subcommittees would be in operation within one week and select their co-chairmen and secretaries, Barnes said: "It is up to us to assist the council and the various departments of the state and county governments to bring these projects into being as rapidly as is practical and possible."

Referring to criticism of delay in starting projects, Barnes told the committee: "I do not think this committee should be stampeded or receive criticism or blame because we are not driving over these highways next week and because the detention home for children is not ready to receive patients this week."

"It has taken a long time to arrive at the decision that this county should take this forward step. It will take some time in planning and engineering to bring it into fruition."

Warns Against Pressure. Barnes warned that if the committee is subjected to "undue pressure" or if the projects become "political footballs" the effectiveness of the committee would be impaired. He asked for the co-operation of the press and both political parties.

Harry R. Fritz, who was named technical adviser to the watchdog committee, will operate from headquarters in the County Chamber of Commerce office at 8003 Forsyth boulevard, Clayton, Barnes said. His salary has not been fixed.

MAN SENTENCED TO 30 DAYS FOR DRIVING WHEN DRUNK

Lloyd Spencer, a mechanic, of the 2000 block of Lynch street, was sentenced today by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd to 30 days in the City Workhouse after being found guilty of driving when intoxicated. He also was fined $25 for careless driving.

Police testified Spencer was arrested last Friday following a collision near the intersection of Ewing avenue and Pine street. He denied driving when drunk. The conviction today was the second one within a year for Spencer for driving when intoxicated.

Walter Whitten, a laborer, 2600 block of North Tenth street, was fined $128 today for driving when intoxicated after he was found guilty by Judge Dowd. Whitten also was fined $25 for careless driving. Police testified he was arrested Dec. 2 after a collision in the 600 block of South Broadway. Whitten denied being drunk.

RUBBISH FIRE SETS OFF BURGLAR ALARM IN BANK

Police and firemen sped to the Jefferson Bank & Trust Co. at 2337 Franklin avenue early today in response to alarms but found nothing worse than a small rubbish fire in the basement.

The flames had burned wires and set off the burglar alarm. A bank official said some of the damaged wires also controlled business machines in the office.

Damage was estimated at $25. A watchman was placed on guard at the basement entrance of the bank for the remainder of the night because firemen had to force the door to enter.

$500 STOLEN IN BURGLARY AT LOAN COMPANY OFFICE

About $500 was taken in a burglary last night from a safe in the office of the Employees Loan and Investment Co., 3000A Easton avenue, Manager Hugh V. Robnett reported to police today.

Entrance was gained by forcing iron bars on a second-floor rear window that looks out over a porch roof which is accessible by an outside stairway, police said. The combination was knocked off the safe.

Also taken from Robnett's desk was a revolver owned by Dr. James E. Hurt, a physician, with offices on the same floor.

OFF-DUTY FIREMAN MAKES FIRE RESCUE

Throws Blanket on Woman in Apartment—Her Condition Serious.

Lloyd H. Fulgham, a city fireman, saved a woman from burning to death yesterday when he rushed into an apartment and threw a blanket over her burning clothing. He was off duty at the time.

Mrs. Irene Hester, 56-year-old saleswoman, was in serious condition at City Hospital today from burns over her entire body. Police said she was alive only because of Fulgham's quick work.

The fireman, a ladder man assigned to Hook and Ladder Co. 15, was in his second-floor apartment at 4356 Maryland avenue when his wife heard a sound as if someone had fallen in an apartment across the hall.

She looked out and saw smoke pouring through the ventilator door of Mrs. Hester's apartment. Mrs. Fulgham called her husband, who ran over and yanked open the locked door. He saw Mrs. Hester on the floor in the living room. Fulgham grabbed a blanket from a nearby couch, on which the woman apparently had been sleeping, and smothered the flames in her clothing.

In the meantime, he shouted to his wife to summon police and firemen. Mrs. Hester was rushed to the hospital in a police cruiser. Firemen were unable to determine how the woman's clothing caught fire, although there were cigarette burns in the carpet. She was unable to make a statement.

Fulgham has been a fireman for seven years.

NEW BOY SCOUT OFFICE OPENS

The new offices of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council at 505 Arcade building were officially opened today. Mayor Raymond R. Tucker and Willard R. Cox, council president, presided over a ribbon-cutting ceremony.

CORNERSTONE-LAYING HELD FOR AMES SCHOOL BUILDING

Cornerstone-laying ceremonies for the new Ames School, 2900 Hadley street, which will be able to enroll an estimated 1000 students when it opens next September, were held today.

The trowel used to lay the cornerstone was presented to Eugene S. Lehmann, principal of the old Ames School, 1313 Hebert street.

The new building, which will include a kindergarten and 24 classrooms, is the last school building to be built with funds from the 1951 bond issue.

STATE APPROVES DETAILS OF LOOP HIGHWAY PLAN

Commission Puts Cost at $17,000,000—Previous Estimate Was Only $12,500,000.

Details of the 18½-mile loop highway in St. Louis county proposed by the Federal Bureau of Public Roads to carry interstate traffic around the city have been approved by the Missouri State Highway Commission, it was announced at Jefferson City today.

Building of the highway loop depends on whether Congress enacts legislation authorizing a multi-million dollar national highway program. Cost of the St. Louis county section, estimated previously at $12,500,000, was placed at $17,000,000 by the State Highway Commission today.

The route approved by the Highway Commission begins in the Hazelwood community near the junction of Route 140 and By-pass U.S. 66, in the north section of the county. It extends southwesterly about four miles to an intersection with the proposed Mark Twain Expressway and then continues south about five and a half miles to Olive Street road (Route 340).

Continuing south 2.4 miles, the route will intersect Daniel Boone Expressway, west of Route JJ. The junction with Manchester road will be 2½ miles south of Boone Expressway. From there the route will be south and southeast 1.7 miles to terminate in a junction with the proposed Ozark Expressway, about one-half mile east of the Meramec river.

The loop highway will consist of two concrete pavements each 24 feet wide designed for speeds of 60 miles an hour. The right-of-way will have a minimum of 300 feet, with controlled access and outer roadways where necessary for local traffic.

Separation of traffic at crossroads will be as follows: Underpasses, with traffic interchanges, at Mark Twain Expressway, Dorset road, Lackland and Fee roads, Olive Street road, Clayton and Manchester roads, Big Bend road and Ozark Expressway; without traffic interchanges at Missouri Bottom road, Gist, McKelvey and Dougherty Ferry roads.

Overpasses with traffic interchanges: U. S. Route 40 (St. Charles road), Ladue road and Daniel Boone Expressway; without interchanges: Conway, Sugar Creek and Marshall roads. Overpasses also will bridge Overmire creek, Fee Fee creek and the Rock Island, Missouri Pacific and Frisco Railroads.

WOMAN HOLDS UP OIL STATION, ROBS TWO MEN OF $65

A woman held up two men at pistol point last night in a filling station at 4515 South Broadway, forcing them to hand over $65.

Charles Ratliff, the manager, told police he saw the woman, described as 30 years old, wearing a scarf and a dark blue coat, get out of an automobile across the street from the station. She walked into Ratliff's office, drew an automatic pistol from her purse and roughly ordered Ratliff and Donald Dugan, an attendant, into a washroom.

The robber took $35 from Ratliff and $30 from Dugan. When she left she slammed the door and told the pair to "stay in there." Ratliff looked out and saw her return to the automobile and drive north in Broadway.

MEDART'S ON KINGSHIGHWAY CLOSED, EQUIPMENT SOLD

Medart's Restaurant, 3427 South Kingshighway, has been closed, it was announced today. Phillip S. Medart, one of the owners, said the equipment has been sold at auction.

He said the business had been liquidated because it had been a financial liability for the last few years. Medart said he and his son, the late William S. Medart, started the restaurant two years after his son founded the Medart establishment at 7036 Clayton road in 1930.

Five State Colleges Seeking New Housing Under Bond Issue

Need for Additional Dormitories, as Well as Classrooms, Cited in Requests for $25,872,000.

By EDWARD H. THORNTON
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 18—The need for additional dormitories to house students, as well as classrooms in which to teach them, was stressed by officials of Missouri's five state-supported colleges in requesting a total of $25,872,000 of the proposed $75,000,000 bond issue to be submitted to the voters in a state-wide election next Tuesday.

"The housing problem soon will become insoluble unless additional dormitory space is provided for both men and women," Dean Forrest H. Rose of Southeast Missouri College at Cape Girardeau said in presenting requests for a total of $4,349,836 in bond funds for improvement at that institution.

More than $1,000,000 of the money asked for would be spent to build new dormitories. Estimated cost of a new women's dormitory to house 150 students was $587,096, and cost of a similar building for men was $500,696.

Dormitories the college now has are entirely inadequate and accommodations for students in the town have decreased in the last few years, Rose said. In many instances available rooms leave much to be desired, he said.

Rapid Rise in Enrollment

Enrollment has increased 60 per cent in the last two years and now stands at a level it was not expected to reach until 1959, he reported.

Since 1873, the total capital outlay by the state at the college has been $14,812. In addition the college has spent $1,178,212 in federal funds and money obtained from sale of revenue bonds on its plant.

"However," Rose said, "federal funds are exhausted and the earnings of the college are mortgaged to the hilt. If we prepare for today's needs and for tomorrow's tidal wave of students, the state will have to assume the burden of financing whatever preparation is made. There is no other source of revenue now practicable for us."

The Cape Girardeau institution asked for $1,691,280 for a new science building. The present structure used for this purpose was built in 1902 at a cost of $34,000 and is "overcrowded and dilapidated, as a 10-minute inspection would convince anyone," Rose said.

Funds also were asked for a new practical arts building and a physical education building for women.

Walter H. Ryle, president of Northeast State College at Kirksville, for which $5,279,594 has been requested, also stressed the need for housing facilities for students.

"The present demand for housing facilities is urgent," he said, "and in the immediate future with the constant increase in enrollment, our housing situation will become acute if additional facilities are not provided."

He asked for $445,000 for construction of a men's dormitory and $200,000 for a dormitory for married students.

Another long-time need at the college, Ryle said, is an auditorium to replace one that was destroyed by fire in 1924. Funds have been sought for this repeatedly but without success.

Another request Ryle made is for $1,485,000 for a physical education building which would include gymnasiums for both men and women. This is necessary, he said, to train students to meet the growing demand for teachers in this field.

Among other buildings for which funds were sought by Ryle is a classroom building which the college proposes to name as a memorial to Gen. John J. Pershing, who was an alumnus of the school.

Maryville's Requests

Northwest State College at Maryville asked for allotment of a total of $4,180,320 of the bond funds, if they are approved. Of this amount, $1,500,000 would be used to build dormitories for men and women, each of which would house 250 students.

George W. Diemer, president of Central State College at Warrensburg, asked for a total of $6,736,252, of which $5,320,000 would be for new buildings and $1,416,152 for repairs to existing structures.

"The simplest sort of arithmetic indicates the dire necessity of enlarging facilities at the state colleges," Roy Ellis, president of Southwest State College at Springfield, said. He asked for a total of $5,326,700 for that institution.

He pointed out that the birth rate in Missouri increased 60 per cent from 1933 to 1953 and said total enrollment at the college last fall was 2239, ten per cent more than had been estimated. He estimated enrollment would double in the next decade.

Lincoln University here asked for a total of $5,280,000 of the bond funds, nearly all of which would be used for new buildings including a fine arts building, gymnasium, education building, dining hall, student center and a science building.

TANKER BLOWS UP AT DOCK NEAR

blew another hatch off. Another hatch had not blown.

At 3 a.m. a tugboat surveying the cracked, flaming Salem Maritime noticed a flashlight waving at the rear. Pulling alongside, the tug found three seamen, who jumped overboard.

The three—Frank Toto, Brooklyn, N.Y.; George Emely, and Fred Gentry, addresses unavailable—had been trapped in the tanker's engine room for four hours. When gusts of winds blew flames away from their side of the tanker, they climbed out of the engine room and onto the deck where they signaled the tug.

The three were hospitalized for shock and minor burns.

Earlier in the morning another tug had picked up three men who jumped into the river. Crewmen John Knapstad of Avoca, Pa., one of them, said he was standing on the fantail of the ship with two other men but was unable to give any account of them after the blast.

The Salem Maritime had been scheduled to leave for Norfolk, Va. The tanker had been loading for almost six hours when the explosion occurred.

The ship's captain, identified by crew members as John Ruzman of Milton, Mass., was among those missing.

By International News Service.

Fred Gentry, a fireman and water tender aboard the Salem Maritime who was one of three men who spent four hours in the ship while flames raged around them, said today: "I feel like I just spent four hours in hell."

When the first explosion went off, Frank Toto, who also works in the engine room, was with me. We saw smoke oozing down the hatch but didn't think it was as serious as it turned out to be. Then, George Emely, the ship's first assistant, came down the hatch and told us we had better get out. He said a fire had started up forward where the explosion hit.

"We started to go up the hatch, but the smoke and flames kept us down. We felt like our best chance was to get on deck when we could, but the flames got worse."

"I could see the fire all around us, through the hatch and portholes. It got real hot for awhile. But we stood our ground and waited, trying not to think that we might not get out alive. I did think that once or twice, but tried to brush it away from my mind."

We spent our time mostly looking up at that hatch waiting for the flames to die down. We waited until 3 a.m. The ship exploded at 10:25, they tell me. That's a long time.

"Finally the wind shifted and the fire started going down. As soon as it got cool enough we went to a porthole and shouted for help. A tug pulled up near the ship. We dashed up through the hatch and leaped on that tug. The deck was so hot it burned our feet through our shoes. But I don't feel like I'm hurt too bad."

EDEN SPEAKS ABOUT DANGER

However, Eden did not mention the forthcoming talks with Mr. Eisenhower. Neither did he comment on the "brink-of-war" statements of United States Secretary of State Dulles quoted in Life magazine.

Opposition members have posed a formal parliamentary question resigned to make Eden take a stand on those statements before he leaves for Washington.

He hit back against opponents of his administration with a declaration that "this government is not on the way out."

"We were elected not for six or eight months but for five years," he said. "I intend—if God wills—to be there on that day."

Eden's critics have accused him of "dithering" since he succeeded Sir Winston Churchill as Prime Minister last spring. The critics have included politicians and newspapers of his own and opposition parties.

Concentrating his fire on domestic issues, Eden drew the

RED CHINA BARS
U.S. PROPOSAL

China are determined that they will settle disputes between them through peaceful gestures, and that, without prejudice to the inherent right of individual and collective self-defense, they will not resort to the threat or use of force in the Taiwan (Formosa) area or elsewhere.

"The two Ambassadors (Johnson and Wang Ping-nan for Red China) should continue their talks to seek practical and feasible means for the realization of this common desire."

The spokesman said "our side absolutely cannot accept" the idea that the United States has the "inherent right of individual and collective self-defense" in the Formosa area.

Red China claims Formosa and maintains its "liberation" is an internal matter.

The spokesman requested that Red China "will continue to strive for the liberation of Taiwan by peaceful means, so far as it is possible." But he added Formosa "cannot possibly be a subject of the Chinese-American talks" at Geneva.

Peiping said Johnson presented his plan as a "joint" proposal and asked for Red China's approval. The talks began Aug. 1 and agreement was reached on releasing nationals of both sides who wish to go home.

Red China still holds at least 13 Americans which it had promised to release "expeditiously." It now says none can be released until their sentences for "crimes" have been served. Peiping also accuses the United States of holding Chinese students against their will, a charge denied by the State Department.

A dispatch from Geneva today said India's moving Ambassador, V. K. Krishna Menon met yesterday with Wang after the meeting. Menon said he discussed with Wang the statements made here by Johnson and Wang.

Wang is to meet Johnson again tomorrow. The two have been meeting weekly.

Earlier, Peiping had attacked Dulles for the recent Life magazine "brink of war" interview, asserting the Secretary of State "exposes himself through his fabrications as an exponent of war."

The Red China official radio, quoting an editorial in the leading Communist newspaper, People's Daily, also said the Red China offensive in the last days of the Korean war forced the United Nations to sign the truce.

The broadcast said the Communist capture of Dien Bien Phu in Indo-China dealt a "fatal blow" to United States criminal schemes to expand the Indochina war.

The broadcast condemned the "United States-Chiang Kai-shek so-called mutual defense treaty" for Formosa. "Shortly after the signing of this war treaty," it said, "the Chinese People's Liberation Army liberated Yichangshan and Nanchang islands, forcing the Chiang Kai-shek bandit forces to withdraw from the Tachens and Nanchang islands."

"The Chinese people are determined to liberate Taiwan (Formosa)," it added. "No amount of intimidation by the United States can make the Chinese people alter their stand."

"It might be asked," the broadcast said, "where did Dulles' deterrent policy have any effect?"

"Big U. S. Defeat." The broadcast called the Korean War "the first big defeat in U. S. military history since 1812."

Peiping said the United States lost more than 390,000 officers and men in the Korean war. "This figure exceeded the broad lines of new government policies aimed at halting inflation. He said he was working toward a solution.

"But," he added, "there is no slick solution. You cannot fight inflation without pain."

The defense department on Nov. 5, 1954, listed United States battle casualties in Korea at 142,091. This included 23,300 killed in action, 105,785 wounded and 13,005 missing.

elections, one on the question of whether freeholders should be elected as well as the two required under the bill.

In addition, the proponents are not too concerned by the apparent attempt of the Niemeyer bill to prevent the freeholders from recommending changes in the so-called "state" offices, controlled by the politicians.

They contend the issue of whether freeholders can deal with these patronage offices will have to be decided through a test suit, regardless of the method followed in setting up a board of freeholders.

However, if the aldermen fail to pass the Niemeyer bill, Mayor Tucker is expected to proceed vigorously with his plans for the circulation of initiative petitions, as the only course left open for modernization of the charter.

Tucker reported today he is continuing to receive a heavy volume of mail and telephone calls from citizens supporting his efforts. He said the charter matter has provoked a greater public response than his campaigns for the earnings tax and the $110,639,000 civic improvement bond issue.

COUNTY TRAFFIC PLAN OFFERED BY BAUGHMAN

Planning Chief Calls for System of One-Way Streets Co-ordinated With St. Louis.

Creation of a system of one-way streets in St. Louis county, to be co-ordinated with the master traffic control plan in St. Louis, was recommended today by M. Eugene Baughman, county planning director.

Baughman gave the St. Louis County Council a report outlining a 10-point program which he urged should be effected immediately to improve traffic conditions in the county.

Only Temporary Measures. His report recommended "complete co-ordination" of traffic relief measures in the county with the city's master control plan, although he said one-way streets should be considered only temporary measures until permanent steps are taken.

Baughman cautioned that a one-way street system would work only if various municipalities co-operate in eliminating on-street parking in heavily traveled areas.

Another recommendation in his report, described as a "traffic pilot study," was for immediate establishment of "universal right-turn installations at critical areas."

Baughman proposed the creation of a central traffic research and records agency, which would serve as fact-gathering organization, analyze traffic and accident data, and recommend relief and control measures to county agencies.

Adoption of a uniform accident form by all county agencies was also recommended to the council by Baughman.

He urged that studies be made to determine:

If progressive or synchronized electric traffic signals should be installed on some major county streets.

Whether restrictions on commercial vehicles on streets also traveled by passenger automobiles are "jeopardizing the economy of the county."

If condemnation proceedings are required to connect major roads in areas where connections are blocked by private streets or other factors.

Central Agency Urged. Baughman said the regulation of major and secondary highways and "collector" streets in the county should be co-ordinated under a central agency, although he felt that control of minor streets could remain under local jurisdiction.

Bond issue funds approved by the voters should be utilized as soon as possible for construction of highways and other planned relief measures, the report stated.

The planning commissioner listed a number of factors which, he said, made unified traffic control difficult, even though desirable, between the city and county.

These obstacles include the "multiple jurisdictions" over the 2400 miles of streets and roads in the county; varying standards of street design among the county's 96 municipalities; and the area's rugged, hilly topography.

Baughman also said the St. Louis master control plan "increased the spill of traffic" from the city into the county.

Council Requested Study. Baughman's report resulted from a request by the County Council last August for a study of traffic speed limits and stop signs in the county. His report went beyond this request, alas he earlier alleged—Britain had a change of heart about united action in Indochina.

The News Chronicle declared that when the news conference ended, "the smoke was so thick it was difficult to see where any of the original points had got to."

The correspondent for The Times commented "there was a fascination about Mr. Dulles's talk."

The Daily Telegraph, however, turned its fire on Life magazine. It said through Dulles's remarks, the article was "cut down to size" as an "oversimplified, overemphasized, unauthorized and at times not too well phrased piece of journalism."

In Berlin, Communist East German Premier Grotewohl attacked Dulles before the East German parliament.

Grotewohl said the Life interview had stirred a "wave of revolution" throughout the world and showed that American foreign policy was a "contradiction" to the "peaceful interests of the Asian people and the people of the whole world."

TWO WHO TRIED TO BREAK JAIL GET PRISON SENTENCES

John R. Jervis, one of two men who tried to escape from St. Louis county jail last Sunday, was sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary yesterday by Circuit Judge Raymond E. LaDriere at Clayton. He pleaded guilty of the burglary of a Kirkwood automobile agency last Sept. 4.

Jervis's companion in the attempted escape, Dean William Hancock, pleaded guilty to the burglary of a Crestwood filling station last July 30. He was sentenced to five years on that charge, and two years on a charge of carrying concealed weapons; the sentences to run concurrently.

Charges of attempted jail break against the two defendants were dropped. After his sentencing, Jervis told the court that a 17-year-old youth who is alleged to have mailed three hacksaw blades to him and Hancock had done so while under a "hypnotic spell."

Jervis told the court he was an accomplished hypnotist and had been practicing the skill "all over the country and in shows for 16 years."

2 MUNICIPALITIES, SHRINERS BUY SALVAGE CORPS TRUCKS

The three trucks and most other equipment of the Underwriters' Salvage Corps have been sold to municipal fire departments and other concerns for from 12 to 15 per cent of value, John J. O'Toole, a member of the organization's executive committee, said yesterday.

The corps, which ceased operations Dec. 31, sold one truck to University City and a second to Hazelwood. The third, an older model, was purchased by the Moolah Temple Shrine organization, for display in parades, O'Toole said.

Also disposed of were about 400 canvas covers, used to protect merchandise in fires, and 11 new firemen's beds. Some sawdust and tarpaper was given to the city of St. Louis.

O'Toole said value of all equipment was about $200,000. Bids are being taken on the corps' building, 3321 Locust street, he added.

though he said it was still only of a "pilot nature" because of limited personnel and facilities in his office.

Questionnaires seeking information to be used in drawing up a uniform traffic code for the county were mailed yesterday to all county cities, towns and villages by the County League of Municipalities.

AMERICAN INDIAN GIRL MAY BE BEATIFIED SOON

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 18 (UPI)—The Catholic church may proclaim a North American Indian girl who died 200 years ago as blessed within a year, Vatican sources said yesterday. It would make Catherine Tekakwitha, "Lily of the Mohawks," the first North American Indian to achieve beatification.

Her case has been under way since 1883. A medical commission has approved one of two miracles needed and documents on a second reported miracle are on their way here from the United States.

SOIL BANK BILL MAKES BENSON ABSOLUTE BOSS

Measure Would Give Him Power to Set Up Rules, Fix Payment Rates.

By WILLIAM M. BLAIR
The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — The Administration presented to Congress yesterday a bill that would make Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft-Henson the absolute boss of a farm-aid soil bank.

It would grant him power to set up rules and regulations to cover almost every phase of the program. This wide authority would include the rate of payments to farmers who agree to reduce surplus-producing acres and the limits on participation by individual farms.

The measure did not spell out the Administration's ideas on how payments would be calculated or other operation details. It gave no indication of a possible level for payments in cash or kind to achieve a cut in surplus production and make room in markets to absorb government-held stocks of cotton, wheat, corn and rice.

Committee Action Likely.
Informed congressional sources asserted it was certain the Senate Agriculture Committee would limit the power of the Secretary of Agriculture under the bill. These sources expected the Administration to show the committee shortly some of its figuring on operations of the soil bank.

Department of Agriculture experts still were wrestling with rates of payment in the effort to make the plan attractive to farmers in this presidential election year. So far the plan is to pay a farmer something more than the net income he would receive if he harvested the acres he agrees to withdraw from production. This phase of the program is known as the acreage reserve.

A second phase is a long-range conservation reserve. Under the conservation reserve, farmers would be paid for retiring land and putting it into soil-building grasses, trees and water-saving devices.

Shift in Payment Time.
Meanwhile, it was learned that Benson had shifted the time that payments would be made for the acreage reserve of wheat, cotton, corn and rice from harvest to planting time.

This was brought about by adverse reaction of Republican farm state members of Congress. They complained that little, if any money, would reach farmers this year. This would be well after the November elections. The corn harvest in midwestern states, for example, starts late in November.

Senator George D. Aiken of Vermont, ranking Republican of the Senate Agriculture Committee, introduced the bill in the Senate. Five of the six other G.O.P. members of the Committee joined in offering the bill with the understanding they were not committed to it in every detail.

The lone Republican committee member whose name was not on the bill was Senator John J. Williams of Delaware. He said there was no significance in the omission. He said he had been asked, but failed to get to the bill before it was introduced because of several committee meetings.

Asked if he was committed to the soil bank, he replied that he did not understand all of its features and would study it more before making a decision.

Other Farm Aid.
The proposed legislation also included other presidential recommendations aimed at aiding farmers. These included additions to surplus disposal methods and repeal of the federal tax on gasoline used on farms.

In a letter of transmittal accompanying the bill, Benson wrote Aiken that the Agriculture Department had been advised by the Budget Bureau that legislation along the lines of the draft "would be in accord with the program of the President." He also said:

"The bill, in conjunction with certain measures already pending in the Congress, covers the points in the (farm) message for which the President urged legislative action to help our farmers in their valiant efforts to reverse the severe five-year decline that has taken place in our farm economy."

By the Associated Press.
Chairman Allen J. Ellender (Dem.), Louisiana, laid before the Senate Agriculture Committee a catch-all draft of proposals which he said "gives us something to work on."

Ellender explained there was nothing final about this draft, that it "has not received the sanction of the committee or any of its members."

The Ellender draft proposed:
1. A return to high-level rigid farm price supports for basic commodities when they are "not in surplus." These supports would be conditioned upon farmer approval of crop controls.

2. A soil bank program under which the Secretary of Agriculture could buy, rent or use other methods to retire farm land now producing surplus crops.

3. A system of graduated supports intended to give small farmers a higher percentage of supports than large producers.

Benson and Harriman Trade Verbal Blows.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 18 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Gov. Averell Harriman, self-styled "inactive" candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, traded long-range verbal pot shots here yesterday.

Apples, a major New York crop, were the subject of dispute as the two men made separate appearances at the 101st annual meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society.

Harriman demanded that Benson start a federal apple-purchase plan immediately. The Secretary refused, saying the law forbade it.

The Secretary departed from the text of his speech last night to say that "the same people who handed us our neat package of carefully fused bombs are blaming us for the explosions."

Responding to a statement by former President Harry S. Truman, Benson said:

"This Administration has been kept busy for nearly three years putting out the fires, cleaning up the debris and attempting to rebuild our agricultural economy on a solid foundation."

Truman said last week that

Benson and President Eisenhower had created the present farm problem and had not inherited it from the Truman Administration.

NEW U.S. 67 SIGNS ERECTED AT GRAVOIS, LOUGHBOROUGH

New signs for U.S. Highway 67 have been erected at Gravois and Loughborough avenues, ending confusion for many motorists, who found themselves on Highway 30 in St. Louis county when they wanted to be on Highway 67.

The city placed a new traffic signal at Gravois and Loughborough but made no provision for a left turn from Gravois into Loughborough, which route 67 follows south. At the same time a Highway 67 sign at the intersection was removed.

The State Highway Department put the new signs at Gravois and Loughborough directing Route 67 traffic over Cecil place to Salzburger avenue, where a left turn can be made into Loughborough and Route 67.

EAST GERMANY ESTABLISHES 'PEOPLE'S' ARMY

Force Will Be Allied With Soviet Bloc and Presumably Have Atom Weapons.

BERLIN, Jan. 18 (UP)—Communist East German tonight approved formation of a new "people's" armed force of land, sea and air arms for inclusion in the Soviet-led Red alliance of satellite countries. In contrast to the long, bitter debate in the West German Parliament before it approved remilitarization, the rubber stamp East Zone Parliament today voted open rearmament without a dissenting voice after a two-hour debate. The Reds said they took their action to counter establishment in West Germany of an "American-led mercenary aggressive army."

Reds Have Jump.
In fact, the Communists began remilitarization in 1949 when they set up their police army, which now numbers 120,000 men. Thus, the Communists have the jump on West Germany, for they can swiftly convert their so-called "barracks people's police" into open armed forces.

Deputy Premier Willi Stoph told the Red zone Parliament that the force will be "limited in size" but will possess the most modern techniques that military science can provide. This was taken to include atomic weapons.

He said that Soviet occupation troops, believed to number about 200,000, would remain in the Soviet zone despite the official establishment of the East German armed force.

Parliament ruled the East German armed forces will wear the field gray uniform in which Nazi troops swept over Europe, "to correspond to the national traditions of our people."

The so-called "barracks people's police," in reality an army, has 100,000 men in four motorized infantry divisions and three armored divisions with some 1000 tanks. It also has an air force of 10,000 men and a navy of 20,000 men.

The Red press and radio had paved the way for the action by reporting that "factory workers, farmers and youths" were demanding that Communist East Germany recruit an army.

Expected to be Minister. It was believed that Stoph would be named defense minister. He attended the Parliament meeting in a people's police uniform with three stars on his shoulders.

The Communists were expected to use their police army as a cadre in building up the new Red force. However, Western intelligence officials doubted that East Germany, with a population of 18,000,000 persons, could raise more than a 350,000-man force.

By contrast, West Germany has agreed to raise 12 divisions for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but this force will not be trained for several years.

GOOD BUSINESS YEAR FORECAST BY ECONOMIST

Although business activity may fall off after a few months, 1956 should be a good year, William H. Kester, economist on the staff of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, declared last night. Addressing the St. Louis chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants at Hotel Sheraton, he said home building will continue to decline, reflecting reduced availability of mortgage credit, and merchants are expected to ease up on accumulation of inventory during the latter part of the year. Reduced automobile buying is anticipated.

Over-all declines are expected to be moderate, however, he said, and while activity may not measure up to the current boom rates, taken as a whole it should be a prosperous year.

SIX MORE CANDIDATES FILE

Six additional candidates have filed nominating petitions for trustee of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District. In the April 10 primary election, it was reported today.

The candidates, all Democrats, are: Kenneth T. Ogle, Granite City, and Dan E. Costello, Lawrence T. Tolar, George Duff, John E. Molla and Charles Johnson, of East St. Louis.

Flashes of Life

Roller by Police?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A convicted gambler filed suit against Oklahoma City Police Chief Roy Bergman to recover 406 dice seized in a raid by officers.

Harold Loving was fined $40 the day after the raid in which officers took the dice, which they say are loaded.

Bergman estimates the dice are worth at least $1000, and says he doesn't intend to give them up.

Reel Story.

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP)—When Hart Stuart dropped his new glass fly rod overboard while fishing on Torch lake last summer, he gave it up for lost.

When ice skating over 20 feet of water this week he spotted the rod. With a companion he cut a hole and fished it out—rod, reel and line.

Nothing Fishy!

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 18 (AP)—State Senator Edward E. Haddock of Richmond has been appointed to the Virginia General Assembly's fish and game committee.

BRIDGES BACKS FULBRIGHT BILL ON GAS PRICING

Fellow Republican Opposes Measure — Sponsors Against Amendments.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Debate on proposed legislation to exempt independent natural gas producers from federal price regulation in the field was in its third day today with Democratic sponsors of the legislation boasting of powerful Republican backing.

A major development along this line occurred late yesterday when Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and the ranking Republican member of the body in terms of tenure, vigorously threw his support to the measure, introduced by Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas. Bridges emphasized he was speaking as an individual Senator and not as a party leader.

Speaking in the name of "free enterprise," Bridges asserted that "the continued emphasis on more federal laws to protect the public seems to me to be wrong on several grounds. Continued increases in federal agencies, the concomitant of more federal laws, tends to destroy our system of a federated republic," he asserted.

He Favored Kerr Bill.

Bridges' action came as no surprise since he had voted for a similar measure, known as the Kerr bill, which was passed by the Senate but vetoed by President Truman in 1950.

The attack by Bridges on price regulation at the well-head as adverse to free enterprise was hotly protested by Senator William A. Purtell of Connecticut, a Republican, who has announced his opposition to the bill.

Pointing out that he, too, is a New Englander, Purtell said that free enterprise to him meant free competition and free determination by a purchaser as to from whom he would buy.

In the natural gas production industry, he said, there are no such elements. "There is no competition in natural gas production," Purtell said. "And, until there is, the Federal Government must protect the consumers through price regulation. The producers are collecting 10 cents a thousand cubic feet today and it may be 30 cents if the price regulation is removed. We are not protecting competitive capitalism through this bill. We are injuring it."

Amendments Opposed.

Meanwhile, it became apparent that floor managers for the Fulbright bill would follow a strategy of refusing to accept amendments to the measure.

This course of action is intended to forestall another full scale debate in the House which might take place if the Fulbright bill went back to Senate-House conference for adjustment of any substantial differences between the Senate bill and one passed last summer by the House.

The House bill was approved by a margin of only six votes—203 to 209—despite terrific pressure put behind it by Speaker Sam Rayburn (Dem.), Texas.

By restricting Senate amendments to technical changes of a minor nature the anti-regulation forces hope to obtain House concurrence without opening the main issue up to debate again, thus avoiding the risk of the House rejecting the bill.

New Language Offered.

Senator John O. Pastore (Dem.), Rhode Island, a vigorous opponent of the measure, suggested that new language in the bill governing the producer prices that could be reflected in rates charged by pipeline companies.

As the bill is written, the Federal Power Commission would have the authority to fix rates reflecting no more than "a reasonable market price" to be paid by the pipelines to independent producers. Pastore wanted this language changed to "a just and reasonable" price.

Fulbright dismissed Pastore's suggestion as "utterly worthless."

Fulbright said that "just and reasonable" price meant something quite specific in law—cost - plus - reasonable - return, which this bill is attempting to get away from.

Pastore asserted that the "sleeper" in the bill is the provision that application of controls begins at the point where the gas is sold to the pipeline for interstate transmission, rather than at the well-head.

Fulbright Argument.

Fulbright countered with the argument that continuation of present controls at the well-head—as decreed by the United States Supreme Court in 1954—would mean less gas eventually because producers would be reluctant to explore for new supplies under such regulations. This, he said, would lead inevitably to a price rise for the consumer.

Senator Prescott Bush (Rep.), Connecticut, told Fulbright that he would like to see amendments in the bill specifically spelling out what factors the FPC would take into consideration in determining "reasonable market value." But Fulbright again was unresponsive, replying that regulatory bodies have had ample precedent for defining such a phrase.

Senator Paul H. Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, floor manager for the pro-regulation forces, challenged the method of regulation to be set up under the Fulbright measure. He charged that the bill contained a "built-in" inducement to pipeline companies to pay higher prices to independent producers.

More than 20 per cent of gas production is from wells owned by pipelines, Douglas said. By giving the independents a boost in price, he argued, the pipeline owners automatically would be giving themselves a price rise at the production end of their operation.

Increased Volume Urged.
Bridges, in his speech, said that "consumers must look to increased volumes of natural gas if they hope to get lower prices and more of this convenient fuel."

He took up where Fulbright and Senator A. S. Mike Monroney (Dem.), Oklahoma, floor manager for the bill, had left off, in arguing that "there is room for substantial or even large reductions in local distributors' margin and for reduction in pipeline charges by increasing the volume of natural gas handled. This is the only hope of substantial price relief for the consumer," he said.

Bridges said the average price in New England to the consumer is $2.40 per thousand cubic feet of natural gas which cost only 10 cents at the well-head.

REDS REPORTED OFFERING ARMS TO AFGHANISTAN

Czechoslovakia Believed to Have Suggested Deal for Modern Weapons.

LONDON, Jan. 18 (UP)—Czechoslovakia has offered Communist arms to Afghanistan, the strategic kingdom on the flank of the Baghdad pact defense alliance, authoritative sources said today.

It was Czechoslovakia's arms deal with Egypt that upset the Western-sponsored military balance in the Middle East. The latest offer appeared aimed at further undermining the West's defense grouping.

Diplomatic sources said the Czechs offered a wide range of modern weapons to Afghanistan immediately after Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev visited the kingdom last month.

Other Aid Offered. Russia also has made it known to Kabul that arms and other aid would be available if Afghanistan asks, these sources said. So far the Afghan Government has not decided whether to accept the Czech offer or take up the Soviet hints.

Three sources said Afghanistan has approached both the United States and Britain seeking military supplies but has received no answer.

Egypt also sought increased arms shipments from the West before accepting the Czech deal. The requests were refused under the Big Three policy of seeking to maintain a military balance between the Arab nations and Israel to prevent a new outbreak of the Palestine war.

Afghanistan is reported increasingly anxious to strengthen its defenses. It is wedged between Iran and Pakistan, both members of the Baghdad pact, and has a long frontier with Russia.

Pakistan Dispute. Complicating relations with Pakistan is a dispute over the status of several million Pathan tribesmen. Presently the Pathans are under Pakistan rule, but Afghanistan wants self-determination for them within an independent state of Pushtoonistan.

The visit of Bulganin and Khrushchev a few weeks ago highlighted the interest of Russia in Afghanistan. The Soviet leaders were reported to have exerted no pressure on the Kabul Government, but extended the 1937 treaty of neutrality and non-aggression by 10 years. In addition, a Soviet offer of a $1,000,000 loan was accepted by the Afghan Government.

M'KAY SAYS IMMIGRANTS HAVE HELPED DEVELOP U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (UP)—Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay says immigrants have "contributed enormously to the shaping of America."

He made the statement in a speech yesterday before the women's auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. McKay praised the organization for its support of a project to establish an American museum of immigration at the base of the Statue of Liberty.

"Many Americans who were immigrants themselves or who were of immigrant extraction have become leaders in industry," McKay said. "Some have added to American culture through their own talents in the arts."

"Fine craftsmen have enabled America to pace the world in science and related fields—many of these craftsmen bringing their special skills from other lands. In a single number of immigrant descendants have served in the nation's highest political offices."

JACKET FOUND IN AUTO OF KILLED RADAR EXPERT

BOSTON, Jan. 18 (UP)—Smudged fingerprints and a blood-smeared jacket were examined by police today in connection with the killing of a Cumberland (Mr.) radar expert. Robert H. Himmeler was shot to death Saturday after picking up a hitchhiker. His body was found in a cemetery at Georgetown, northeast of Boston. His automobile was found abandoned here and police said the jacket, found in the auto, may have belonged to the killer.

A check with Himmeler's employers was made yesterday after the victim's wife reported that Himmeler was carrying "top secret" radar documents. However, the Bendix radio division in Baltimore said Himmeler was assigned to an unclassified project, "assisting with the construction and installation of radar equipment which also was unclassified."

Bendix security officer T. H. O'Connor said there "was no reason for Himmeler to be in possession of classified documents and as far as we can determine, he carried none."

14 MOVIES OF YEAR PICKED BY BRITISH FILM ACADEMY

LONDON, Jan. 18 (UP)—The British Film Academy has nominated 14 "films of the year." It was announced today. Seven of the films are British, five American, one Italian and one Japanese.

The American films are "Bad Day at Black Rock," "Carmen Jones," "East of Eden," "Mary" and "Summer Madness." The British films are "The Colditz Story," "The Dam Busters," "The Ladykillers," "The Night My Number Came Up," "The Prisoner," "Richard III" and "Simba." The Italian film "La Strada" and Japanese "Seven Samurai" also were named.

RUSSIA IS MAJOR U.S. NAVAL RIVAL, ADM. BURKE SAYS

'We Cannot Afford a Holiday,' He Tells House Group—Seeks Shipbuilding Fund.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, told Congress today Soviet Russia has become the major naval rival to the United States and "we cannot afford a holiday."

Burke urged the House Armed Services committee to approve a bill to authorize nearly $1,500,000,000 worth of ship construction. The Navy proposes to build another 60,000-ton supercarrier; an atom-powered cruiser that would be the world's first surface warship driven by nuclear power, and other ships.

Burke testified that Russia's drive for naval power "is the most significant development in Soviet grand strategy since World War II." He said it was obvious the U.S.S.R. wants to be in position "to prevent United States naval forces and shipping from entering the waters surrounding Europe and Asia."

The Russians now have more than 400 submarines and are commissioning 75 to 85 new ones a year; they also have been building more destroyers and cruisers since World War II than all the rest of the world combined, Burke testified.

Wants Larger Cruiser.
He said the proposals before Congress reflect emphasis on United States naval air striking power and continue the trend toward a nuclear propelled navy, "which we intend to accelerate each year."

He asked Congress to increase the size of the guided missile cruiser which the Navy wants to build as its first atom-powered surface ship. Originally planned for 9000 tons, it would be increased to 11,000.

Burke said the Navy wants to accelerate the integration of guided missiles into the fleet. In addition to the atom ship, the building program calls for four guided missile frigates of 4000 tons each and eight destroyers of 3000 tons each.

Chairman Vinson (Dem., Georgia), estimated the cost of the construction, that would be authorized by the bill, at about $1,429,000,000 or about $110,000,000 more than last year's program.

Burke said the proposed new 60,000 ton Forrestal class carrier, which would be the sixth of its kind, would not be obsolete when atomic ship engines are developed. He added that the present bill calls for designing a nuclear power plant for a carrier.

Aims at Nuclear Fleet.
Then he said the Navy is moving as fast as possible towards a nuclear fleet, and noted the present bill calls for six more atom driven submarines. He said "we must therefore build a minimum of one new attack carrier a year."

Burke said older carriers are becoming obsolete year by year and estimated that by 1959 "we will have only 14 carriers fully able to operate the advanced naval aircraft of the day."

He said this compares with 15 carriers now geared to present day aircraft.

After 1966, Burke said, only the big Forrestal class carriers and those subsequently developed will be adequate.

As for the vulnerability of big carriers, Burke said no target is proof against successive nuclear attack but he added that the supercarrier has "speed and freedom of movement" in a good position to avoid attack, and can absorb much punishment.

INDIGENT TEACHER QUILTS WITH $32,000 ON QUIZ PROGRAM

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—Mrs. Mabel Morris, an elderly but no longer indigent retired school teacher, chose last night to retire with the $32,000 she had won on a quiz show, rather than risk it for $64,000.

Mrs. Morris, 74 years old, lives in a city-subsidized home for the aged. She said "when the doctors held my hand I was feeling very romantic, but I find out they were testing my pulse and they think it's too much strain for me to continue."

She exhibited no strain in preceding weeks on the CBS television show, "The $64,000 Question." She rattled off answers to complicated questions about Charles Dickens' works to reach the $32,000 level.

London-born Mrs. Morris has said she will repay the Welfare department some $7000 it has spent for her support in the last few years.

ILLINOIS POLICE CHIEF IS SHIFTED, LIKES NEW POST

Phil M. Brown Denies Raids Brought About Transfer to Traffic Safety Job.

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 18
—Illinois State Police Superintendent Phil M. Brown, whose sudden transfer to a highway traffic safety job effective Feb.
1 was announced yesterday, insisted today the new assignment is "right down my alley."
He expressed satisfaction with the change, ordered by Gov.
William G. Stratton. The Governor and Brown both said gambling and raids by the state police had nothing to do with the transfer.

In the new job, as assistant to Robert G. Campbell, state traffic coordinator in the traffic safety division, Department of Public Safety, Brown will have the same salary he has been receiving, $8000 a year.
The assistant superintendent of state police, William H. Morris, was appointed to serve as acting superintendent, when Brown steps aside, and Governor Stratton said Morris might continue on a permanent basis if he performs his duties satisfactorily.

Headed Two Districts.
Morris is a career officer, and has been in the department since 1945. Before his transfer to headquarters last summer he was a captain in command of District No. 2 at Joliet and
No. 5 at Elgin.
Brown is to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Paul Dowling of Jacksonville, for reasons of health.

The police superintendent said he and the Governor reached a "perfect understanding" yesterday, and that although he did not ask for the transfer it suited him "very fine."

He said there was no issue between them over gambling or anything else. As for gambling, Brown added, "I believe Illinois is as clean as it has ever been."
Brown has been superintendent since January 1953. He formerly was district manager of a livestock firm at Quincy, and had been a policeman in his home city of Watseka and sheriff of Iroquois county.

Denies Planning Shakeup.
Governor Stratton said yesterday Brown has done a good job of ordering state police raids on gambling places when local officers did nothing about them, and his transfer does not mean that a shakeup of the department will follow.

Brown had a part in a recent controversy that led to the suspension of Capt. Henry W. Es-trom, commander of a district including 13 northern counties, with headquarters at Sterling.
Engstrom maintained at the time that he was suspended because he wanted more vigorous action against gamblers. In a hearing before the state police merit board, he pleaded guilty to charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, insubordination and disrespect of superior officers.

Plans 'Careful Look.'
Although maintaining that no shakeup of the state police is in prospect, the Governor said he was going to "have a careful look" at the district commands.
"I want my policies as Governor carried out through the districts, particularly as they concern highway safety," he said, adding that Brown's handling of the department had "not been quite as effective as I had hoped."

Brown was criticized last year for permitting the weight of trucks to be 1000 pounds over the legal limit. He said he did it to allow for accumulation of snow and ice on trucks.

The Governor demanded a report not only on that but on all work of the department.
After he received it he said he was generally satisfied.
The superintendent also was criticized for hiring a motion picture firm which had a former convict as an agent, to make safety films, and for being too lenient with two state police captains involved in a nightclub brawl.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB VOTES TO DELAY ANY INDOORMENT

The Hadley Township Democratic Club voted last night against a pre-convention indorsement of any candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination this year, George Roudebush, club president, announced.

Members of the group, meeting at county Democratic headquarters, 7807 Forsyth boulevard, Clayton, adopted a resolution asserting that it is "too early" to express an opinion on any of the potential candidates for President. A majority of the county Democratic committeeman have endorsed Senator Stuart Symington as Missouri's "favorite son" candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Mrs. Roy Greenbaum resigned recently as Democratic committeewoman of Hadley township to work with citizen groups in behalf of Adlai E.
Stevenson for the nomination.
She said she thought that Symington was a "fine" Senator, but she favors Stevenson for the presidential nomination.

man of the joint chiefs of staff,

REDS' SHOWING IS POOR IN LATIN AMERICAN TRADE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)— South American officials met with Russia's newest trade overtures against a record showing more promise than performance.

Available figures list 18 trade agreements between South American countries and the Soviet bloc. For 1955, these envisaged a total of nearly a half billion dollars in trade.

Performance totals have not yet been fully tallied, but the actual trade in previous years was considerably lower. In 1954 the total was less than $250,000, in 1953 about $70,000,000.
Argentina and Brazil account for the lion's share of Soviet trade in Latin America.
Argentina had deals involving trade goals amounting to $263,000,000 for 1955 with Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Poland, Romania and Russia. Brazil's arrangements with Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland had a total goal of $85,000,000.

Available records show the Communists scored 55 per cent fulfillment on Argentine commitments in 1955, 42 per cent on those with Brazil.

A.A.A. INDORSES PAY AS YOU BUILD ROAD PROGRAM

15-Year Plan Provides Half-Cent Rise in U.S. Gasoline Tax
Other Truck Levies

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The American Automobile Association called today for a 15-year "pay as you build" highway construction program financed by a half-cent increase in the federal gasoline tax and higher taxes on heavy trucks.

The organization of motorists, which claims 5,000,000 members, said the Federal Government should spend $8,875,000,000 on new highways in the first five-year phase of the program and suggested Congress review the program each five years.

To finance the federal contribution, the A.A.A. proposed the half-cent increase in the present federal gasoline tax of two cents a gallon, an increase of two cents a gallon on diesel fuel and higher tax rates on tires, inner tubes, lubricating oil and tire retreading material.

The sharpest increases proposed would come on tires, tubes and retreading used by heavy trucks. The A.A.A. proposed a one-cent increase on these items for passenger vehicles, a five-cent rise for large trucks.

Motorists to Pay Most.

"While motorists are still going to pay by far the greatest share of the program," the statement said, "the tax schedule suggested by the A.A.A. would result in the heavy trucks making a slightly larger proportional contribution."

At present, the A.A.A. said, taxes on articles used by heavy trucks account for 23.2 per cent of federal revenue from this source. Under the proposed schedule, this would be increased to 26.2 per cent.

The "A.A.A. motorists' program for better highways" was outlined by Andrew J. Sordani of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., president of the organization. He said it might serve as a compromise between rival highway plans which led to a stalemate in the last session of Congress, at which no major new road-building program was approved.

The A.A.A. was the second organization to present its highway program in advance of President Eisenhower's recommendations to the new session. The Committee for Economic Development, a private business research group, has proposed a one-cent gasoline tax increase to finance a 20-year building program. The C.E.D. rejected the borrowing approach recommended a year ago by a presidential commission.

Opposes Borrowing.

A spokesman for the A.A.A. told the Post-Dispatch the organization's "pay as you build" proposal constituted a rejection of the borrowing plan endorsed by Mr. Eisenhower. The A.A.A. also differed from the Administration in suggesting a 15-year construction program.

Mr. Eisenhower last year proposed a 10-year building program to be financed with bonds issued by a Federal Highway Authority. Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks has indicated the Administration may modify this borrowing plan in its recommendations this year.

The A.A.A. said its program "recognizes that future generations will have their own road needs to pay for, and hence does not shift the cost for meeting today's road needs on to their shoulders."

Estimated federal revenue from the proposed tax increase would be $9,370,000,000 in the first five years, the organization said. It suggested that Congress give the program "a thorough going-over every five years."

SENATORS TALK OF COMPROMISE ON FOREIGN AID

U.S. Would Make General Pledge, but Put Its Programs on Year-to-Year Basis.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — The Eisenhower Administration indicated yesterday that it would be content with congressional authority to make long-term economic foreign aid commitments only on fixed and specific projects.

Under Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. made no request, in an appearance before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, for the blanket authorization for future commitments that the Administration earlier had indicated it had in mind.

Powerful congressional figures in both parties have come out adamantly against any indefinite extension in future years of a general power to make foreign aid pledges.

One of them, Senator George of Georgia, had gone further to warn the Administration that any insistent demand for that sort of authority might break up bipartisanship in foreign policy in general.

Hoover's approach to the Foreign Relations Committee therefore was seen by many Senators as opening the way for compromising the question in this manner:

1. To make clear in principle—as the Administration most of all wishes—that the United States intends to go on assisting its friends abroad.

2. To avoid, however, any collision with Congress over its constitutional rights to authorize executive programs only on a year-by-year basis and in general to avoid any open-end grant of power to the Administration.

(Senators Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, and Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, both told reporters they thought there are grounds for a possible compromise, the United Press said.)

"I believe I can go along with the general principle of expressing support for long-term commitments for certain types of project," such as water resources development, Humphrey said. He said such projects could be programmed separately on a year-to-year basis, much in the nature of public power projects in the United States.

(Mansfield said Congress could go on record as favoring a long-range program and still keep appropriations on a year-by-year basis.)

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles emphasized yesterday that the important point in the administration's view was to make clear that foreign aid was no mere "single-shot operation."

Some such assurance had been made necessary, he suggested, by the "considerable impression" that the Russians had made on Asian countries by offers of economic and technical assistance.

POSTWAR LOW IN MAN-DAYS LOST IN LABOR DISPUTES

CHICAGO, Jan. 18 (UP) — Man-days lost in labor disputes in 1955 averaged only 10.2 a striking worker, a new low for any postwar year, a study shows. The survey was made by Commerce Clearing House, national reporting authority on tax and business law.

The 10.2 figure compares with a 10-year average of 15.5 man-days. Averages for other years range from 25.2 man-days in 1946 to 10.3 in 1951. The 1955 low was achieved despite the fact 2,750,000 workers were involved in strikes, more than the normal number. The 10-year average for workers on strike is 2,661,000.

The report says there were 4200 strikes in 1955, compared with the decade average of 4315. Many of the walkouts were short, including those which occurred during contract negotiations in the automobile and steel industries.

RED CHINA VICE PRESIDENT GETS WELCOME IN PRAGUE

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

PRAGUE, Jan. 18 — To all the usual hosannas, Marshal Chu-teh, vice president of Communist China, arrived yesterday on a state visit to Czechoslovakia. All factory workers were released early and thousands of school children were escorted to the main railway station, once named for President Woodrow Wilson, to help the government and Communist party leaders greet Chu-teh. The marshal rode in an open car flanked by Premier William Siroky and Antonin Novotny, first secretary of the Communist party, through streets decorated with Czechoslovak, Chinese and Soviet flags.

U.S. SPONSORS WORLD TOUR OF SYMPHONY OF THE AIR

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (UP) — The Symphony of the Air will make a government-sponsored world tour beginning in mid-February and lasting through April 1, it was reported yesterday.

The tour will be under the auspices of the State Department, and the Federal Government already has approved funds for the six-week tour.

The orchestra will play in European countries, then go to Iran, Iraq, Turkey, Greece, Egypt, Lebanon, Yugoslavia, Israel and India. It is expected to proceed from there to the Far East.

CHOICE OF BOWIE A MISTAKE, SAYS SENATOR BRIDGES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP) — Senator Bridges (Rep.) of New Hampshire said yesterday the Administration "made a mistake" in insisting on nominating Robert R. Bowie to be an assistant secretary of state, and that he couldn't predict what it would do to "party harmony."

Bridges made this comment to reporters after the Senate Foreign Relations committee set next Tuesday for hearings on Bowie's nomination.

Bridges said he and some other G.O.P. Senators he did not name had "suggested that the nomination be held up."

"That suggestion has not been followed," Bridges added. "I can't predict what will happen." Bridges said he had tried to get the nomination held up because of his interest, as chairman of the Senate G.O.P. Policy Committee, in preserving party harmony.

He did not say what objections have been raised to Bowie. There have been reports that Bridges, Senator Knowland (Rep.) of California and others were opposed to Bowie on the grounds Bowie has been quoted as saying privately he favors admission of Red China to the United Nations.

Bowie is now on the State Department planning staff.

U.S. OUTPUT UP 11 PCT. IN 1955 FOR NEW RECORD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP) — Production flowing from the nation's factories and mines increased 11 per cent last year to hit a new peak, according to preliminary figures made public yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board.

The board's estimate placed 1955 industrial production at a full 39 per cent above the 1947-49 "yardstick" period. It said peak output was reached in November and December.

Production of durable goods climbed 18 per cent in the year, compared with a 10 per cent increase for nondurables.

ST. LOUIS JUNIOR ACHIEVER PRESENTS SCROLL TO NIXON

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — A scroll signed by 40,000 members of Junior Achievement was presented to Vice President Richard M. Nixon yesterday by Miss Jacqueline Koch of St. Louis and Edward Bedford of Cleveland, in a ceremony in Nixon's office.

Miss Koch, 18 years old, is secretary of the National Junior Achievers Conference. She lives at 7825 Kenridge lane, Shrewsbury, Bedford was named the outstanding president of a Junior Achievement company this year.

The scroll thanked Nixon for serving as a sponsor of the Junior Achievement government-industry luncheon, which will be held here Feb. 1. In accepting it, the Vice President praised the Junior Achievement program as a valuable aid in training young persons in the free enterprise system.

NEW OIL REFINERY UNIT TO BE BUILT

Bovaformer to Hike Power Efficiency in East St.
Louis Plant.

A new refinery unit, called a sovaformer, to increase the power efficiency of gasoline for future high compression engines will be erected at the East St. Louis refinery of Socony Mobil Oil Co., South Tenth street, it was announced today by O. C. Johnson, refinery manager.

The new unit, intended to improve the quality of the company's gasoline, will cost several million dollars, Johnson said. Actual cost cannot be determined pending further detailed engineering studies, he added.

The sovaformer process was developed by Socony Mobil's research chemists and engineers. A catalyst containing platinum causes the gasoline to be chemically changed so that it burns more efficiently, giving increased power to engines, Johnson said. Hydrogen gas in large volume is pumped through the gasoline in the process.

Johnson said the new unit will occupy about a half city block on the refinery's present grounds. It will contain low towers and fractionating columns and a large compressor pump to get the hydrogen through the gasoline. "It is merely a quality improvement process," he said, "and will not materially increase our output."

Construction of the unit is expected to begin this summer and be completed in early 1957. It is part of the company's $30,000,000 expansion and improvement program.

SEVEN DIE IN ONTARIO FIRE

MARMORA, Ont., Jan. 18 (AP)—The wife and six children of a Marmora town councilman were burned to death early today when fire swept their home near this southeast Ontario town.

Police said Councilman Gordon Jones was found lying near the house, badly burned and suffering from exposure. He was taken to a hospital at Peterborough, 35 miles east of here, where he underwent surgery.

SOVIET SARCASM MARS' BIRTHDAY OF U.N. COUNCIL

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 18 (UPI)—The United Nations Security Council yesterday observed the tenth anniversary of its first meeting and its president drew a sharp rebuke from the Soviet delegate for starting its second decade 35 minutes late.

The council met for the first time on Jan. 17, 1946, in London. President Victor Andres Bieaunde of Peru recalled, "to begin its fruitful work for the maintenance of international peace and harmony."

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev raised a point of order. "It is a good thing that we are noting the anniversary of the first meeting of the Security Council," he said. "However, I would have preferred to have taken note of it a half hour ago. I hope that in the future, meetings can be started at approximately the time set. Today's meeting was set for 10:30 a.m., but we are beginning at 5 minutes after 11 o'clock."

End clogged-up nose sleep better tonight

Thousands find this method keeps nose clear all night long

Dry or dusty air, "smog," a head cold, overheated room, allergy... all can cause night nose clogging, spoiling your sleep and forcing you into harmful mouth breathing.

Thousands have found that Mentholatum quickly ends this annoying problem. Just apply Mentholatum in each nostril at bedtime. Instantly your nose feels clearer and, during the night, Mentholatum's soothing action relieves that dry, stuffy feeling. Congestion eases and you breathe normally through your nose.

*Why Mouth Breathing is Harmful

When a clogged nose forces you to breathe through your mouth, you send chilled dry air, laden with dust and germs, directly into your lungs. This and snoring, of course, go hand in hand. Mentholatum in the nose at night ends harmful mouth breathing.

HE WON'T SEEK RE-ELECTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Representative Harold Velde (Rep.) Illinois, announced last night he would not seek re-election.

In a statement issued by his office here, Velde said "I should like to return to the judiciary and feel I can now best serve in that capacity."

He was elected judge of Tazewell county in 1946. Two years later he was elected to Congress, where he has served since.

Velde is a former chairman of the White House Committee on Un-American Activities.

HOME BUILDING IN U.S. EXPECTED TO SLUMP 7 PCT.

Survey Indicates, However, That Construction Here in '56 Will Equal That of '55.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Builders from 30 cities today unanimously predicted a drop in home construction this year despite yesterday's relaxation of credit terms on Government-backed mortgages.

The builders, here for discussions with federal housing officials, told reporters in a press conference they foresee a 1956 building cutback of about 7 per cent.

Surveys in all 30 cities disclosed that none is expected to exceed last year's volume of residential construction. The biggest probable drop is expected at Seattle, Wash.

In six cities, including St. Louis, the rate of home construction is expected to match approximately that of last year. The other five cities are Salt Lake City, Rochester, N.Y., Camden, N.J., Dayton, O., and San Diego, Calif.

About 1,300,000 new homes were started in 1955.

Earl W. Smith, president of the National Association of Homebuilders, said the liberalization of mortgage credit came much too late.

"Their terms should have been relaxed about the time they were tightened up (last July 30), and should have been tightened up about last February," Smith said.

In New York, mortgage banker George W. Warnecke said he did not see how long-range effects of reducing the maximum term for VA-FHA loans "can be good for anyone."

Yesterday's action by the Veterans Administration and Federal Housing Administration permitted VA-guaranteed and FHA-insured mortgages to run for 30 years. The maximum was cut to 25 years last July.

Consensus of builders at the conference today was that VA and FHA should "go the rest of the way" immediately by eliminating the down payment on the lowest-cost dwellings.

The builders, polled by reporters, said almost unanimously they don't expect residential building volume to reach last year's level in any year from now until 1960.

Norman P. Mason, Federal Housing Commissioner, told the House Banking Committee today that FHA will recommend that the period for repayment of federally insured home repair loans be increased from three to five years. The committee is seeking to ease loan restrictions to afford emergency disaster relief to new home owners in flood areas.

Wants Boost in Ceiling. Mason told reporters FHA also will propose increasing the maximum home repair loan from $2500 to $3500.

The committee sent the House a bill entitling owners of new homes to apply for FHA repair loans, without regard to the property's age. The law now requires the houses be occupied six months before the owner is eligible for a repair loan.

Announcing restoration of the longer maximum term, the VA and FHA said such a step was made possible because "the reduced volume of home building has lessened the hazard of over-extension of credit."

The agencies said two other restrictions ordered July 30 remain in effect. These required a 2 per cent down payment on G.I. loans and added 2 per cent to the down payment needed on FHA-insured loans.

JUDGE FLEMING INDORSED FOR ILLINOIS CIRCUIT COURT

Joseph E. Fleming, East St. Louis city judge, was indorsed as a candidate for circuit judge of the Third Illinois Judicial Circuit last night at meetings of the St. Clair county Democratic and Republican central committees in Belleville.

Fleming, who served several terms as county judge, has been a judge in St. Clair county for about 25 years. Election will be April 10, in connection with the primary, to fill the vacancy created by the death of Circuit Judge Edward Bareis last March 19.

Annual salary for circuit judge of the Third Illinois Judicial Circuit is $12,500.

MAN WHO DROPPED GASOLINE DIES OF BURNS IN COUNTY

Francis Lovelace, an automobile trimmer, died today at County Hospital of burns suffered Sunday when he dropped a jar of gasoline which was ignited by the flame under a water heater. The accident occurred in the basement of his home, 1812 O'Connell avenue, Overland.

Lovelace's clothing caught fire. He called to his wife for help. She obtained a blanket with which the flames were extinguished, but 90 per cent of his body was burned. Lovelace was 39 years old.

BRIGHTER BULBS INSTALLED IN 68 PCT. OF STREET LIGHTS

Brighter bulbs have been placed in about 68 per cent of St. Louis's 52,000 street lights, Conway B. Briscoe, director of public utilities, said today. The average increase in candlepower is about 54 per cent.

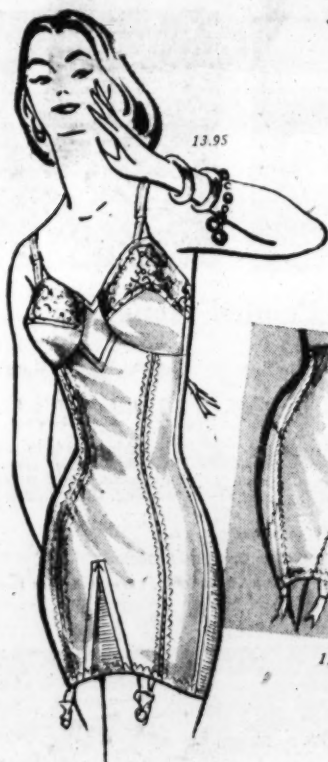

By March 1 about 78 per cent will have been changed, but the job cannot be completed until June because two sections of the city will require different transformers.

TUCKER CALLS METROPOLITAN PLANNING VITAL

Without It, 'We Become Cities of the Past,' St. Louis Mayor Says at Indianapolis.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 18.—Metropolitan planning, which does not stop at a mere political boundary, but includes an entire area of population, is one of the greatest needs of present-day cities, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker of St. Louis said last night in an address here.

Speaking at a dinner of the Indianapolis Metropolitan Plan Commission in the Claypool Hotel, Mayor Tucker said "without proper planning we become cities of the past." He warned against the "patent-medicine" approach to metropolitan planning—the approach that has the same answer for all problems and ignores governmental environment.

Planning carried on between a city and its surrounding suburbs is essential, he said, pointing out the tremendous growth in those areas in the last five years.

"Traffic must move between the two areas," he said. "Dis-ease does not show preference for residents of the city over those of the surrounding county. We cannot build an imaginary wall around the central city and say, 'We're interested only in our problems!'"

In addition to traffic problems which affect entire areas, he told of St. Louis's efforts to improve mass transportation by the appointment of a committee of city and county residents to work on the problem. He touched on the sewer problems and the formation of the Metropolitan Sewer District in St. Louis.

"In those areas where we have not been able to get together on planning," he said, "the situation gets a bit ridiculous. Take for example the fact that on a street going through both St. Louis and a suburban community the speed limit may be 30 miles per hour in one area and suddenly drop to 20 in another."

"Because of political boundaries we even have one street on which the speed limit is 30 miles per hour in the west-bound lane and 20 in the east-bound. And in certain suburban areas we find developers have totally ignored principles of sound planning and zoning."

"New homes are built next to areas to be developed as factories, next to railroad sidings, or in places where drainage is so poor that a constant stench hovers over the area."

"Unfortunately, some of these recently developed subdivisions are scheduled to be our slum problems of tomorrow."

In line with his emphasis on over-all metropolitan planning, the Mayor touched on the plan here to merge the city and county. Research teams from St. Louis and Washington universities, he said, are scheduled to start a survey to gather facts for the proposed merger.

"Once that is completed," he said, "we will know how to proceed."

PAINTER DIES OF INJURIES, FELL 35 FEET FROM ROOF

Fred P. Carter, a painter, died last night at City Hospital of injuries suffered yesterday when he fell 35 feet from the roof of a building at 2007 South Eleventh street.

Police said Carter, who was 69 years old, apparently slipped when painting a dormer window. He suffered fractures of the legs, pelvis and skull. His home was at 1233 Goodfellow boulevard.

U.S., GRACE LINES CLOSE $286,000,000 SHIPBUILDING DEAL

The New York Times News Service. Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—A contract involving a $286,000,000 ship replacement program was signed by Grace Line, Inc., with the Federal Maritime Board yesterday. It was the second largest maritime contract in the nation's history and the fourth such agreement concluded by the government with steamship lines since December 1954.

Shortly after the agreement with the government was formally closed, Grace Line officials signed contracts with Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. for the construction of passenger-cargo liners to replace the Santa Rosa and the Santa Paula. Each ship will cost $22,980,000, including defense features desired by the government. The first vessel is to be completed in 830 days and the second in 920 days.

The steamship company also agreed to replace the balance of its fleet of 24 other freighters and combination cargo-passenger vessels over the 20-year period of its agreement with the government.

AIR FORCE URGED TO LEAVE MITCHEL FIELD FOR SAFETY

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Jan. 18 (AP)—Robert Moses, president of the Long Island State Park Commission, wants the Air Force to move from Mitchel Field in congested Nassau county in the interest of public safety.

Moses, in a letter to Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles, said that in view of recent crashes in the area it was "incredible" that work is being started on a new runway for the field. Moses enclosed a map showing four other sites, farther east on Long Island, as possible alternatives to Mitchel's present location.

The four sites include two belonging to the Brookhaven National Laboratory, one of 3500 acres and one of 2400; a 4500-acre tract used by the Navy Industrial Aircraft Facilities and a 5100-acre tract near Westhampton. All are in Suffolk county, about 50 miles from the present site.

NIXON WARNS OF PERIL IN RED ECONOMIC DRIVE

The New Soviet Tactics in Some Ways More Dangerous Than Military Offensive.

The New York Times Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18 — Vice President Richard M. Nixon warned the American people last night that Russia's "sinister" new economic offensive represents a "deadly danger" to their security.

"An economic offensive is potentially just as dangerous and in some ways more dangerous than a military offensive which might be launched against us or one of our allies," Nixon said. "If we want to keep our freedom and our independence we must recognize this threat and deal with it imaginatively, boldly and effectively."

Speaking before the golden anniversary dinner of the Poor Richard Club where he received the club's Gold Medal Award, Nixon outlined his thinking in support of the administration's $4,860,000,000 foreign aid program for the fiscal year beginning July 1. He reminded his audience that he was airing only his personal views, that his remarks had not been cleared by the White House or the State Department.

Answers Known. — Nixon said that "both neutrals and allies" should share in American foreign aid and thus replied to Senator William F. Knowland (Rep., Calif.), who Tuesday night in New York opposed extending foreign aid to nations maintaining a neutral position in the East-West struggle.

On the question of President Eisenhower's decision on a second term, Nixon said: "Of course, I realize that up to this time I have not commented on the major political question of the day, and I must admit that even Franklin on this subject appears to be somewhat inconsistent. On the one hand he said, 'the first mistake in public business is the going into it.' But then again he said, 'I shall never ask, never refuse, or never resign an office.'"

"All I can say is that I know that 32,000,000 Republicans and Democrats who voted for President Eisenhower are hoping and praying that he will see fit to follow the advice Franklin gave in the second quotation rather than the first."

Needs to Be Understood. — The Vice President warned that the economic threat being posed by the Soviet Union desperately needed to be understood by the American people. He noted that Americans seldom required "arousing" to the necessity of providing men and arms to defend the frontiers of our allies against armed aggression. "He said he believed Americans would take 'appropriate action' should the Soviet Union launch an armed attack against India, China, Afghanistan, Syria, India, or any of the countries in the Far East, Near East, or Africa."

"What we must realize today," he said, "is that sinister new means have been developed by the communists for taking over countries without ever launching armed attack across a border."

"The major danger the free world faces today is not defeat in hot war but defeat in cold war—a cold war in which potential enemies undeterred by any moral restraint use political, economic, psychological and other tactics which are just as effective in taking over territory as armed aggression—and much less costly. This is the way the Communist nations operate."

So Called Giveaway Aid. — "We hear today a chorus of opposition to the so-called giveaway foreign aid programs while at the same time we find virtually no opposition to programs which build up our armed strength at home and that of our allies abroad. . . . Our foreign aid program is not designed to buy the friendship of peoples in the countries to which our aid is given. That is why both neutrals and allies should share in that program. What we are trying to do is to shore up their strength so that they can be free economically and politically of any foreign domination—so that they can be independent members of the family of nations. This in the final analysis is the best guarantee of our own freedom and our own independence."

ADENAUER CANCELS PLANS FOR CANARY ISLES VACATION

The New York Times Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

BONN, Jan. 18—Chancellor Adenauer, acting on the advice of his physicians, has canceled his plans to take a vacation on the Canary Islands next month, the West German government said yesterday.

The Canaries, a Spanish possession, lie off the African West coast near southern Morocco. It was previously believed that they would provide the 80-year-old Adenauer with an ideal balmy climate in which to take a rest following his serious attack of bronchial pneumonia last fall.

No official explanation could be obtained of the factors that led his doctors to counsel him suddenly to change his plans. However, it is believed that they considered the trip might be too long and strenuous.

FLORIDA FREEZE CAUSING MEXICAN VEGETABLE BOOM

The New York Times Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 18 — Florida's winter vegetable crop freeze is causing an enormous vegetable export boom in Mexico. Commission men from the United States have entered the states of Sinaloa and Sonora and are said to be buying up all the tomatoes they can get their hands on at spectacular prices.

It was reported here that two carloads moved from Sinaloa northward Saturday at $11,000 a car. This would place the price at approximately $14.30 a lug (32 pounds). Tomatoes have sold in Sinaloa for as low as $1.25 a lug. Five dollars a lug is normally considered good and $6 excellent.

Present exports are directed largely toward New York and other East Coast markets normally supplied by Florida.

BURGLAR ALARM EMPLOYE ROBBED OF HIS REVOLVER

The New York Times Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

Thomas Lasby, night supervisor for American District Telegraph Co. in East St. Louis, was slugged and robbed of his .38-caliber service revolver early today shortly after leaving the offices of the burglar alarm company at Fourth street and Missouri avenue.

His assailant was accosted by a nearby resident, William Ker-igan, 132 North Fourth street. The robber fired two shots at Kerigan and fled. Six cars of police led by Lt. Michael Schwartz converged on the area and a man who identified himself as Melvin Alexander of the 700 block of Trendley avenue was arrested. The service revolver was recovered.

Alexander, a Negro, who served a nine-month sentence in St. Clair county jail for attempted robbery, admitted several other hold-up sluggings in East St. Louis.

Some of Press Views Budget As Economic Triumph, Some As an Election-Year Gesture

Message Called Sign of 'End of Recklessness in Handling Nation's Finances'— Also Regarded as Indicating a Gamble on Continued Prosperity.

Following is representative editorial comment on the President's budget message as compiled by the Post-Dispatch.

New York Times—The announcement by President Eisenhower in his annual budget message Monday that a surplus of receipts over expenditures is in sight for the current fiscal year and that the Administration has set a similar target for 1956-57 did not come as a surprise either to Congress or the public, since the President had confirmed this widely-held expectation in his State of the Union message on Jan. 5.

Nevertheless, though, it may have lost the fine edge of its news value, the balancing of the budget is the basic fact from which one must start in considering this annual review of the nation's finances and its implications.

With the public debt rising to heights unimagined 40 years ago and with the annual budget having attained a magnitude where it has become potentially a factor of major importance in determining the economic state of the union, the former concept of an annual budget has lost much of its one-time rigidity.

The removal of the moral compulsion that had so long obtained with respect to a balanced budget removed what had long been the most formidable barrier to wasteful political spending.

When we say, therefore, that the fundamental fact about the budget message is the bringing of the nation's expenditures into line with its income what we are really saying is that under President Eisenhower an end has been written for the tenure of this Administration at least, to a policy of recklessness and defeatism in the handling of the nation's finances.

New York Herald Tribune—"The budget I am proposing for 1957 is a balanced budget," President Eisenhower announced to Congress. "It is my expectation that the budget will also be in balance for fiscal year 1958." There is great significance in this terse statement.

Not only does a balanced budget represent the fulfillment of the President's campaign undertaking, not only is it a triumph of sound fiscal policy. Surpluses, even the "slim" ones (as the President characterized them) foreseen for fiscal '56 and '57, have ended the inflation-breeding deficits that depressions and wars brought to this country for so many years. They are an important element in the "unprecedented prosperity without inflation" that the nation now enjoys.

Mr. Eisenhower has brought forward a budget which is economically sound and illumined by a vigorous confidence in America, in the work it can do in the world and in that which its government can do for the American people. It is extremely important that the United States maintain its deterrent power for peace, especially that it strive to obtain intercontinental ballistic missiles before the Russians can do so. It would be unfortunate if this goal, or any of the other means to help the free world progress and evolve were sacrificed to budgetary requirements.

We are confident that President Eisenhower would never permit the global balance of power to shift toward the Soviets.

Washington Post and Times Herald—President Eisenhower's first budget message in which he foresees a balanced administrative budget is of historic importance because it also contains the best available index to the vast pressures on the Government to spend more money for the social well-being of the American people. The message in effect says that substantial tax cuts are a forlorn hope because of steadily mounting requirements for greater expenditures on education, highways, agriculture, resources development, medical and other scientific research, health, atomic energy, international financial projects and other welfare measures.

Philadelphia Bulletin—President Eisenhower's budget message is the first gun to be fired in the battle for and against tax reduction. The budget he submits calls for a balance in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1957, and he looks for a similar happy ending this June. It has been a struggle for the Government to reach this goal, and the President opposes action by Congress which might again put the nation back into deficit financing.

Of course deficit financing raises prices; and to that extent it might take more out of consumer pockets than a tax reduction puts in. The President sees this clearly, but Congressmen are not sure that most of the voters do.

Detroit Free Press—We suspect that his message is going to produce much the same ire among Democrats that his State of the Union message did. They didn't argue with much which was said in that document, but were extremely put out at what they deemed a theft of Democratic thunder by a Republican President.

About all that is left them to argue about on the budget is detail and bookkeeping. It hasn't much appeal as political material. In an election year they can't conveniently argue that more money ought to be spent and that leaves nothing but the allocating of the $65,900,000,000 which the President estimates Uncle Sam will need in fiscal 1957.

We don't doubt that there will be some hot dispute on particular budget items—especially foreign aid and agriculture—but the basic substance of the message and the goals which it sets aren't vulnerable.

Des Moines Register—Mr. Eisenhower and his economic advisers believe that the budget should be balanced or show a small surplus in a time of high employment and high economic activity. They believe that a deficit would push the economy in an inflationary direction and that a large surplus would be deflationary. Since the general price level has been remarkably steady for a period of about five years this would seem to be a wise decision.

Those who believe the nation's defense spending is inadequate can make a strong argument for their position. But even this spending, which is so vital to national security, must be weighed against the requirements of economic stability.

Just where the emphasis should be in the separate items within the framework of the total budget will have to be determined by Congress. But the President's total view of the economic situation appears to be a sound one, which advocates of either much greater expenditures or large tax cuts will be hard put to undermine.

Chicago Daily News—After heading downward for three years, the expenditures of the Federal Government are turning up again. That fact dampens any jubilation over the precarious balance achieved in President Eisenhower's budget.

Mr. Eisenhower apparently foresees criticism on the ground of broken promises to cut spending to 60 billion dollars. He took careful note of the actual spending in 1952—President Truman's last year—and pointed out that his requests for 1957 are 10 billion dollars less. We doubt if his critics will be so easily silenced.

The Administration has been under fire from Democratic Congressmen for allegedly seeking economy at the expense of security. A few of these critics, such as Senator Symington (Dem.), Missouri, former Secretary of the Air Force, speak with authority, although that is not to say that their current utterances are accurate and nonpolitical.

In any event, by an increase of nearly a billion in defense spending, the President has blunted the edge of this criticism.

Scripps Howard Newspapers—This budget is notable for the effort which has gone into its tenuous balance. But it is firm notice that there is no logical basis whatever for an election-year tax cut. Even a tax reduction which would be no more than a token to individual taxpayers would wreck all prospect of the Government ending the year in the black.

And to those who think a balanced budget is an indifferent matter, we point to one item in the budget itself: interest on the national debt, which in 1957 will take 11 per cent of the Government's income.

This is seven billion dollars of expense to the taxpayer which will be irreducible so long as the debt continues to grow. There is only one way to get rid of it—cut the debt. The President and Congress could do the taxpayer no greater favor than to start on that project.

The Eisenhower Administration has earned a big fat A for accomplishment in getting even a technical balance in the budget.

Pittsburgh Post-Gazette—Treasury Secretary Humphrey's admission that revenue estimates could be safely attained.

Peron Says Foes Paid Off Military to Betray Him Names Gainza Paz Among Argentine Capitalists Who He Charges Financed His Overthrow.

By JOSEPH NEWMAN
The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

PANAMA CITY, Jan. 18.

FORMER PRESIDENT Juan D. Peron of Argentina attributes his downfall to a betrayal by military officers who he says were bought with money raised by Argentine capitalists.

He named the Bemberg family, Raul Lamuraglia and Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz, who recently regained control of the newspaper La Prensa, as the men who financed his overthrow.

Peron also blamed himself for his downfall. "I confess I committed a great error," he said, in not having armed the workers so they could defend the administration.

This dual explanation of his downfall appears in the manuscript of the book which Peron has just finished during his current exile in Panama. It gives his version of what happened and discloses his intention to recover power through counter-revolution.

Peron lent me the manuscript and agreed to newspaper publication of the major points. He said the book, entitled "Night Is the Right of Beasts," is to be published soon in several Latin American countries and possibly in the United States.

United Press Accused. The book failed to provide any evidence to support the charges against the Bemberg family, Lamuraglia and Gainza Paz. During our conversation in his room at the Hotel Washington in Colon he enlarged these charges to include the United Press.

He said the United Press had supplied "vast sums of money" to Gainza Paz as its contribution to a revolutionary fund. I asked if he seriously believed that. He insisted he did. However, an Agency Accountant Will Relieve You of Investment Cares.

PEARSON— White House Hoodwinked By Roy Cohn

Former McCarthy Counsel Gets a Close Friend Appointed to CAB.

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1956.)
WASHINGTON.

THERE are probably no two people President Eisenhower likes less than Senator Joe McCarthy and his pal, Roy Cohn, former counsel for the McCarthy committee. These two did more to cause dissension in the Republican party than any other two men in the United States, culminating in the Army-McCarthy hearings in 1954.

The White House, however, without knowing it, has just let Roy Cohn name a new member to the Civil Aeronautics Board—Joseph Minetti.

Minetti is an old friend of Cohn's. The way Cohn got his friend appointed to the CAB was simple. Cohn's law partner is Tom Curran, Gov. Dewey's Secretary of State and a high-ranking Republican. Cohn got Curran to push Minetti's appointment with Chairman Len Hall.

Hall already knew Minetti's father-in-law, Fred Ahern, a Brooklyn Republican leader. So, with Curran's endorsement, Hall went all out for Minetti. He knew that the Republican party needed to do something to make up for the kick-in-the-pants John Foster Dulles gave Italians when he fired Ed Corsi as immigration adviser, so he insisted on Minetti's appointment.

Inside fact is that Louis Rothschild, the Kansas City department store owner, now Under Secretary of Commerce, didn't want Minetti and opposed him, but Chairman Hall reached over Rothschild's head, and Minetti was appointed.

So, without the White House having any idea Cohn was behind the scenes, ex-Senator Josh Lee was ousted and Cohn's friend put in his place.

The CAB vacancy, under law, had to go to a Democrat. Minetti is a bona fide Democrat and close to Carmine Di Sapio, head of Tammany Hall. Some Democrats are grooming him as a possible candidate for Mayor of New York.

Cohn is counsel for National Airlines.

Dulles Dispute Shows Faults In Public Information Setup

Secretary Erred in Way He Tried to Put Case Before Nation—Wilson Reply to Ridgway Confusing.

By JAMES RESTON
The New York Times News Service.
Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.

THE EVENTS of the last few days in Washington dramatize one of the great problems of democratic government: The failure of public officials and the press to reach a common understanding about their obligations to one another and to the public in a time of world crisis.

This problem did not arise and it has not ended with Secretary of State Dulles' interview with Life magazine or Gen. Matthew Ridgway's charges and disclosures in the Saturday Evening Post.

It was a fundamental point of controversy at the Versailles conference in 1919. It led to such a row at the San Francisco conference on the formation of the United Nations that the State Department had to establish an official "leak office," headed, incidentally, by one Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

It was a source of controversy at the Big Four meeting last summer in Geneva, where the calculated optimism of the official spokesmen led to vast misunderstandings throughout the world. It produced a storm of controversy last spring when the State Department leaked a copy of Yalta documents to the New York Times. The catalogue could be enlarged almost indefinitely.

What was not solved in 1919 and remains unsolved today is the problem of how, what, and when official information should be made public by government officials.

Harold Nicholson, a British Foreign Office official and one of the most respected historians of the Versailles conference, listed the inept handling of the press by government officials as one of the major causes of misunderstanding and failure at that conference.

There are only two ways of dealing with a democratic press, he wrote in "Peacemaking—1919." "The best way is to tell them everything; that bores them stiff. The second best way is to tell them nothing, which at least provides them with the glory of a 'secret' stunt."

The worst method is to tell them half-truths in the form of conciliatory "leakages."

Dulles' Method. Dulles chose the third method in the Life article. He had every right to give an exclusive article to Life if he chose. He has been sharply attacked by the Democrats in the last few months; he is a proud and sensitive man, and he had the right, even the obligation, to try to put his conduct of foreign policy into proper perspective.

Where he erred was in how he did it. He must have been conscious of the need for accuracy for he saw the author, James Shepley four times, and he conceded reluctantly yesterday that he permitted a verbatim transcript of their conversations to be taken.

He did not bother to read the transcript or the article, however, which would have taken approximately half an hour, and as a result he has had to spend the best part of a week trying to straighten things out.

This, it is now generally agreed in Washington, is the wrong way to put out official information, and the record of the last few days abounds in illustrations of other "wrong ways."

Ridgway Controversy. Should Gen. Ridgway have waited two years to charge in a magazine article this week that President Eisenhower had misled the country in stating that his defense proposals in the 1954 State of the Union Message had the "unanimous approval" of the joint chiefs of staff, or should he have made that clear at the time?

In trying to straighten out the facts, should Secretary of Defense Wilson merely have praised Gen. Ridgway and expressed doubt about which year the general was talking about, or should he have given the facts from the official record?

The Joint Chiefs of Staff do not indicate unanimous approval or division about a 35 billion dollar defense budget on the telephone. They prepare a paper on their decisions. That paper will show whether Gen. Ridgway is right or the President is right. It is not a matter for casual banter at a press conference or opinion.

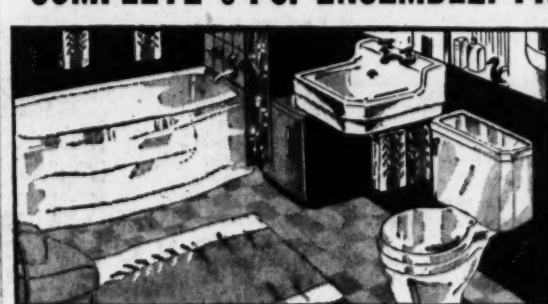

Two other events of the last few days indicate this same confusion.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Mark of Free Society

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The writer of the recent letter signed "A Copperhead" is clearly ignorant of one of the most important features of a free society when he limits the definition of democracy to rule of the majority.

Even in totalitarian societies the majority of the people often get what they want. Some of the worst tyrannies and most repressive events in history have been sanctioned by the majority of the people in the countries involved.

The distinguishing mark of a free nation, in which there is sincere respect for human dignity, is the preservation of certain rights and freedoms for minorities and even individual citizens in the face of majority disapproval and prejudice.

In our own country this is accomplished through the protection of our Bill of Rights which guarantees every citizen full and equal rights under the law regardless of race or religion, and of which he may be deprived only through due process.

The Supreme Court has unanimously decided that segregated public schools are a violation of the Bill of Rights. In this case the Court held that the rights of individual Negro citizens must be protected, even in the face of local community prejudice and discomfort.

This principle is so fundamental to a free and democratic society that it must be upheld even at the cost of strong emotional discomfort on the part of some. Consequently those citizens who oppose integration, even if they are in the majority, must conscientiously try to co-operate with the spirit of the decision.

If they do, they may have the assurance that their children will be able to live free from racial disharmony.

Supporting the Mayor

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

President Roosevelt said at the time of Pearl Harbor, "This day will live in infamy." St. Louis can say Friday, Jan. 13, will live in infamy.

Voters and citizens of St. Louis should rise in overwhelming numbers and show the arrogant Board of Aldermen that it is the servant of the people and subject to their wishes.

We all know that St. Louis is 50 years behind the times in city government. So let all who believe in the future of St. Louis write Mayor Raymond Tucker, the best Mayor St. Louis has ever had, telling this wide awake, progressive, straightforward man that we are behind him 100 per cent.

S. NEWBURGER.

'What St. Louis Needs . . .'

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

If a Republican administration were in power in Jefferson City you would be screaming your head off on disclosures of the laxity of the State Real Estate Commission in failing to notify the St. Louis Real Estate Board of complaints by the Better Business Bureau.

There also must be negligence in the Recorder's office in St. Louis when a person can get three first deeds of trust on a flat totaling $43,000, two of them notarized by the same party. What guarantee does the buyer of a first deed of trust have?

You have your big editorial mouth open on every move President Eisenhower or the Republicans make. You had better start looking for the skeletons in Mr. Donnelly's administration, and in some of the "county" offices in St. Louis.

What St. Louis needs is a good evening newspaper with an honest, decent, realistic editorial staff.

Lemay. MRS. W. JENKINS.

Reunited With Skipper

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

My name is Mimi Hogan. I am 9 years old and live in Columbia. My mom said she thought it would be nice if I wrote you and told you about a wonderful family living in your area.

At Christmas we visited our grandmother who lives in Normandy, and while we were there our cousin, named "Skipper," ran away and we had to come back to Columbia without him. My brothers and sister and I were very sad because we have loved Skipper since he was a puppy. Then last week Mom had a call from the J. L. Rudloff family who live at 1317 Laclede Station road. Skipper had come to their house, and when they saw his Columbia dog license number, they called the City Hall, and that way traced Skipper to us. Now we are all real happy.

Columbia, Mo. MIMI HOGAN.

As to Mr. Dulles

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Mr. Dulles in the recent Life magazine article depicts himself as an expert military strategist and a great foreign diplomat. An egotistical "grandstand" military general as Secretary of State is just what our nation needs to assure itself of complete obliteration. I will gladly contribute some "box tops" so that he can get some stars and medals.

Gen. Ridgway's Case

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's strong criticism of pressure methods that he says the Defense Department used on him when he was a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff from August 1953 to July 1955 comes belatedly but at an opportune time. For the present Joint Chiefs of Staff are now engaged in making another "complete and careful evaluation" of the military strength of the nation.

National survival may depend on that evaluation. It should represent the true thought of the nation's military leaders. Genuine unanimity in defense matters is to be welcomed but the forcing of agreement can be far more dangerous than the discussion of honest differences of opinion. There can be no gainsaying that the soundness of United States military policy is seriously questioned by Gen. Ridgway.

Writing in The Saturday Evening Post, the retired four-star general, who ranks as one of the country's foremost living soldiers, says:

As Chief of Staff I quickly learned that the decisions of the Defense Department were based on considerations other than clear-cut military needs. They were based on budgetary considerations, on political considerations, on the advantage to be gained in the field of domestic politics by a drastic reduction in military expenditures.

I learned that sometimes I was not expected to present my reasoned military judgment to Secretary of Defense Wilson. On the contrary, incessant pressure was brought to bear on me, seeking to persuade me to make my views conform to a preconceived politico-military "party line."

It was essential, I learned, that the policies of the Defense Department should be presented to the public as being the unanimous recommendations of the nation's top military men.

It would have been inexcusable for Gen. Ridgway, while on active duty, to have made an impassioned plea to the nation for overriding his superiors, but it is even more inexcusable if pressures were applied to make the Army Chief of Staff's opinions conform with those of his superiors. And Gen. Ridgway's long record of 42 years' service to his country does not indicate that he would make baseless charges.

It is small wonder that on the strength of these charges, which have not been denied, Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, is moved to declare: "The security of the nation is being thrown into the market place to be traded for political advantage." And also in order is the Senate inquiry suggestion of Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, who was particularly impressed by Gen. Ridgway's statement that as Army Chief of Staff he felt he was "being called upon to destroy" United States fighting strength.

When he retired, the veteran of World War II and the Korean fighting left a 10-page letter with Secretary Wilson which charged that "air-nuclear" weapons had been over-emphasized at the expense of greatly reduced ground forces, and that the military forces were not adequate for the nation's world commitments. Secretary Wilson commented that the letter was not very "important." And just before that President Eisenhower had dismissed Gen. Ridgway's plea for a stronger Army as a "parochial" viewpoint.

But they cannot dismiss Gen. Ridgway's latest and far more serious charges in such cavalier manner. Everyone who is interested in national defense will want the strongest reassurance that the present Joint Chiefs of Staff are not just yes-men set up to approve a preconceived defense program based on budgetary reasoning. They will want to know that they are military advisers who are free to give objective and non-partisan opinions to the best of their ability.

A Very Pretty Miss Take

Long-time favorites of ours among the princesses of pulchritude have been Miss Continuous Towel, Miss Gum Spirits of Turpentine, Miss Peoria Area Outdoor Girl, and Miss Lake Ashitaba Water Carnival. A new trend seems to have set in, however, with the choice, at South Dakota State College, of a Miss Print to reign over National Printing Week. It can only be viewed with alarm.

If this punning approach perseveres and prevails, one may expect to see a conclave of mathematicians ruled over by Miss Calculate, the Explorers' club by Miss Adventure, and the various bar associations by Miss Demeanor. Our best advice is to drop it right where it is, and get back to fundamentals in naming beauty queens, like Miss Air Force-Resourcing Detachment 512.

A Tenny-Weentsy $435,000,000

If the Government's receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year 1956-57 turn out as estimated in the President's budget, the Treasury will have available for debt reduction a surplus of $435,000,000. Since the debt now stands at 230 billion dollars, this means that with great good luck and the expert fiscal management of Secretary Humphrey the debt can be shaved next year by approximately 15 one-hundredths of 1 per cent. "An ill-favored thing," Mr. Humphrey would be justified in saying of the surplus, "but mine own."

Secretary Dulles in Retreat

A long weekend of dust and thunder was bound to change Secretary Dulles' mind. Last week, after reading the famous Life article which cast him in heroic mold, Mr. Dulles found no reason to correct it. That was before the tempest became a typhoon—a diplomatic typhoon whose dimensions are indicated by the articles reprinted in today's Mirror of Public Opinion.

Now the Secretary tells a press conference that he did not write the article, did not edit it, did not caption it, did not time its publication, and does not approve of some expressions in it. He gently suggests that "oversimplification and special emphasis" have misrepresented his views.

And thus he executes the classic maneuver of officeholders caught in embarrassing predicaments: Step One: an airy and dashing "I stand behind what I said," followed at a suitable interval by Step Two: "I was misquoted."

It would be comforting to suppose that Mr. Dulles was in fact wrongly represented. But the author had access to a recorded transcript of the interview, which Mr. Dulles does not intend to make public. And members of Mr. Dulles' staff went over the article in advance of publication. Sadly but truly, it appears that the article probably presents a fair index of Mr. Dulles' attitudes on foreign policy.

Were those attitudes fully encompassed by the Secretary's present definition of them, there would have been no occasion for the whole wide world to be alarmed. That the United States has basic moral values and vital interests for which it will fight if necessary is a truism which hardly needs expression. But this is not the issue raised by the Life article.

That article alarmed the world because it displayed a Secretary of State who believes that diplomacy consists of going to the brink of war; who thinks threat of an atomic war initiated by the United States is what saved peace in Asia;

who looks upon our allies as pusillanimous partners surviving only because of our "strength"; and who, above all, thinks that it is shrewd public relations to say these things to prove his devotion to peace.

Unfortunately for the country, it will not be as easy to erase this portrait of Mr. Dulles as it was for him to claim "oversimplification and special emphasis" by Life.

Charter Fight: Second Phase

Last week's aldermanic vote against Mayor Tucker's revision bill just started the fight for an improved city charter—an essential to efficient government and the utmost progress of St. Louis.

The Mayor has announced a campaign to do by petition of the voters what their representatives on the Board of Aldermen refused to do. The first council-of-war in this campaign has been scheduled for Thursday. Representatives of business and civic groups and other outstanding citizens have been asked to attend. From this gathering will emerge a committee to take charge of circulating the petitions.

That it will be relatively easy by this device to give the voters a chance to express their desire for a board of charter freeholders is suggested by the recalcitrant aldermen themselves. They are already considering an ordinance calling for the election of freeholders on May 8. And some of their leaders have indicated that they are ready to correct its chief weakness, the failure to state that the freeholders shall represent St. Louis as a county as well as a city.

It is this dual nature of St. Louis which has raised some questions as to the scope of the freeholders' authority. City Counselor Liberman already has declared that, in his opinion, this extends to the so-called "county offices" whose patronage some politicians are so zealous to preserve. The City Administration is preparing to defend this position in the courts, if need be.

It might be a very good idea to get it cleared up as early as may be, possibly through a friendly suit. Then the freeholders could work without reservations and their recommendations would be beyond challenge.

So far the charter fight has been confined to governmental channels—with the Mayor for it, and the Aldermen and their political allies opposed. The very first step toward the circulation of petitions opens its second phase, a phase in which the citizens will have a direct part.

As we said last week, this campaign has not ended in defeat. It has only been slowed down a bit—and, we suspect, much less than it seemed last Friday afternoon.

St. Louis needs charter revision. The people know this, and they will get what they want. This is one instance in which they most certainly have the last word.

The meeting of representative citizens called for Thursday by Mayor Tucker can and should be a rallying point in the life of St. Louis. All eyes, including those of the Board of Aldermen, will be on these new representatives of the public.

The Cabinet has given President Eisenhower an original Grandma Moses. Undoubtedly because he led them into the promised land.

Flood Control Here for 3186 A.D.?

The sum recommended for St. Louis flood protection in the Federal budget is hardly more than a token. St. Louis Representatives Leonor K. Sullivan and Frank M. Karsten, both of whom have worked assiduously for the project, lost no time in saying the amount was grossly inadequate. The $101,000 figure was termed "insignificant" by Mrs. Sullivan and "a great disappointment" by Mr. Karsten.

At this rate of appropriation, the construction of the system of levees, floodwalls and pumping stations would require 1230 years. The recommended amount is less than 9 per cent of the $1,200,000 needed for planning alone, and only one sixth of the sum the Army Engineers estimated they could use this year. Yet the works could be completed with two years' planning and six years' construction after all the funds necessary for each of these two stages were available, the engineers estimate.

At the small-scale which the budget item would set for the initial year of planning, flood control at this last major unprotected city on the Mississippi River becomes almost an academic matter. The expeditious way in which authorization of the project went through Congress last year was taken as an earnest that its importance was fully realized at Washington. Surely the Administration will want to reconsider the subminimal item which in effect provides not for the project's progress but for its postponement.

Having taken Main Street, the Tin Lizzie is now having a crack at seeing what it can do with Wall Street.

We See by the Record

Readers who have been wondering what became of Joseph R. McCarthy will be interested to know that Wisconsin's junior Senator practically issued an edition of the Congressional Record last Thursday, Jan. 12. Pages A199 to A207 (three columns of fine type to the page) contain speeches that he has made in recent weeks in Chicago, Boston, Tulsa and elsewhere. These addresses contain the familiar McCarthy line, namely, that the United States is "now perilling the Communists to write our foreign policy," we are "losing the battle to international Communism," etc., etc.

Also in the same issue, pages A209 to A214, the Wisconsin Senator put in print a batch of letters he wrote to President Eisenhower, former Gov. Stevenson, Gov. Harriman and Senators Hennings of Missouri, Kefauver of Tennessee and McClellan of Arkansas. One of his letters to the President warns of the machinations of "the left-wing Democrats" who, so Senator McCarthy says, "are having a field day at the expense of the nation's safety." He directs his choicest tributes to Senator Hennings, whom he accuses of "double-talk and hypocrisy at its worst." He also charges Missouri's senior Senator with "browbeating."

We could make many observations on this "McCarthy issue" of the Congressional Record, but two will suffice. We note the interesting fact that although each batch of insertions is under the formal heading of "Joseph R. McCarthy" the letter writer signs his communications to President and "hypocrite" fellow Senator alike with a friendly not to say jovial "Joe McCarthy." Second, we figure that at $80 per page this subsidized publication by the Wisconsin Senator of the works of his favorite author cost the American taxpayers $1034.67.

Secretary Dulles says America is prepared to defend its principles "if need be by life itself." Or perhaps even by Look?

BUT IT MADE A HOT FEATURE STORY

Life With Dulles: Two Reports Between Book Ends

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Max Freedman in Manchester (England) Guardian

Even in Mr. Dulles' career there has been nothing like this episode to illustrate his quite astonishing capacity for forgetting that he is set on a conspicuous stage and the whole world marks his demeanor.

He consented to be blown up into an American hero; for that purpose he sat for a flattering portrait in one of his favorite magazines; and now he is bruised and disenchanted by his discovery that a large part of the world has recoiled from his image.

Apparently never occurred to Mr. Dulles that Life's account carried three implications profoundly repugnant to American policy.

In the first place it defaced, if it did not actually destroy, the image of President Eisenhower as the leader of moderation and peace, able to exercise a salutary veto over the headstrong excesses of American policy. Now we are given the quite contrary picture of the President as the resolute colleague of Mr. Dulles in flourishing the atomic bomb.

Secondly, the article went a long way towards confirming the accuracy of one of Russia's salient criticisms. Russia has often accused American policy of threatening atomic war. Mr. Dulles now boasts that it is an essential principle of his policy to threaten atomic war because he can be trusted to avoid a rule of events before it hurries mankind into actual conflict.

The Middle of the Road?

He believes the normal route of American policy is the edge of the precipice. Is that what President Eisenhower means when he talks about the middle of the road?

Finally there is a deliberate and grievous absence of emphasis on the communion of ideas that alone can sustain the free world's alliance and give it a constant unity which can never be shaken by events or even by the inevitable differences of policy.

The United States, according to the portrait for which Mr. Dulles has sat so obligingly, stands at the summit of leadership, with the Allies performing their most useful functions when they respond with swift agreement to the wisdom and courage of Washington. Not even Mr. Dulles, in his chastened and reflective moments, believes this absurdity; but he has now helped to export this caricature of American conduct to the world.

What Mr. Acheson once said about Mr. Dulles' policy of massive retaliation can now be applied to the article in Life—"In addition to its other faults, it was a failure." Mr. Dulles said on Wednesday that he had not yet read the article. So be it. But something of its history must be told.

Two Comparisons in Copy

The advance copy said that Mr. Dulles had always felt that Mr. Acheson "had made a tragic mistake in suggesting, just six months before the Communist attack, that the United States would not fight for South Korea." The published article said, quite correctly, that South Korea was outside the "vital perimeter" which the United States would defend by itself if necessary. Korea was defended exactly as forecast by Mr. Acheson—by United Nations action under American leadership.

The advance copy, after describing the decision to use tactical atomic weapons in Manchuria, added: "It was the issue on which President Truman had fired Douglas MacArthur, and Eisenhower and Dulles decided that MacArthur had been right." This sentence was deleted from the published article.

James Reston in The New York Times

Like every Secretary of State since the war, John Foster Dulles has pulled some lovely boners, but unlike his predecessors, Mr. Dulles has added something new to the art of diplomatic blundering.

This is the planned mistake. He doesn't stumble into booby traps; he digs them to size, studies them carefully, and then jumps.

The common diplomatic blunder is usually the result of ignorance, haste, imprecision, bad temper, or having to choose between hard and difficult courses of action.

Mr. Dulles has not made this kind of mistake very often. He is well-informed. He is the hardest-working man in Washington. He is patient and precise in extemporaneous speech, and he has not yet got into trouble playing question and answer with the reporters.

His mistakes are of a different variety. They are usually avoidable. They are almost always obvious, and they are usually made in carefully prepared statements or speeches.

Past Blunders Are Recalled

He wrote into the President's first State of the Union Message the passage construed as "unleashing" Chiang Kai-shek to invade the China mainland.

He "liberated" the Communist satellites first in the Republican party's 1952 foreign affairs platform at the Chicago Convention.

He announced that he was going to make an "agonizing reappraisal" of American foreign policy if France did not join the European Defense Community—this in a formal statement to the North Atlantic Treaty Council in Paris.

He put into a formal speech before the New York Council on Foreign Relations his threat of "massive retaliation" against the Communist world—a threat which required a 2000-word clarification and has plagued him ever since.

He issued last month a formal statement describing Goa on the fringe of India as a "province" of Portugal—just at the time when he was planning a trip to India to patch up our ragged relations with Prime Minister Nehru.

And now he has been involved in another controversy because he claimed that he had three times carried the nation to the "brink" of war and scared the Communists off two of the three times by threats of atomic retaliation.

Area of Party Differences

Mr. Dulles has made a lifelong study of the arts of diplomacy, and has turned Assistant Secretary of State Carl McClellan into a personal press agent—yet the effect of his latest flight into print has been to emphasize his weaknesses rather than to clarify his strength.

This is unfortunate for two reasons: It blurs Mr. Dulles' real achievements, and it diverts attention from the remarkably solid front that has been built up in both parties for the policy of collective security.

There are differences of opinion between the parties about how much emphasis to put on foreign economic aid, and whether to proceed with the chain of military agreements in the Middle East, but the area of agreement is far larger than the area of disagreement, and Mr. Dulles is entitled to a great deal of credit for this extremely important development.

In fact, one could almost say that the biggest foreign policy issue between Mr. Dulles and the Democrats today is Mr. Dulles himself. The Democrats have produced no clear alternative to his policies, even in the Middle East. Nor do they complain so much about what he does. But what he says drives them nuts, and gives the impression of great division where very little fundamental policy division exists.

Dedicated to Fraternity

THE AARONSBURG STORY, by Arthur H. Lewis.

(Vanguard Press, 253 pp., $1.50.)

The Aaronsburg story is the story of a tiny town in Pennsylvania which was founded in 1786 by Aaron Levy and was named after him and, a century and a half afterwar, was the scene of a memorable celebration dedicated to the extension of the spirit in which it was founded—human brotherhood and racial equality.

The story has now been told because in the spring of 1949 Arthur H. Lewis, driving through the town (population 321), noticed the road marker which gave its name and the date of its founding by Aaron Levy.

His interest was aroused and he stopped and heard the story about how Aaron Levy, a Jew born in Amsterdam, came to America and as a pioneer trafficked in Pennsylvania farms and forests, leaving as a memorial the town that was named for him and in which he gave ground for his first church, Salem Lutheran.

It seemed to Lewis that the story of Aaronsburg was so fundamentally American in its tolerance that it should be told everywhere by a celebration on the scene that would carry far what appeared to have been the dream of the founding father, Aaron Levy.

That was the beginning. The culmination was a remarkable pageant and program in October, 1949, in which such men as Philip S. Bernstein, Felix Frankfurter, Ralph J. Bunche, Channing H. Tobias, William J. Donovan, Daniel A. Foing, and James H. Duff participated, with a gathering of 50,000 from all over the country at the tiny town of Aaronsburg.

That might have ended it, but two years later there was a suggestion that another celebration be held with a more definite plan and purpose than had been possible at the first. Again there was a great celebration at Aaronsburg and that was followed by the laying of a foundation for a permanent program of tolerance on which Lewis and many others are now working. It is in aid of that purpose that the story of Aaronsburg has been told in the Lewis book.

Prelude to Politics

85 AMERICAN YEARS, by Henry Carl Luckey.

(Exposition Press, 236 pp., $1.50.)

The 85 American years about which Henry Carl Luckey writes are the years that he has lived in America, highlighted by the four, beginning in 1934, that he spent as a Nebraska Congressman.

To give more meaning to those four years he has told the story of his life from his infancy as a prelude to his political congressional career with comments on public affairs in his later years. In the latter part of his office-holding career Luckey broke with President F. D. Roosevelt on domestic and international policies to which was attributed his defeat by a narrow margin when he ran for a third term in Congress. In his book he is outspokenly critical of the New Deal, Communism and internationalism. Now retired, he lives at Richmond, Calif.

Pictorial Biography

ST. PIUS X, by Leonard Von Malt and Nello Vian.

(Henry Regnery, $4.)

This is an unusual pictorial biography of Pope Pius X, who was born a peasant's son in Venice in 1855 and died as Pontiff in 1914. He was canonized a saint two years ago. The photographic narrative is the work of Leonard Von Malt, a Swiss photographer, who retraced with his camera the main events in the Pope's life. Many of these photographs have a pictorial beauty rare in semi-official works of this kind. The text is brief and helpful, but the beauty of this book lies in its pictures.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Why Did Dulles Falsify Our Policy?

WASHINGTON. THERE IS NOT AS YET AVAILABLE any plausible explanation of why Mr. Dulles chose deliberately to have the "Life" magazine article written about him. For the extraordinary thing about this article is that while it pretends to reveal the inner truths of our recent policy in the Far East, it provides a fundamentally false account.

The falsity lies in this: that Mr. Dulles describes what has happened in Korea, Indochina and the Formosa Strait in terms of unilateral detentions by the United States. What has really happened is that both sides and all concerned have been held within a condition of mutual deterrence. Thus, while it is no doubt true that the Communists have been deterred by fear of our retaliation, it is also undoubtedly true that Dr. Syngman Rhee, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Adm. Radford and those who wanted to intervene in Indochina have been deterred by our fear of Soviet retaliation.

The existence of the military stalemate explains, as Mr. Dulles's one-sided account does not explain, the political situation in the contested area on the approaches to China.

'No Alternative to Peace.'

The actual condition of mutual deterrence, or military stalemate, was first discerned by Churchill when he learned the results of the hydrogen bomb test. Shortly after that the conclusion was drawn by the President in his famous declaration that there is "no alternative to peace."

It was that declaration, which the Russians have since then subscribed to, that led to the first Geneva conference, and was the core of that conference.

Now if there is no alternative to peace, then no one can go to the brink of war in the sense that he threatens to go to war. If war is not an alternative, then anyone who threatens war is either mad or is bluffing. If war is not an alternative, then issues have to be compromised.

If, as Mr. Dulles's article implies—though he himself must know better—we are the unilateral detainers in the Far East, we would have enjoyed a military superiority sufficient to make the Communists give in to us on the issues in dispute. In fact, all we have been able to get has been peace on the basis of the military status quo. Both sides have had to accept peace without victory.

Concessions by Both Sides.

Mr. Dulles must come very near to being the first foreign minister who has ever wanted to appear more warlike than in fact he was. "Life" magazine has painted a picture of a bold and threatening man who has over-awed the adversary. The fact is that everybody has been over-awed. The Communists have been deterred from aggression beyond the line of the status quo; we have been deterred from liberation beyond that line.

In order to maintain and stabilize that line—at which both sides are deterred, we have not only made known that we would fight if that line were crossed by armed forces, we have also given assurances that we ourselves will not cross the line in the other direction. In Korea, we have guaranteed South Korea against aggression from North Korea and from China. In return we have taken the necessary military means to prevent Dr. Rhee from drawing us into an attempt to liberate North Korea.

In Indochina we were deterred from intervening with an air strike to save Dien Bien Phu by the fear that China would then intervene openly by invading northern Vietnam. Such an invasion would have required an air bombardment of China to repel it.

No One-Sided Victory.

That was a course from which this world was deterred by the mutual threat of intervention. This is how mutual deterrence works. They worked in Indochina to deter open intervention either by the Chinese or by ourselves, and to produce a cessation of hostilities on the basis of the military status quo.

There is no point in talking now as if it had all been some kind of victory.

In the Formosa Strait we gave Chiang a treaty of guarantee which was, as Mr. Dulles says, a warning not to attack Formosa. But Mr. Dulles has, in his role of melodramatic hero, omitted the other half of the story.

The other half is that we then re-leased Chiang firmly, and sent word to Peiping through various diplomatic channels that we would not permit, much less would we assist, Chiang to attempt to return to the mainland.

In the Formosa affair Chiang got a guarantee of his island refuge and Chou En-lai got the assurance that Chiang was no longer to be regarded as a serious contender on the mainland.

Policy Better Than Story.

In sum, the Eisenhower policy in the Far East has operated—though he himself must know better—we are the unilateral detainers in the Far East, we would have enjoyed a military superiority sufficient to make the Communists give in to us on the issues in dispute.

It is not glorious what we have done, it is merely making to get has been peace on the basis of the military status quo. Both sides have had to accept peace without victory.

The article has done damage to the country and to Mr. Dulles's own usefulness as Secretary of State. He has provided the Soviet propaganda with a text that is sheer bonanza.

The exasperating thing about it is that whereas ordinarily we have to contend with untruths that others tell about us, here we have to contend with half-truths that are tantamount to untruths put out by the Secretary of State himself.

For the truth, which will now be obscured by this article, is that the United States foreign policy has been more realistic and more responsible than anyone would suppose who had read what Mr. Dulles has allowed to be written about it.

Presentation of Dr. Key's Portrait

Portrait of the late Dr. J. Albert Key being presented by his widow and son to officials of Washington University School of Medicine and Barnes Hospital at ceremonies yesterday. Accepting portrait from MRS. KEY and FRANK L. KEY are DR. FRANK R. BRADLEY (left), director of Barnes and affiliated hospitals, and DR. OLIVER H. LOWRY (right), dean of medical school. SALZBURG PLANS WEEK OF MUSIC HONORING MOZART

SALZBURG, Austria, Jan. 18 (AP)—Salzburg will lead the musical world in the coming weeks in celebrating the 200th birthday of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart on Jan. 27.

To honor its greatest son, born here as the seventh child of a court musician, the medieval city is preparing a Mozart week filled with concerts, opera performances, chamber music evenings and matinees, all devoted to his works.

The festivities will end with a performance of Mozart's opera "Idomeneo" by the Vienna State Opera Company on the birthday night. Earlier that day, ceremonies will be held in the house where the composer was born. Commemorative masses will follow in several of Salzburg's old churches.

Guests of honor will include President Theodor Koerner and Chancellor Raab.

Three leading orchestras—the Vienna Philharmonic, the London Philharmonic and the Bamberg Symphony—will play Mozart's compositions. Such outstanding musicians as Wilhelm Backhaus, Wolfgang Schniederman and Irmgard Seefried are to appear in special concerts.

CURTIS J. HERRICK GETS WEST POINT APPOINTMENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—Appointment of Curtis J. Herrick of Alton, Ill., to the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., was announced today by United States Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

The appointment is for the term beginning next July 3. Herrick was appointed on the basis of results of recent competitive examinations. Herrick is the son of a West Point graduate, Curtis J. Herrick, currently chief of staff of the Eighteenth Airborne Corps at Fort Bragg, N.C.

Mrs. Mark C. Steinberg, 233 Woodbourne drive, has been elected a member of the board of control of City Art Museum, it was announced today by Director Charles Nagel.

Mrs. Steinberg, widow of the investment broker, has been active in civic affairs for many years and is a benefactor of the museum.

INFORMALITY OF U.S. AMazes ENGLISHMAN

Political Center Director Finds It on Trains, Busses, and in Legislatures.

The "degree of informality" of American life—including such American customs as talking to fellow-passengers on trains and busses—is the most surprising aspect of the United States to a visiting Englishman, Peter Goldman, director of the Conservative Political Center in London, said here today.

"I've noticed," most, all through America," Goldman said in an interview, "that if you're in someone's company for five minutes, you're on a Christian name basis."

The 31-year-old Englishman, who runs the department of the Conservative party charged with political education, conferences, discussion groups and publications, is midway through a three-months tour of the United States under the auspices of the Foreign Leadership Program of the U. S. Department of State. His visit here is sponsored by the St. Louis Council on World Affairs.

He added that he found American informality "on the whole, attractive," but that there were "one or two aspects of it which are a little distasteful to me."

Goldman said, "There have been times when I've felt I had to get a paper read before I arrived at the next town. Then, when somebody in the train asks me where I'm from, I say 'Chicago' and hope they let me alone—I tell them I'm from England they're bound to keep on talking."

His main interest in the trip is to study "politics at all its levels," Goldman said. Yesterday he conferred with members of the University City council and city manager Elder Gunter, and today he will see State Representative A. Clifford Jones.

"Another thing that surprised me was the degree of informality in United States legislatures—that is, the state legislatures," he said. "Everybody talks at the same time, they all smoke cigars, and press and public are more or less indistinguishable from the Representatives, unless you know their faces. Everything is

PRINCESS 'ALEX' NEW LEADER OF LONDON NIGHT LIFE

LONDON, Jan. 18 (AP)—"Alex" has become the new reigning glamour girl of Mayfair.

Succeeding Princess Margaret, Princess Alexandra, daughter of the Duchess of Kent, has taken over as leader of the gayest young crowd in London's fashionable night life.

Margaret, now 25 years old, has abdicated gracefully in favor of her 19-year-old cousin with the misty blue eyes. Most of Margaret's escorts and friends of other years have married. Though she still goes to parties with them, the tone is more sedate.

Mayfair has noted differences between the two princesses. Alexandra is easily approachable while Margaret was somewhat aloof.

Margaret is always called "Ma'am," even by close friends. Alexandra likes to be known as Alex.

Margaret's girl friends were mostly from the peerage. Alexandra's include the daughters of well-to-do socialites who are not in Debut.

Alexandra has none of the inhibitions instilled in Margaret, who grew up in a great palace surrounded by flunkies and governesses.

extremely lax and informal. It's most different."

Goldman compared American and British political parties by saying that political parties here are "not as organized" as in England or as in other European countries. Except for election years, the activities of the national political parties are not as widespread in the United States, and party discipline is much more loose, he said.

WIDOW OF JOFFRE DIES

PARIS, Jan. 18 (AP)—Mme. Joseph Joffre, widow of the marshal who commanded all French land forces from 1914 to 1916 in World War I, died last night. She was 93 years old.

Death was caused by a heart attack suffered in her home in Paris.

CORONARY DISEASE SURGERY PREDICTED

Minnesota Professor Tells of Advances Against Birth Defects.

Dr. C. Walton Lillehei, professor of surgery at the University of Minnesota, said here last night that it is now possible to envision a time when surgery within the heart will be used not only to overcome birth defects in that organ but also for such coronary ailments as narrowing of the arteries, which deprives the heart of needed blood.

Already, Dr. Lillehei said, scars left by rheumatic fever on the valves of the heart have yielded to operative techniques, and similar techniques may one day be applied to coronary disease.

"If this narrowing of the arteries happens in the leg, it is already standard procedure to cut out the obstruction and put in a new piece," Dr. Lillehei said. "This may possibly be applied to coronary diseases."

160 Operations.

Dr. Lillehei and his associates in Minneapolis have already performed 160 operations inside the open heart, most of them for defects which were found in the heart at birth and would have left the patient seriously crippled with a short life expectancy, if they were not treated.

He described a new technique perfected only last May. It is one which shuts off the flow of blood through the heart and lungs of the patient and sends it coursing instead through an artificial oxygenator, which purifies the blood by the direct introduction of oxygen—thus allowing the surgeon to take as long as is required to operate on the open heart.

Such operative procedures are used only in "terminal" cases, Dr. Lillehei said. Out of 39 operations for inner ventricular defects with the new technique, 32 have been successful, he said.

"By this technique, you don't have to worry about the patient dying—it gives you time to repair whatever's wrong," Dr. Lillehei said. "And this type of surgery is now being made available in every hospital where major surgery is done."

Dr. Lillehei spoke to a meeting of the St. Louis Medical Society at the Medical Society Auditorium, 3839 Lindell boulevard. Last November he received the Lasker Award, an annual award made by the American Public Health Association under the auspices of the Lasker Foundation, for his work in the field.

"First Breakthrough." The "first clinical breakthrough" in attempts to make possible direct heart surgery came in 1952 at Minneapolis, where Dr. John Lewis and Dr. Richard Varco were able to "cool" a child to a temperature of 26 degrees Centigrade, stopping the inflow of blood into her heart long enough to allow them to work on the heart for 10 or 12 minutes, he said.

A "cross-circulation" technique, in which the circulatory system of a patient and a healthy donor were coupled, leaving the heart of the patient idle during surgery, was employed for the first time on March 28, 1954, Dr. Lillehei said.

His associates in this history-making operation were Drs. Richard Varco, Morley Cohen and Herbert Warder. The technique had been developed by years of painstaking experimentation with dogs in the laboratory.

The heart of the patient was entirely blocked off, Dr. Lillehei said, with a simple pump replacing it. By circulating the patient's blood through the system of the "donor," another individual's lungs could be used to purify the blood. Plastic tubes were used to transfer the blood to and from donor and patient.

By various stages, the original method evolved into the oxygenator technique first employed last May, which eliminates the need for any human donor.

CHARLES E. CLAGGETT NAMED TO HEAD EASTER SEAL DRIVE

Charles E. Claggett has been named campaign chairman for the 1956 Easter Seal drive. Mrs. George A. Fisher Jr., president of the St. Louis Society for Crippled Children, announced today.

The drive is to raise funds to pay for rehabilitation services for crippled and handicapped children in the St. Louis area. It begins March 10.

Claggett, president of Gardner Advertising Co., lives at 201 South Watson road, Ladue.

KETC TO INCREASE AIR TIME FEB. 6

40-Hour Per Week Schedule to Include 3 College Courses.

Educational Television Station KETC will increase its air time to 40 hours weekly beginning Feb. 6, including three one-credit college courses, George L. Arms, station manager, announced today.

The new schedule provides 17½ hours more programming each week than the current schedule, instituted when Arms became manager in November. He described the new schedule as an interim arrangement "that brings us to the halfway mark of our goal, 80 hours of programs weekly."

The three college courses are "Work Simplification," by Prof. Gerald Nadler, chairman of the department of industrial engineering, Washington University; "American Politics," by Prof. Thomas H. Eliot, Washington University, and "The Great American West," a continuation of a history course by Prof. John F. Bannon S.J., St. Louis University.

Programs for school use will be given 22½ hours weekly. Included in this will be three experimental programs financed by a $95,110 grant from the Fund for the Advancement of Education in order to determine if students can learn as much through televised instruction as through classroom instruction.

A total of 900 students at Beaumont and Roosevelt high schools and Jackson, Clinton-Peabody and Pruitt elementary schools will participate in one-semester experimental courses in second grade spelling and ninth grade general science and English composition.

"The Religions of Man," by Prof. Huston Smith, Washington University, again will be presented. A total of 1300 persons registered for the course when it was televised last spring. It will not be offered for college credit this year.

Five new public affairs programs will be presented, covering local, national and international issues, civil liberties and community improvement. "Original dramatic productions will also be offered as a departure in station policy," Arms declared.

FUNERAL OF MRS. J. E. HURT, TEACHER, TO BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. James E. Hurt, a school teacher, will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the English undertaking establishment, 1123 North Taylor avenue, with burial in Greenwood Cemetery.

Until shortly before her death Sunday, Mrs. Hurt had taught at Benton School. She was a graduate of Stowe Teachers College. Previously she had taught at Attucks and L'Ouverture schools. She had been active in civic organizations including the Ferrier Harris Home, Carver League for the Blind and American Red Cross volunteer service. She was a Negro.

Mrs. Hurt died at St. Mary's Infirmary following a brief illness. She was 31 years old. Survivors include her husband, Dr. Hurt; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie McGowan, a brother, Odell McGowan, and her grandmother, Mrs. Emma Clinton.

PARTS OF DEAD SEA SCROLLS TO VATICAN AND UNIVERSITY

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 18 (UP)—Parts of the ancient Dead Sea scrolls, found in 1947 in a Jordan cave, will be given to the Vatican and McGill University of Montreal.

R. B. Y. Scott, professor of religion at Princeton University, said yesterday the gifts would be made because both recipients contributed to the department of antiquities of the Jordan Government.

The scrolls, considered one of the most important religious finds in centuries, contain Biblical texts and other writings of the Biblical period. They are owned by the Jordan Government and currently are in a museum in the Arab section of Jerusalem.

CHARLES J. HARDY DIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—Charles J. Hardy, corporation lawyer and a former president of American Car and Foundry Co., now A.C.F. Industries, Inc., died yesterday. He was 89 years old.

He was president of the manufacturing concern from 1933 to 1944, and chairman of the board until 1951, when his son, Charles J. Hardy Jr., assumed the latter post.

COMPOSER LEO SOWERBY TO CONDUCT AT CONCERT

Leo Sowerby, American composer who won the Pulitzer Prize for music in 1946, will conduct members of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in the first performance here of his Classic Concerto at 8:30 o'clock tonight in a concert at Christ Church Cathedral, Thirteenth and Locust streets.

Ronald Arnatt, the cathedral organist and choirmaster, will be soloist in three organ sonatas by Mozart and will conduct the orchestra in Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 3 and in Music for Strings by Sir Arthur Bliss.

The cathedral's boys' choir will bring two cantatas with the orchestra. The concert is open to the public without charge.

ELIOT UNITARIAN CHAPEL TO BUILD CHURCH IN COUNTY

The first permanent church building of Eliot Unitarian Chapel will be erected on a five-acre site at the northwest corner of Dougherty Ferry and Ballas roads, Kirkwood, it was announced today by Robert E. Goetz, chairman of the building committee.

Eliot Unitarian Chapel, organized a year ago, has been meeting temporarily at 34 North Gore avenue, Webster Groves. The Rev. John Fordon is its first minister.

Plans for the new church and a church school are being drawn by Murphy and Mackey, architects, and construction is expected to begin soon. More than 90 families now are enrolled in the church.

In the Name of Charity.

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY'S current basketball success is giving rise to suggestion that this would be a good year for the Bears to meet the St. Louis University Billikens in a post-season game.

Voicing the idea, which usually pops up every time it appears the two schools might be fairly evenly matched, is E. C. Barnidge, in a letter to sports editors and university heads.

"It has occurred to me that a golden opportunity has presented itself to help a worthy charity," he writes. "This opportunity may never occur again and I think it would help to crystallize the good relationship between the heads of these two universities and also make for better understanding between the student bodies."

"Washington has probably the best basketball team that it has had in years and St. Louis U. has a good one also, although probably not as good as some of the teams in the past. It would not be the matching of one very superior team against a poor team, but the matching of two very competitive teams in the basketball field."

"I think that Kiel Auditorium would experience a sellout performance by scheduling a post-season game between these two teams with the proceeds to go to Boys Town of Missouri at St. James, Mo., or possibly the Olympic Fund."

Stumbling Blocks.

IF THIS amounted to purely a matter of athletic challenge, coaches, players and even the chief executives of the universities undoubtedly would go along with the suggestion.

But there would be other factors involved, problems that have their roots in real differences between the athletic programs of the two schools which haven't met since Washington dropped out of the Missouri Valley Conference in 1947.

Chancellor E. H. A. H. Shepley of Washington U. said he didn't care to comment at this time on the Barnidge proposal which expresses an idea that already has occurred to numerous fans by this time.

But the Washington U. position on this point is known, and it represents a feeling for sportsmanship that could be expected to develop under the athletics-wise Shepley.

"The Hilltop attitude is this: It wouldn't want to put St. Louis U. on the spot by appearing to challenge it in basketball in a season when Washington happens to have an unusually good team. If it were going to play St. Louis under any conditions, it would have to be in year and year out. Because of the difference in athletic emphasis at the two schools, Washington U. might have to 'take its licks' over a period of years, and in aroused public and alumni interest, the pressure would mount for a return to greater emphasis on Washington U. athletics."

This is substantially the Washington U. position which is not easily expressed officially without appearing to assume a holler-than-thou attitude. St. Louis U., operating in basketball in accordance with regulations that apply to all major collegiate athletics powers, hardly would deserve any implication because, if anything, it appears to be on the conservative side.

Other Problems.

THERE are further knotty problems in trying to arrange a post-season game for charity. The Very Rev. Paul C. Reibert, president of St. Louis U., who said he would turn requests for such games over to the athletic council and department heads, pointed out that it's always a question as to what charity should benefit.

"There are many and if you choose one charity, there are always others that believe they should be included," said Father Reibert. He said a post-season game request for "a very good cause" was rejected last season.

Father Reibert also observed that St. Louis U. this season is playing a schedule reduced from 26 to 24 games, with one less road engagement, because it was felt the longer schedule placed a burden on the student athletes. The charity angle is easy to overdo. When the recent proposal for a Bears-Bills game crossed the desk of Sports Editor J. Roy Stockton, he was reminded of the way the late Sam Breadon used to handle people who would spend his money.

"Sam used to get these proposals all the time. A man would say, 'Here's a great idea to make money for the Veneeda Charity. Let's have the Cardinals play some other team and all the proceeds go to charity.'"

"Then Sam would ask the man, 'What business are you in?'"

"Oh, I make tents," the man would reply.

"Well," Sam would say, "why don't you just send 1000 tents to that charity?"

Billikens, Seeking Sixth Straight Victory, Face DePaul

Visitors Lost by 2 Points to Kentucky

By Robert Morrison

Back among the more or less exclusive top 20 in the two major college basketball rankings, the St. Louis University Billikens hope to stay there by beating well-regarded DePaul in an 8:30 game tonight at Kiel Auditorium.

A certain lack of unanimity has been evident in the opinion these polls express about the St. Louis U. team this season. Voters can't seem to make up their minds whether the Bills belong in the top 20 or considerably farther out.

The Bills themselves didn't help the situation when they dropped a couple of home games (to Ohio State and Kentucky) before beginning to assert themselves on the road and in the Missouri Valley Conference race.

Now their record stands at 10 and 2, however, and if they can extend their winning streak to six games with a victory over DePaul (8-5), they won't hurt themselves any.

This may be easier contemplated than done. "We expect a tough 40 minutes of basketball," said Coach Eddie Hickey, as he looked toward the game with Ray Meyer's team from Chicago. Meyer, a Notre Dame star in the late '30's under George Keogan, has had winning seasons in most of his past 13 at DePaul, beginning with George Mikan.

On Comparative Scores. "This DePaul team is a seasoned group with four seniors on the first team," Hickey pointed out. "It could be a game in which the first five on both sides go all the way."

There are lots of opportunities for comparing scores on DePaul and St. Louis. DePaul lost by only two points to Kentucky at Lexington before Kentucky smashed the Bills at St. Louis, 101-80.

Kentucky obviously hadn't reached its full strength when it played DePaul, however. St. Louis lost here by six to Ohio State, which later won by 11 from DePaul at Columbus. Recently St. Louis beat Bradley here by eight and then Bradley, losing Shellie McMillen through injury, lost to DePaul by 15.

Make of what you will. The opinion remains St. Louis should be slightly favored.

Siesczek Top Man. Ron Siesczek, a 6-3 senior averaging about 20 points per game and boasting an individual rebounding efficiency that is high in the nation, is the DePaul standout. Bill Robinson, 6-2 guard, and Ken Jakys, 6-5 center, show averages of about 16 points per game.

Grady Smith, a 20-2 average scorer, Jim McLaughlin at 17 and Joe Todd at almost 14 are the Bills' top scorers.

This will be St. Louis's last game before the semester break in the schedule. They'll resume with another non-conference game against Cincinnati here a week from Saturday. The non-league games, of course, are practically as important in the Billiken picture as the Valley games. These victories come in handy in case the Bills lose out in the struggle for the league championship and an N.C.A.A. berth. The National Invitation Tournament usually offers them a spot if they don't go to the N.C.A.A. but still manage an outstanding record.

Holy Cross, New England's Best, Whips Dartmouth, 81-67

BOSTON, Jan. 18 (UP)—Holy Cross, a regular visitor to post-season basketball tournaments since the end of World War II, can count on another tourney berth this year because it appears far and away the best team in New England.

The Crusaders, ranked thirteenth nationally, racked up their twelfth win in 14 starts last night in Worcester, Mass., by an emphatic 81-67 score over Dartmouth. More important, the win gave Holy Cross a perfect 8-0 record against New England rivals.

Holy Cross has appeared in the National Invitation Tournament for the last two years, winning it in 1954. But it also could be tapped for a berth in the N.C.A.A. tournament, which it won in 1947.

Dartmouth couldn't stay even with the Crusaders for more than two minutes, even though 6-7 Tom Heinsohn, Holy Cross's All-America candidate, had a poor night and tallied only 18 points. Holy Cross spurred to a quick 13-4 margin and rolled easily home as Joe Lieber took scoring honors with 26 points.

Only a slim court program was offered last night, but tonight's card features a number of top-flight games.

Dayton, ranked second to San Francisco nationally, plays host to Villanova in one feature and a victory would enable the Flyers to match San Francisco's perfect 13-0 record for this season.

Louisville, with a 13-1 record, plays host to Memphis State—which has a 12-0 mark to qualify as one of the five remaining unbeaten teams in the major college ranks.

At Chapel Hill, N.C., arch-rivals North Carolina State, ranked third nationally with a 12-1 record, and North Carolina, ranked eleventh with an 11-2 mark, clash in a key Atlantic Coast Conference battle.

Aid to Athletes Ruled Not Tax Exempt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (UP)—The Government has dealt a blow to sports scholarships by ruling that some alumni groups which foot the bills cannot claim tax-exempt status.

The Internal Revenue service said in its current bulletin that groups which are not an "integral part" of colleges and universities are not "exclusively educational" and cannot be exempted from federal income taxes.

It issued the ruling at the request of a non-profit organization which said it promotes the education of young men and women interested in college athletics and education. The group was not identified in the bulletin.

But the ruling could affect many similar organizations which finance the recruitment of top stars for college teams.

The organization which asked for the tax ruling said its members meet in their respective towns and invite interested athletes to hear talks by university coaches and officials.

The bulletin said during the year representatives of the university make trips to interview prospective students and to induce them to attend their institution. Travel expenses of the officials and the prospective athletes are paid by the organization.

However, the bulletin said "the university does not in any way finance or supervise the activities of the organization."

It added that since the organization is not a part of the university its recruiting activities "... are not properly classifiable as exclusively educational."

"Within the definition of a non-profit tax exempt organization."

The ruling concluded that "it is held that an organization which raises funds to be used in travel and other activities to interview and persuade prospective students with outstanding athletic ability to attend a particular university, and which is not an integral part of such institution, is not exempt from Federal income tax ... as an educational organization."

20 to 1 Shot Wins Hialeah Inaugural

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 18 (AP)—Hialeah Park opened the rich middle portion of Miami's thoroughbred racing season yesterday and Maine Chance Farm's Apollo surprised the 23,621 spectators by whipping 13 other sprint stars in the $27,025 Inaugural Handicap.

Coupled with Hickory Hill and Munchausen in the field, Apollo carried the featherly impost of 108 pounds and sped the six furlongs in 1:10-over a fast track to win by a neck.

Spring Hill Farms' Appeal was second and W. L. Huntley's Hilarious was a length and a half away in third. Maurice Sims' Blessbull, who won his feature last year in track record time of 1:09 2-5, was fourth.

Apollo, making his first start since Nov. 14 at Jamaica, was overlooked in the betting and paid $42.50, $15.60 and $8.50. Appeal returned $13.50 and $10.50 while the show price on Hilarious was $14.20.

Belgian Hurt, Bobsled Trials Are Suspended

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Jan. 18 (AP)—Olympic bobsled time trials were suspended today after a Belgian sled hurtled off the course. The driver, Charles de Sorger, suffered a fractured arm, a contusion of the spine and a bruised left knee.

It was the third bobsled crash in two days. Norwegian and French sleds piled up yesterday.

What started as a minor squabble erupted into a major and bitter dispute today as visiting teams harassed the International Olympic Committee about Italy's early access to the tricky bobsled run.

Art Tyler of Rochester, N. Y., the usually soft-spoken veteran of the United States squad, said the "committee fumbled" official handling of practice runs over the course. Other foreign entries agreed.

Italian Early Berds. The foreign teams had been notified the Olympic bobsled run would be opened for practice Jan. 17. But when they arrived, they found the Italian team had been practicing over the run since Jan. 6.

"It's questionable whether with the limited amount of practice time left it's still possible we can overcome the Italians' advantage," said Tyler. The United States had been co-favorites with Italy and Switzerland in the final races, which begin Jan. 27. But Italy has the favorite role all to itself now, particularly since its top driver, Eugenio Monti, set a course record for a two-man sled in 1:22.68 yesterday.

Other drivers attributed the record to the fact Monti has made more than 60 runs down the tricky course while they have had no more than four shots at it. Some took their first trip down the run only yesterday.

Compared with Golf, British, Swedish, Romanian and Swiss entries echoed Tyler's complaint. One European driver said, "I don't see how we have a chance to catch up with the Italians now. In the bobs, knowing the course is as important as it is in golf."

An Italian Olympic official said the run had been kept open for the Italians because

Sandy Saddler Is Favored to Retain Title

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18 (UP)—Sandy Saddler and Gabriel (Flash) Elorde meet tonight in a 15-round featherweight title bout with the ringwise champion favored to reverse an earlier decision scored by the then little-known Filipino. The fight will be telecast by KTVI.

The speedy little Filipino, only 22, surprised Saddler in a wild fight in Manila's Rizal stadium last July, taking a bloody 10-round decision. The victory shot him into title contention and moved him from the ranks of the unknowns to a ninth ranking.

However, he has never gone more than 10 rounds in his 37 pro bouts and the smart ones are tabbing Saddler, who has a mad on over Elorde camp charges that he is "dirty," to end the fray early in the evening—probably by the tenth.

Saddler, 32, will be seeking his 101st knockout in his 160th pro fight.

"It was simply pre-Olympic training on their home run. Other competitors could train in their countries just as our men trained here."

Plaque Stolen From Ted Lyons's Automobile

CHICAGO, Jan. 18 (UP)—Ted Lyons, former Chicago White Sox pitcher and manager, reported to police today that a plaque given him by the Baseball Writers Association was stolen from his auto.

Lyons said clothing as well as the plaque was taken from the car parked in front of a South Side hotel where he lives.

Lyons said he could wear old clothes but he "wished" the crook would return his plaque. "A hero today and a bum tomorrow," he commented.

Ozark Sportsman and Outdoors
Writer.

Missouri quail hunters, especially in the Ozark area, enjoyed the best season in five years. The season was two weeks longer than in 1954 and there was a marked increase in the quail population over that of the preceding drouth years. Most quail hunters think that next year holds promise of being even better due to the heavy carry-over of brood stock.

But there are several "ifs" in the prediction. Throughout December and most of January Missouri has suffered from a record-breaking lack of rainfall. Farm ponds have gone dry, small streams have ceased running, and, if the drouth continues much longer, the remaining quail population will be further depleted. So far the winter has been mild and fairly free of snow and ice. If the remaining winter months should furnish temperate weather, the mortality rate will be lessened and all will be well until mating, nesting and rearing time.

1955 Almost Ideal Year.
Covers usually break up in Missouri in March. In April, May and June they are mating and nesting, and the peak month of hatching is July. This is the all-important month of bobwhite reproduction, but the preceding months must be propitious if there is a favorable hatch. If there is lack of cover, the nesting is unsuccessful. Cover only can be produced by ample rainfall. If there is an over-abundance of rainfall, nests are destroyed and a new clutch of eggs is laid. An extremely hot, dry July will cause the eggs to be infertile and there is a heavy mortality rate of the young birds that are hatched.

Last year was nearly ideal for nesting, hatching and rearing of young birds. The temperatures in May, June and July were moderate and the rains were ample and well-spaced over these three important months of quail production. As a result there was an increase in birds that astounded even the experts, and weather was, and always will be, the vital factor. Whether it controls the food, cover and water conditions which are necessary for quail propagation. Excessive heat or cold and too much or too little rainfall will drastically reduce the population, and it is seldom that some of the extremes are not present during a hatching and rearing season.

Pen-raised birds cannot compensate for a poor hatching and rearing season. Many states have tried to repopulate their dwindling quail resources by this method but were unsuccessful. Claude Gresham, former editor of the Louisiana Conservationist, said careful studies by Louisiana's game biologists revealed that pen-raised birds underwent a rapid and progressive loss after release into the field. By the end of six months no more than 3 per cent of the birds remained alive.

1-to-200 Odds, He Says.
Gresham put it this way: "You are playing the horses at your local hunter downs and the tote board shows the odds on Mr. Bobwhite in the fifth at 1 to 200. That's right; 1 to 200—not 200 to 1. For every 100 bucks you lay on the line you can reasonably expect to get four bits back. Would you lay your hard-earned cash on Brother Bob on a proposition like that? We think not."

"Here's the way we arrived at the above odds. During the four years from 1949 through 1952, Louisiana released 144,029 pen-raised quail. All were banded prior to release, yet only 855 bands have been returned. That figures out at slightly more than a half of 1 per cent return. The cost of releasing these birds was about $2 each; thus about $400 of your money was spent for each quail that we can account for through band returns.

"If you think there was some slip-up in the figuring somewhere, just check the Louisiana data against that of three other states. In 1937 Pennsylvania released 8804 hatchery birds and got only 74 band returns—0.84 per cent. Oklahoma from 1942 to 1946 released 57,062 and got a return of 1.26 per cent. An Atlantic Coast state liberated 13,500 for a 1.12 per cent return. Not a great deal of difference in the figures, is there?"

Perhaps other states have had greater success in releasing pen-raised birds than that indicated by Gresham. It is possible that some biologist in the future will successfully work out a method of mass quail production and release that will materially assist the wild bird population. But at present fluctuation is to be found in the future readings of the thermometer and barometer. However, we have an excellent bank of surplus birds that will produce a bumper crop next season if the weather will be kind to the hardy and persevering bobwhites.

Billiken Swimmers' Next Foe Is Loyola

Off to a bad start in losing to the Missouri School of Mines team, 53-31, the St. Louis University swimming team looks forward to its next meet, with Loyola of Chicago, Feb. 4. The Billiken team is made up of Francis Eyerman and Frank Rose, lettermen, and Jim McConville, Ron Gest, Gene Ehrhart, Rich Hollocher, Andy Nil, Bill Hoffman and Bob Viehman.

Country Day Soccer Winner

Country Day School's leading scorer, Center Forward Randy Wielandy, put the ball into the net four times as Codasco defeated Taylor School, 9-0 in a non-league soccer match, yesterday. Other scorers were Bob Harvey and John McDonnell.

Antonelli, Bauer and Ashburn in No Hurry to Sign Contracts

Phillies' Jones Gets Increase

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (UP)—Johnny Antonelli of the Giants, Hank Bauer of the Yankees and Richie Ashburn of the Phillies all shared a common lack of enthusiasm for signing their contracts today.

Antonelli, who won 14 games and lost 16 last season, is objecting to the slice the Giants want him to take.

Bauer feels his 20 home runs and .278 average for the Yankees rate more than the same contract he worked under last year.

And Ashburn, who led the National League in batting with a .338 mark, thinks the Phillies should have given him a bigger raise. In a letter to General Manager Roy Hamey, Ashburn wrote he has neither "approved nor disapproved" his 1956 contract. Boiled down, that means he's not happy.

Skidded After Big Bear.
Antonelli, who skidded sharply after his 21 victories in 1954, admitted he had rejected the Giants' first offer. "I'll take a cut if they prove I deserve one," he said, "but so far, they haven't."

Willie Jones of the Phillies, who has accepted two maximum salary cuts in recent years, received an increase for 1956 and wasted little time agreeing to terms. Jones hit 16 homers and drove in 81 runs last year despite a .258 average.

Washington announced the signing of five pitchers, two of them—Truman Clevenger and Dick Brodowski—being recent acquisitions in the nine-player trade with Boston. The three other Senators hurried to sign were Pedro Ramos, Camillo Pascual and Bucky Stewart. Also signed were Outfielder Tom Wright and Shortstop Lyle Luttrel.

Right-hander Jim Wilson, a 12-game winner last season, signed his contract with Baltimore, as did rookie Outfielder Jim Pisoni of St. Louis, and Chuck Certei.

Two New Indians Sign.
The Cleveland Indians received signed contracts from two highly-regarded rookies—Hank Aguirre, left-handed pitcher, and Billy Harrell, shortstop. Both were with Indianapolis of the American Association last season and finished up with the parent club. Aguirre beat Detroit, 7-0, after appearing in relief, and Harrell batted .421 in 13 games.

Vice President Chuck Comiskey of the White Sox announced the signing of two rookies, making a total of 12 men under contract to Chicago. The new signings were First Baseman Jim Marshall and Pitcher Tom Flanagan.

Pitchers Hershel Freeman, Rudy Minarcin, Jackie Collum and Charley Rabe and Outfielder Bob Thurman agreed to terms with Cincinnati. All but Rabe signed with the Redlegs last season. Reliever Freeman had a great season, posting an earned-run average of 2.15. The Cubs signed four rookies, bringing their total to 19. Their signees were Infielder Don Gaddy, Catcher Jim Fanning and Pitchers John Pyecha and Bob Thorpe. A 20-game winner with Des Moines.

Third Baseman Hank Thompson, who slumped to .245 last season but said he is in excellent physical condition again, signed with the Giants for approximately $18,500. Thompson is expected to battle an Army returnee, Daryl Spencer, for the regular third base job this year.

Carl Hubbell, the Giant farm director who also was in for a visit, reported that Spencer is playing brilliantly in the Puerto Rican Winter League and will give Thompson a real scrap.

Johnny Layton, Ex-Champion of Billiards, Dies

Johnny Layton, former world champion billiards player, was found dead in his home at 4424 Blair av., at 8 o'clock this morning. The place is a rooming house.

Layton, 69 years old, had been inactive as a professional player in recent years. He had been incapacitated in a traffic accident in Chicago 25 years ago and did not regain his playing form. A cerebral stroke a few years after the accident also reduced his efficiency as a billiards player.

Police reported that Layton's wife, Florence, from whom he was separated, lives at 4255 Lee av., with their son, William. An inquest will be held by the coroner tomorrow morning.

At the peak of his game, in the 20s and 30s, Layton held both the world 3-cushion and pocket billiards championships. Among his victims then was Willie Hoppe. In those days St. Louis produced some of the world's great players but none won so many professional titles as Layton.

Lakers Hand Hawks 11th Defeat In Their Last 13 League Games

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 18—St. Louis's Hawks take a day off before meeting league-leading Fort Wayne tomorrow night at New Orleans.

Coach Red Holzman's players apparently need the respite after running out of gas in the second half of their 97-86 loss to Minneapolis here last night.

The Hawks hit a frigid span early in the third period, tried to come back late in the same session and fell far off the pace at the beginning of the fourth quarter.

With big Charley Share scoring 16 points, St. Louis grabbed a 44-41 halftime margin, but Slater Martin, who was in the Hawks' hair all evening; Whitely Skoog and Clyde Lovellette sparked the Lakers to a 55-50 bulge with 5:15 to go in the third.

Pettit Retains Lead.
Bob Pettit, who has been bothered by an upset stomach the past week, managed 16 points, although he missed the first quarter. Pettit kept his loop scoring edge over Lovellette, 829 to 819, although the Laker star wound up with 22 points, 16 coming in Minneapolis' big second half.

The Hawks, who dropped their eleventh decision in the last thirteen starts, fell two games behind Minneapolis in the battle for third place in the Western division.

Martin and Skoog did a remarkable defensive job against the Hawks, felling several fast breaks and starting the Hawks often enough to set the Lakers up for six clinch 2-pointers.

Mikan Is Not Ready.
George Mikan didn't appear quite ready for full-time duty. He hit one fielder and had to wait until the last two minutes to get it.

Minneapolis took 64 rebounds, while the Hawks grabbed 61. The Lakers also had a slight shooting edge from the field, 39.4 to 37.4.

The loss evened the Hawks' season record with Minneapolis at 4-4.
A crowd of 7822 watched the first N.B.A. game in Kansas City. The game was a sell-out but snow and icy streets kept many fans home.

In other games the Boston Celtics beat the Fort Wayne Pistons, 91-85, at Charlotte, N. C., and the New York Knicks downed the Rochester Royals, 112-107, in New York.

Wings Rout Collegians.

EAST LANSING, Mich., Jan. 18 (UP)—Lorne Ferguson scored his first goal in a Detroit uniform last night as the Red Wings beat Michigan State College, 9-3, in an exhibition hockey game here. Metro Prystal led the Wings in scoring with a "hat trick."

Ball Players in Benefit Bowling

At Arway, Jan. 29

The annual bowling match between major league ball players and press-radio-TV representatives is scheduled for Jan. 29 at Arway Recreation, Kingshighway and Arsenal.

Lou Adame, ball park public address announcer who organizes the event, said the ball players team would include Red Schoendienst, Tom Poholsky, Ken Boyer, Bobby Hofman and Joe Garagiola. The announcers team will include France Laux, Ed Hagan, Ray Nelson, Harry Mitauer and Harry Stone.

The March of Dimes fund will benefit from the program, Adame said.

STEVENSON ASKS FOR REPUDIATION OF 'BRINK OF WAR'

Democrat Demands President Fire Dulles or Reject Alleged Policy.

The New York Times News Service, Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—

ST. PAUL, Jan. 18—Adlai E. Stevenson demanded yesterday that President Eisenhower disavow Secretary of State John Foster Dulles or publicly repudiate the "brink of war" policy attributed to Dulles.

Stevenson, who came here from Chicago to enter his formal candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination in the March 20 Minnesota presidential primary, expressed the hope that the President's silence is not to be construed as approval of the "brink of war" views of his Secretary of State.

He went on to say, "I can hardly believe the President has adopted a popular magazine as the place to announce his intentions about war and peace in Asia."

Stevenson's attack on Dulles came in a press conference here which followed a ceremony in the State Capitol in which he signed a document formalizing his candidacy in the primaries as represented by a slate of delegate-candidates to the national Democratic convention who have pledged in advance their support of his candidacy.

"Ominous Statements" Stevenson expanded on a formal statement which spoke of "two ominous and frightening statements" made public in the last week.

He said, "Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, former Chief of Staff of the Army, has declared that during his tenure Defense Department decisions were not based on clear-cut military needs but on budgetary considerations, on political considerations, on the advantage to be gained in the field of domestic politics by a drastic reduction in military expenditures."

"Yet," he continued, "Secretary of State Dulles has just told us that three times during the last three years he led the American people to the brink of war, with the President's approval—and boasts that such dangerous risks are a diplomatic 'art' to quote his words, of which he claims mastery."

"I need hardly point out that for this nation to walk to the verge of war three times in three years while drastically reducing our military defenses for domestic political advantage can only be counted as suicidal folly."

Urges 'Searching Scrutiny' Stevenson demanded that the nation's defense and foreign policies be "submitted to the most searching scrutiny."

He said "sabre-rattling, threats of atomic war and disregard of our allies will not reduce tensions, not make friends or inspire confidence in the United States and also they tend to confirm the propaganda that America is a greater danger to peace than Russia."

Stevenson said "instead of torturing history, demeaning our friends, hurling threats and brandishing weapons, the Administration would serve us and the cause of peace better if it exerted our military and our moral force with positive determination to end the hydrogen race and to rid the world of this ghastly menace."

He added that it was his hope that President Eisenhower's position might not be construed as favoring this course through his silence and that, if he disapproved, "his course of action is clearly indicated."

By the Associated Press—The St. Paul Pioneer Press said last night it had learned that Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tennessee) does not plan to challenge Stevenson directly in the Minnesota primary.

The newspaper said in a dispatch from its Washington bureau that Kefauver would begin an active campaign for write-in votes. Hjalmar Petersen, a former Minnesota governor, has been named by Kefauver to head his campaign in the state.

2 CLIENTS, 2 EMPLOYEES OF VIOLA BEFORE JURY Two clients and two employees of Joseph Viola, real estate operator who is reported to owe 20 creditors about $100,000, appeared yesterday before the circuit court grand jury.

The clients were Mrs. James W. Bollinger of Eureka, Mo., and Jack Lena, 3917 Meramec street. The employees of Viola Realty Inc., 3500 Hampton avenue, were Mrs. Elba Gibson, 6928 Marquette avenue, and Walter Stroebel, 5427 Goethe avenue.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Eugene P. Freeman said his investigation indicated Mr. and Mrs. Bollinger had paid Viola $12,800 for a deed of trust which was never delivered by Viola. Freeman said Lena reported giving Viola $1700 to be turned over to a money lender but that Viola's records did not show the instructions were carried out. The grand jury will resume its investigation of the realty firm's affairs tomorrow, Freeman said.

WOMAN IS FOUND HANGED

The body of Mrs. Fred Ahlmeier was found hanging by a clothesline yesterday in the basement of her home at 10194 Dorothy avenue, Riverview Gardens, police reported.

Her mother, Mrs. Kate Smith, said her daughter had been dependent. The grand jury was released Monday from Park Lane Hospital, where she had been treated for a nervous condition. She was 54 years old.

Press Views Budget As Triumph, Vote Bid

mates are conservative suggests that later in the year the Administration may discover that a tax cut could, after all, be justified. We agree with the President, however, that it is better to make some reduction, no matter how slight in the public debt. In that way, as he pointed out, the nation can best maintain financial integrity.

Hartford (Conn.) Courant.

The $65,800,000,000 budget, President Eisenhower sent to Congress presents our fiscal standing in clear outline—and that outline is good. For the first time since 1951, when the Korean war again sent government expenditures skyrocketing, we shall take in more than we pay out. Thus the Eisenhower Administration has finally achieved its campaign promise that, by prudent and efficient management, it would put the Government into the black. And this under the system used in government budgeting, which often lists huge capital expenditures as so many current items.

So rosy is the picture seen by the President and his fiscal experts that Mr. Eisenhower now proposes another long-sought relief, a cut in the national debt. It will be only a token cut. But at least it will call a halt to the endless upward rise.

Christian Science Monitor—The first thing to remember about an American budget is that the President proposes but Congress disposes. But it is unlikely that Congress will wish to take the responsibility for another unbalanced budget. At the same time it would like to take responsibility for some tax cuts.

What does this add up to? It indicates that Congress is going to have difficulty producing tax cuts this election year—or any year until the Cold War eases. If federal costs are rising—and that is what the budget says—revenues will have to rise even further to obtain the small surplus the President hopes for. Congress will have to cut some of the Eisenhower projects or make sure or sharply improved revenues before it can play with tax cuts.

Dallas News—The tax pinch has reached a point where the voter has become dollar-conscious and is beginning—at long last—to worry. So what the Administration asks and Congress does in the way of spending and taxing under 1956 legislation are likely to play a part in this year's election. The Administration tosses the ball to Congress. There is good politics in that. "Here's your balanced budget," says Eisenhower. "Adopt it and prosper." Any congressional moves to inflate and unbalance it will become political capital for 1956.

Milwaukee Journal—The new budget, to the extent that Congress enacts it, has to disappoint the most avid debt reducers and the most eager tax cutters. But at least it invites some confidence that the nation can carry its huge defense burden—still two-thirds of all spending—and yet step forward on the civilian front without worsening its fiscal and economic stability.

Chicago Tribune—The budget will prove embarrassing to the Republican candidate in the fall elections, whether he is Mr. Eisenhower or someone else. President Eisenhower should reflect upon his promise to Mr. Taft, and also his own statement about taxes as a Republican candidate. He said: "They say you can't cut taxes. What kind of stuff is that? Of course you can and will. That is what the people want now. They want lower taxes now."

These words are as true in 1956 as when Mr. Eisenhower spoke them in the campaign of 1952. Washington Evening Star... The defense budget—$55,800,000,000—is a whooper. But the 1957 proposal cuts military aircraft procurement $130,000,000 below the current year, and about $1,300,000,000 below the fiscal 1955 outlay. This will alarm a good many dedicated men who are concerned with only the security of the country. And this alarm will not be allayed by the fact that the total military estimate is up about one billion dollars—much of this going for an increase in work on guided missiles and similar weapons.

What we have here is the familiar argument between those who are concerned with a war which may have to be fought tomorrow with the weapons on hand, and those who believe that we must plan our defense programs for the long pull.

Richmond Times-Dispatch—The Eisenhower budget for fiscal 1957 is based on optimistic assumption that "it ain't goin' to rain no more"—that the sun of prosperity will shine in a cloudless sky from July 1, 1956 until June 30, 1957.

Instead of being based on a realistic premise, it is based on a promise, of still better times ahead.

The budget has virtually no margin of safety. The assumed $400,000,000 surplus is, as the President himself admitted in his message to Congress, "slim"—far too slim to act as a cushion. It constitutes only 6/10 of 1 per cent of the total budget. It is, as Senator Byrd comments, "so fragile as to be utterly undependable."

The only plausible answer is that "this is an election year," and that the additional billions in appropriations asked by Mr. Eisenhower are intended to reassure the business community as a whole that the record-breaking business activity will continue for a year-and-a-half. If his immediate predecessor in office had attempted the same maneuver in an election year, the New Deal slogan "spend and spend—elect and elect" would have been dug out of the mothballs and hurled at him by righteously indignant Republicans. They have only themselves to blame if the weapons they wielded four years ago should boomerang.

PERON SAYS FOES PAID MILITARY TO BETRAY HIM

military situation (on the ground) was fully favorable to me. My troops were fully deployed, and it was only a question of time to subdue the rebellious centers in Cordoba and Bahia Blanca."

Then he told how the navy and air force were decisive: "I was troubled by the threat to bombard the civilian population. Thousands of innocent people who had nothing to do with the struggle would have lost their lives."

He was also troubled by the destruction of the Eva Peron oil refinery (by naval bombardment)—a project of extraordinary value and one which I regarded as a son of mine.

Recalled Loss in Spain. "I was also influenced by the thought of a possible civil war bringing total destruction. I recalled the panorama of poor devastated Spain."

Many advised me to open the arsenals and turn over arms and munitions to the workers who were anxious to fight, but this would have meant massacre and probably destruction of half of Buenos Aires. In these things one knows how they begin but not how they end."

In another passage Peron suggested there was another and perhaps more important reason why he did not arm the workers. He said he actually proposed this step at a special meeting with his military chiefs at the beginning of September but they blocked it. He said they maintained the armed forces would be offended, regarding it as a lack of confidence in them.

In giving way to his military advisers, Peron said "I committed a great error." It was an error, he told me, he did not intend to repeat in the future.

Two Jets Collide, Pilot Killed. TROY, O., Jan. 18 (AP)—Two Air Force jet fighters collided seven miles above earth last night. One pilot, Capt. B. E. Thayer, ejected himself from his disabled craft and parachuted to earth. The other, First Lt. J. J. Schulte, was killed.

'TWIN BROTHER' ALIBI ROBBER SENTENCED

William F. Durbin Gets 12 Years for Holdups in County.

William F. Durbin, who attempted to avoid implication in a series of St. Louis county holdups by inventing a twin brother alibi last August today was sentenced to 12 years in Alcoa Reformatory. He pleaded guilty of six first-degree robbery charges in circuit court at Clayton.

A jury had been selected in the court of Judge Raymond E. LaDriere to try the 29-year-old defendant on one charge when it was announced that a plea of guilty would be entered in the robberies of three drug stores, two liquor stores and a physician. Concurrent 12-year terms were imposed.

Durbin, who has been in trouble with the police since he was 15 years old, was paroled in St. Louis circuit court two months before his arrest in St. Louis county in August. The parole was recommended by the circuit attorney's office because of evidence Durbin gave against eight companions, who received prison terms up to 15 years in a series of robberies in the city.

His story that he had a twin brother with whom he might have been confused by county holdup victims identifying him, was disproved by police. Robbery charges then were issued against him.

Holdups in which guilty pleas were entered today were: Liquor store at 1040 South Kirkwood road, Aug. 6, $129; Liquor store, Halls Ferry and Chambers roads, Aug. 10, $123; drug store, 8554 St. Charles road, Aug. 12, $800; drug store, 8816 Gravois avenue, Aug. 18, $147; drug store, 8200 Gravois road, Aug. 24, $240; Dr. John Collins, a physician, 6928 Hampton avenue, who was a customer in the store at 8200 Gravois, $22. Durbin, whose last address was in the 1100 block of South Fourteenth street, served a training school term in 1951 and an intermediate reformatory sentence in 1952.

ST. JOHN'S CHILD CLINIC GETS LIONS' CLUB GIFTS

The children's clinic of St. John's Hospital has received gifts of medical equipment from the Hampton Lions' Club, it was announced today.

The gifts were a pediatric examining table, an ophthalmoscope and an otoscope. The presentation was made to Sister Mary Isidore, director of the outpatient and social service departments of the hospital, by William A. Degenhardt, club president.

In the last year the Hampton club has given more than $1700 to various St. Louis charitable organizations.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Schubert, 4106 Bates street, observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary today. A family dinner and reunion will be held Friday at the home of a daughter.

DULLES DISPUTE SHOWS FAULTS IN COMMUNICATION

fusion among officials seeking public understanding of their official policies. Vice President Nixon went out to Springfield, Ill., last week to give some awards at a National Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting. While he was there, he talked to quite a few Republicans about the Administration's foreign economic aid program. He was appalled at the extent of misunderstanding about the need and purpose of this program, and shocked by the violence of the opposition.

Deals With Problem.

He came back to Washington and decided to meet this problem head on. The result was his speech in Philadelphia last night. That is one way, and a good way, to deal with a political problem. However, at the same time, the first fractional test of the foreign aid program went to Capitol Hill yesterday. It has to do with the Administration's plans to help build the high Aswan dam in Egypt. Herbert Hoover Jr., the Under Secretary of State, also wanted to explain why it was essential to back this economic aid project and give the State Department some authority to carry on the work for a number of years. Nevertheless, Hoover's meeting with the Foreign Relations Committee was held in secret, and while a brief statement was finally let out, the main thread of his argument and the attitude of the Foreign Relations Committee were minimized.

In short, this question of public education is left usually to the pleasure of the official concerned. Hoover avoids the limelight like the plague—has ever since he came to Washington—and as a result an opportunity was lost to clarify the problem which felt was in sore need to public exposure. The danger now is that the officials concerned in the great magazine mystery will now want to forget the whole thing. The week's developments could, however, be put to some good after all. The long-delayed, long-promised effort to think through this problem of a democratic government and a democratic press could, but probably won't, be undertaken.

DUNCAN HINES
America's foremost authority on good eating

Start with a Duncan Hines Cake Mix, and the hard work's done!
You add the fancy touches that turn them into glamorous desserts

Duncan Hines says: "It's what you do with a cake that takes it out of the ordinary and into the dessert that gives you special pleasure and pride when you serve it. And here are eight examples to prove that the unusual cake is little, if any, more trouble than the familiar frosted one."

"The fancy touches are fun, when the cake itself is as easy to mix and bake as it is with my mixes. Of course, you must start with a fine cake. That's why my mixes use the flours and shortenings specially created for delicate, velvety texture... the freshest and finest flavorings... and why they are creamed longer than you could do by hand, thoroughly blended at every step.

"No doubt you have tried some of my cake mixes, but have you tried all of them? With the wide variety now available, your cakes can be different at every meal. I hope you will try these delicious ways to serve them... and I'll be bringing you more variations gathered from my travels. Watch for them!"

Desserts with the Duncan Hines Touch —all easy to make with Duncan Hines Cake Mixes

1 PINK DIVINITY CAKE

Follow package directions for Duncan Hines White Cake, except in Step 3 add 1/4 cup maraschino cherry juice instead of water. Stir in 1/2 cup finely cut maraschino cherries. Bake and frost with Pink Divinity Frosting.

In saucepan, mix 1 cup sugar, 1/4 cup light corn syrup and 1/4 cup water. Boil slowly until syrup spins a 4- to 6-inch thread. Beat 2 egg whites until they hold a peak. Pour hot syrup in a fine stream into egg whites, beating all the time. Add 1 tsp. vanilla and 2 or 3 drops red food coloring. Beat until thick.

2 MERINGUE PEACH TORTE

Place one layer of Duncan Hines White Cake on cookie sheet. (Use rest of batter for cake layer or cupcakes.) Drain 1 can (30 oz.) sliced peaches. Arrange peaches on top of cake. Spread with stiff meringue made with 2 egg whites and 4 Tbsp. sugar.

Top with 1/4 cup slivered almonds. Bake at 350° for 15 min., or until meringue is brown.

3 CHERRY CROWN CAKE

Bake half the Duncan Hines Yellow Cake batter in a 5-cup ring mold. (Remaining batter may be used for cake layer or cupcakes.) Cool. Place top side down on serving plate. Scoop a quart of vanilla ice cream into center. Serve with warm Cherry Sauce.

Drain, then measure juice from 1 can (20 oz.) pitted dark sweet cherries. Add water to make 1 cup. Put 1 Tbsp. cornstarch in saucepan; stir in juice. Cook and stir until thick. Reduce heat; cook 5 min. longer. Stir in cherries.

4 MARSH- MALLOW FUDGE PUDDING

In a 13 x 9 x 2 inch oblong pan, mix 1 cup brown sugar and 1/2 cup cocoa. Stir in 2 cups water. Top with 12 marshmallows, cut in quarters, and 1 cup cut-up nuts. Pour Duncan Hines Devil's Food Cake batter over mixture in pan. Bake 45 to 50 minutes. Cut into squares. Equally delicious served warm or cold. Top with a spoonful of whipped cream, if desired.

5 SPLIT LAYER WHIPPED CREAM CAKE

Bake Duncan Hines Devil's Food Cake in 2 layers. Cool. Split each layer into two layers. Fill and top with this Chocolate Cream:

Stir 2 cups whipping cream into 1/4 cup instant cocoa mix (or 1/4 cup cocoa mixed with 1/2 cup sugar). Add 1 tsp. vanilla and few grains salt. Chill 1 hour. Whip until stiff.

Top with chocolate curls made by shaving thin slices from a square of bitter or semi-sweet chocolate with vegetable peeler or paring knife. Chill cake 3 hours to thoroughly blend flavors.

6 FRUIT CAKE

Empty 1 package Duncan Hines Spice Cake Mix into 3-qt. bowl. Stir in 1/2 cup boiling water. Mix well. Let stand 30 minutes. Meanwhile: Mix 1 lb. cut-up candied fruit and peel, 1 cup cut-up dates or prunes, 1 1/2 cups seedless raisins and 1 1/2 cups chopped nuts. Add 2/3 cup sifted, all-purpose flour. Mix well.

Grease and line with heavy wrapping paper a 10-inch tube pan or 2 loaf pans, 9 x 5 x 3 inches. Add 3 eggs to cake batter. Beat until smooth. Stir in 1/2 cup soft butter or margarine. Blend in fruit mixture.

Bake in slow oven (300°) until top is golden brown (about 2 hrs. for tube pan; 1 3/4 hrs. for loaf pans). Cool before removing from pan. Wrap cake in waxed paper and store in covered container in cool, dry place.

7 DOUBLE MARBLE CAKE

Bake Duncan Hines Marble Cake in layers. Frost with Divinity Frosting (see recipe on package) or your favorite fluffy white frosting. For Chocolate Drizzle: Melt 2 squares bitter chocolate with 1/2 tsp. butter or margarine. Spoon chocolate around edge of frosted cake and let it run down over sides. A most delicious cake!

8 PINEAPPLE CREAM CAKE

Bake Duncan Hines Angel Food Cake as package directs. Cool. Split cake into 3 layers. Fill and frost with this Pineapple Cream:

Beat 2 cups whipping cream until it begins to thicken. Gradually beat in 2/3 cup sugar. When stiff, fold in 1 cup drained crushed pineapple. Chill until served.

Bills to Keep Segregation Win Unanimously in Georgia Senate

One Would Authorize Injunction Against Any Action to Obey U.S. Supreme Court Order.

By SAM E. ARMSTRONG
National Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Jan. 18 — The Georgia Senate yesterday voted unanimous approval of a bill which would empower the state's Attorney General to enjoin school officials or other individuals from any action or "threatened action" toward complying with the decree of the United States Supreme Court.

Air Conditioning

that racial segregation in public schools is unconstitutional.

Without a dissenting vote, the Senate also passed other measures which made up Gov. Marvin Griffin's program with which he thinks he can "whip" the United States Supreme Court.

These bills would:

1. Give the Governor authority to close public schools if necessary to enforce segregation.

2. Authorize the Governor to grant state and local school funds to finance private schools.

3. Permit school boards of county, city or private systems to lease buildings and other facilities to operators of private schools.

4. Allow teachers in private schools to come under the state teacher retirement system if public schools are eliminated.

5. Require private schools to obtain a safety certificate from the state fire marshal.

6. Permit the state, counties or cities to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of public parks, playgrounds, golf courses or swimming pools if necessary to prevent desegregation.

Previous Actions.

Previously approved were a constitutional amendment (1954) permitting state grants to private persons for educational purposes, and a statute prohibiting use of state funds for support of non-segregated schools.

Floor Leader Howard Overby expressed the opinion that the bill authorizing injunction action by the Attorney General was "the one that puts the teeth in all our previous actions."

It was amended before passage to clarify its reference to a "demand" for action to end segregation, which would constitute a basis for prosecution by the Attorney General. It applies only to written demands formally presented to the state of a county, city or school district.

The change was made after some Senators suggested that as originally written the bill might be on "constitutional thin ice" because it might have been a gag on freedom of speech.

Senator Owen Page of Savannah, who had a hand in the amendment, was asked by Senator Dorsey Matthews of Moultrie whether the Governor's bills would "solve the problems facing us."

"I might think so," replied Senator Page, "and the Attorney General might think so, but I don't know what the nine gentlemen in Washington are going to think."

Query on Supreme Court.

Then Senator Francis Shurling of Wrightsville inquired as to what authority to close schools the Governor would have if the United States Supreme Court should find the Georgia segregation law unconstitutional.

"The attitude of the people of Georgia," replied Senator Page, "is something the Supreme Court has got to contend with. The court of final appeal is the people themselves."

The program was drafted by the Georgia Education Commission, created during Herman Talmadge's administration as Governor with Griffin, present Governor, as chairman.

After the Supreme Court announced that segregation was unconstitutional in recreational areas supported by public funds as well as in public schools, Gov. Griffin proclaimed that "commingling of the races in Georgia state parks and recreational areas will not be permitted or tolerated; forcing of the issue in the courts or subsequently through attempted usage can only result in abandonment or disposal of such facilities."

Last Dec. 22, United States District Judge Boyd Sloan issued an order clearing the way for Negroes to play on Atlanta golf courses. The United States Supreme Court has decided that Dr. H. H. Holmes, his sons, Alfred and Oliver, and C. T. Bell, all Atlanta Negroes, were entitled to play golf on the city's Bobby Jones golf course from which they had been turned away in 1951.

Negro Golfers Playing.
City Attorney Jack Savage said the city of Atlanta could open its seven public golf courses, none on which was for Negroes, or close them all. Much to the satisfaction of most of Atlanta's 70,000 white golfers, Mayor William B. Harrisfield announced that all restrictions as to race would be removed. Since then, Negro golfers have played the public courses without incident. About 100 city employees still have their jobs as the result of that decision.

Gov. Griffin commented "it is regrettable that the Atlanta city administration has chosen to throw in the towel as far as golf courses are concerned."

Last December Gov. Griffin attracted nation-wide attention by an unsuccessful effort to prevent the Georgia Tech football team from playing at the New Orleans Sugar Bowl against Pittsburgh, whose team included a Negro.

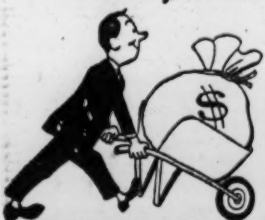

Some 2,500 students marched about the Capitol and demonstrated before the executive mansion bearing signs which included one which said, "Grow Up, Griffin."

ADULT EDUCATION GRANT

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Fund for Adult Education yesterday announced receipt of a $17,500,000 grant from the Ford Foundation, which fathered it in 1951.

The fund, an independent organization, supports programs of liberal adult education.

FINAL SALES FLURRY TO QUIET STOCK LIST

Trading Interest in Steels, Motors and Over-Counter Ford — All Suffer Late.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—A late moderate selling wave knocked prices down sharply today in the stock market.

There was a higher start and then a gradual decline until minutes before the closing bell when a wave of selling suddenly appeared and pushed prices down around 3 points at the outside. There were gains running to a point.

Steels and motors—together with Ford over the counter—held trading attention most of the day. All were down at the selling better than some divisions. Rather hard hit were the railroads, rubbers, aircrafts, chemicals and coppers, together with a long list of miscellaneous issues.

The market was near its low at the finish, although some of the bigger losers were able to recoup on the last few trades. The tape was a minute late at the close.

There were 1181 individual issues traded of which 230 advanced and 714 declined with 18 new highs and 13 new lows for the day.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off $1.80 at $175.10 with the industrial component down $2.60, rails off $1.90, and utilities lower by 20 cents.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 4.1 points lower at 472.89 at the close. The 20 rails dropped 1.85 to 156.84, while the 15 utilities rose .03 of a point to 63.71.

Trading stepped ahead to 2,110,000 shares after loafing along most of the session. Yesterday's total was 2,050,000 shares when the market was slightly higher.

Some brokers felt that the intense interest in the Ford stock turned traders away from the stock market itself.

Underwriters yesterday offered 10,000 shares of Ford common stock at 64½, and bidding for the stock over the counter today reached 70 within the first hour of trading. Thereafter it subsided gradually to a low bid of 67½ but rallied above that figure in mid-afternoon.

Ford Stock, in over-counter market was quoted 68 bid and 69½ asked, at 3:30 p.m.

Both General Motors and Chrysler were ahead at one point but both traded at small losses during the day. G. M. started on 15,000 shares up ½ at 45½.

The steels followed a very much the same trend, a higher start and then small losses at times. Railroads were neglected.

Lower stocks included Union Pacific, Panhandle Oil, Johnsonville, American Telephone (which had a block of 1000 shares off ½ at 180), DuPont, General Electric, Schering, Goodrich, and Douglas Aircraft.

Briggs & Stratton with a handful of sales was up between 4 and 5 points on a 200 per cent stock dividend.

The stock market currently is going through a period of indecision which brokers variously describe as uncertainities surrounding the political situation and technical considerations.

In the latter situation, many are making to see whether the market can safely pass a new test of its loss without generating heavy selling.

ST. LOUIS STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—The first report on 1955 earnings by a major corporation came from Allied Chemical & Dye Corp. It showed a sharp upturn in profits from 1954, and the highest sales and revenues in history. Net income for 1955 was $52,127,975, equal to $5.72 a share on the average number of shares outstanding during the period. Year earlier, net was $43,071,766, or $4.80 a share. Sales and operating revenues totaled $628,514,087 in 1955 against $530,776,716 in the preceding year. Income in 1954 included $2,838,745 in profits from the sale of stock in Air Reduction Co. by Allied. Amortization of defense facilities in 1955 came to $23,343,576 against $15,379,799 in 1954, the company said.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. declared a regular quarterly dividend of $1 and an extra of $1 on the common stock, both payable March 1 to holders of record Feb. 10. The previous extra was $1 in December 1954. The company then announced that starting in 1955 it would revert to its original plan of declaring extra dividends for any given year in the following January. The company said the practice of paying extras before the end of the business year was undertaken for tax reasons which have since disappeared.

United States Lines Co. reported its net income in 1955 amounted to $8,300,000 equal to $5.10 per common share. In 1954, the company had earnings of $5,177,454, or $3.17 a share.

Nickel Plate Railroad directors have voted to submit a plan for a 2 for 1 stock split to shareholders at the May 15 annual meeting. The par value would be changed from $20 to $10 a share. The directors also voted a 90-cent dividend, payable April 2 to stockholders of record Feb. 24. The Road has been paying 75 cents quarterly.

Missouri Portland Cement Co. voted the regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents a common share payable Feb. 17, to stock of record Feb. 3.

Hayden Chemical Corp. reported its earnings in 1955 amounted to $1,540,000 equal to $1 per common share on sales of $24,700,000. In 1954 Hayden had net income of $895,000, or 20 cents a share and sales of $17,364,000.

Rayonier Inc. raised its quarterly dividend from 30 to 35 cents on common stock, payable Feb. 15 to holders of record Jan. 27. This placed company stock on a $1.40 annual basis.

St. Louis bank clearings for Jan. 18 were $75,200,000, compared with $76,300,000 a year ago.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—The cash position of the Treasury Jan. 13: Balance $2,807,007,054; Deposits fiscal year July $30,993,800,095; Withdrawals fiscal year $39,080,199,955; Total debt $280,248,998,998; Gold assets $21,691,628,746.

*Includes $472,496,471 debt not subject to statutory limit.

WHOLESALE FOOD PRICE INDEX IS NEAR 6-YEAR LOW

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Dun & Bradstreet index of wholesale food prices dropped this week to the lowest level in almost 2½ years. At $5.82 a week ago and $6.84 a year ago, it was down to its low mark since May 2, 1950, when the index stood at $5.84.

The index represents the sum total of the wholesale price per pound of 31 foodstuffs in general use. Higher were lamb, butter, sugar, coffee, cottonseed oil, potatoes and lamb.

Lower were flour, wheat, corn, oats, beef, hams, bellies, cocoa, eggs, raisins and steers.

U.S. TREASURY ISSUES FIRM OVER-THE-COUNTER

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—The bond market moved modestly higher late today with selected rails and utilities sparking the rise. Trading was on the quiet side.

United States Treasury securities were firm in the over-the-counter market. Gains extended to 2-32 in both long-range and intermediate obligations.

Among the rails, Missouri Pacific advanced 1½ at 136½ in heavy trading near the close. The same carrier's 5½ of 1965 moved up 1 at 98.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. announced that on Feb. 2 it will call for redemption by May 1 all of its then outstanding 12-year 3½ per cent convertible debentures, due Dec. 10, 1965.

The debentures will be called at 106 per cent of the principal amount. Accrued interest will be $5,177,454, or $3.17 a share.

EXECUTIVE INSURING ON INCREASE

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP).

BUSINESS in the last 12 months took out 3 billion dollars' worth of life insurance policies on owners and top executives and key employees. This brought to more than 20 billion dollars the total of such insurance naming as beneficiary a corporation or partner or business associate.

Annual purchases have tripled in the last six years.

Good times may have furnished the money to pay the costs, but high taxes and stiff competition that puts a premium on top management ability have helped push the purchases to new heights.

The aims of such insurance are usually to offset the business loss involved in the death of key men, or to ease the transfer of ownership at death, or to insure continuity of business during a turbulent financial period.

THE LIFE INSURANCE AGENCY MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION of Hartford, Conn., reports that its quarterly buyers' surveys show that more than 150,000 business life insurance policies were bought in 1955. The association reports that about one-tenth of all adult ordinary life insurance purchased in recent months was for business needs. Similar surveys it made in 1949 showed such purchases came to one billion dollars in that year on some 70,000 policies. The increasing role that taxes play in encouraging this form of insurance buying is pointed up by the Institute of Life Insurance. It cites the number of cases in recent years when firms have been forced out of business because of the failure of the owners to provide tax funds at death. Heirs sold the firms to get the cash needed for inheritance taxes.

THERE ARE OTHER WAYS BESIDES INSURANCE to meet such a crisis. The sale today of Ford stock revises memories of how and why Henry and Edsel Ford set up the Ford Foundation. They bequeathed to it tax-free stock in their motor company. If all Ford stock had gone to members of the family, the inheritance tax would have been so huge that the family-owned company might have had to be sold to raise the cash. But smaller business men increasingly have been taking out life insurance to make sure that their firm can continue to operate during the readjustment period after the death of principal owners or key employees. This also helps make the jobs of other employees more secure, the institute says. Its sale pitch on this is that through insurance payments "many jobs have been continued through periods of dislocation that might otherwise have terminated them."

BEFORE THE TAX MOTIVE BECAME SO STRONG, this form of insurance appealed notably to partnerships. Each partner takes out a life insurance policy naming the other as beneficiary. The aim is to furnish needed cash to continue the business and at the same time protect the interests of the family of the deceased partner. Closely held corporations or businesses with a sole owner have somewhat similar problems.

KEY MAN INSURANCE IS A PRODUCT of postwar business competition and the increasing importance of technical knowledge and skill in production and management. It may take time to replace such an employee. So the firm insures his life—for much the same reason as it takes out insurance against loss by fire.

WHEAT TURNS HIGHER ON CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 18 (AP)—A nervous and indecisive tone prevailed throughout the grain market on the board of trade today.

Price changes were not very large in either direction, largely reflecting uncertainty created by the proposed new farm legislation. An early sell off was recouped in some cases but the market did not develop much vigor.

Much attention was focused on a proposal in the new farm legislation which would permit the agriculture department to sell part of its surpluses at market prices, which would be far below the level at which they can now be sold. This proposed caused the nervous market tone.

Exporters said Formosa was planning to buy 1,500,000 bushels of soybeans. Egypt postponed schedule purchase of 3,000,000 bushels of wheat until Jan. 23.

St. Louis Cash Grain. MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Jan. 18—Cash grain market Wednesday: Wheat receipts 9 cars, none sold; corn 27 cars, 3 sold; oats 11 cars, none sold.

Sales were: Corn, No. 2 yellow $1.26 1/4; No. 3 yellow $1.26 1/4 @ 1.27 1/2.

Bran was 50 cents a ton higher at $42 @ 42.50; shorts $1.25 at $43 @ 43.50.

200,000 Ford Shares Allotted To St. Louis Area Sold Quickly

Brokers Ration Stock to Customers at 5 to 100 Each — Issue Brings $5 Premium in New York.

Brokerage firms in the St. Louis area had approximately 200,000 shares of Ford Motor Co. stock to distribute to customers today, when the first public offering was made. The stock was a sellout.

At the price of $64.50 a share, the value of the stock sold here was about $12,900,000. About 80 per cent of the eagerly-sought 200,000 shares was allotted to approximately 20 large St. Louis brokers—those who were underwriters for the total 10,200,000 shares offered for sale throughout the country.

The remaining 20 per cent of the stock allotted to this area was sold through security distributors who were not underwriters. Brokers were limited to selling not more than 100 shares to each customer.

The number of shares sold to individual St. Louis buyers ranged from five to 100, as St. Louis brokers worked to ration their allotments among customers. No figures were available on how many shares were bought by Ford dealers in the St. Louis area. From the 10,200,000 shares offered, 1,500,000 were set aside for sale to Ford dealers and employees. These transactions were handled directly by the automobile firm in Detroit.

Ford Stock Backs Away a Little From $5 Premium.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—The new Ford Motor stock sold at a premium today, but had backed away from its highest levels of a $5-a-share premium by noon. Even so, the thousands of people who got a part of the offering at $64.50 a share had a possible profit of nearly $4 a share.

The stock was quoted in early dealings at $70 bid, $70.25 asked, but by noon quotations had receded to around $68 bid, $68.25 asked.

The stocks steadied late today at around $68.50 a share. Dealers said trading was fairly active.

Limited buying and selling of the stock started late yesterday immediately after clearance by the Securities and Exchange Commission of the 10,200,000-share offering at a price of $64.50 a share. Underwriters said the subscription books for the offering had not been formally closed because they did not know yet what amount of stock Ford dealers would order.

Clearance by the SEC meant that the Ford company had complied with legal requirements by making a full disclosure concerning the stock and the firm's financial position. That was the last step necessary before trading could begin.

Most investors know by now how much stock they'll get—if any. Thousands have been allotted no more than 10 or 20 shares and many will get less than 10. Blyth & Co., principal underwriter, estimated that Ford will have between 250,000 and 500,000 stockholders when the offering is completed.

The shares will trade in the over-the-counter market until about March 1, when they will move to the New York Stock Exchange. Ford also plans to list them on several regional exchanges and may eventually apply for listing on Canadian and European exchanges.

The sale will bring in $657,900,000. Underwriters and investment dealers will claim $15,300,000—$1.50 a share—in discounts and commissions, leaving $642,600,000 for the Ford Foundation, which is selling the stock.

Charles R. Blyth, president of Blyth & Co., commented that "we believe that at the offering price the Ford stock represents fair and reasonable value in the light of present prices for industrial stocks." Most Wall Street analysts agreed.

Altogether, there are 722 underwriters, the largest number ever assembled in one undertaking.

About 1,500,000 of the shares were offered to Ford dealers and employees, 600,000 to Canadian and foreign distributors and about 900,000 to institutions. The stock is being sold in 20 foreign countries.

HAROLD C. BANKS NEW PRESIDENT OF GRAIN BOARD

Harold C. Banks, president of the American Grain Co., was elected president of the Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis today. He succeeds E. S. Deibel, president of the Elam Grain Co.

Benjamin M. Schulein was chosen first vice president and C. Robert Pommer, second vice president.

J. F. Lubs, J. W. Hogan and R. D. Hunt were named directors.

JAPAN RENEWS DEMANDS RUSSIA FREE PRISONERS

LONDON, Jan. 18 (UP)—Japan told Russia again yesterday that all Japanese prisoners still in Soviet hands must be repatriated before a peace treaty can be signed.

Shunichi Matsumoto, head of the Japanese delegation to the Russian-Japanese peace talks, reaffirmed his Government's stand at the resumption of negotiations with Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik.

The meeting lasted one hour and 28 minutes, during which Matsumoto told Malik that Japan still considers settlement of the prisoner issue as the main preliminary to a peace treaty. Malik was understood to have replied that a full accounting of Japanese prisoners could be made only under the terms of a peace agreement.

When he emerged after the session at the Japanese Ambassador's residence, Malik snapped "no comment" to reporters' questions.

$3,000,000 PAID TO RED SCHOOLS, SENATOR SAYS

McClellan Group Is Told of G.I. Bill Funds Going to Four Institutions.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (UP)—Senator John L. McClellan (Dem., Ark.), said today four G.I. training schools which are or have been owned by Communists have drawn more than $3,000,000 from the Treasury since 1945.

Paul J. Tierney, associate counsel of McClellan's Senate investigating subcommittee, identified the schools under investigation as:

The Cartoonists and Illustrators Schools, Inc., New York City.

The Radio and Television Technical School, Allentown, Pa.

The Robert Louis Stevenson School, New York City.

The California Labor School, San Francisco.

Under questioning by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep., Wis.), Tierney testified that a "reliable witness" told him the schools were set up by the Communist party to raise funds. He said he found no other evidence of this, however.

Names School Owner.

John J. Huber, a former Federal Bureau of Investigation undercover man in the Communist party, testified that the former owner of the Robert Louis Stevenson School, Dr. Annette Rubinstein, was a Communist.

Huber, now employed by the New York City American's promotion department, said he was told by another Communist, Charlotte Honig, that Dr. Rubinstein was a party member. He said Dr. Rubinstein was a leader of several Communist fronts.

Tierney was the first witness as the subcommittee began public hearings on the schools.

He testified that the California labor school was cited by the Attorney General in 1948 as a subversive organization. Prior to that time, he said, it had received $196,947 from the Government for subsistence and training of veterans.

McClellan said, "It appears that these schools alone have received over $3,000,000 from the United States Government for veterans' tuition since 1945."

Breakdown of Schools.

Tierney gave this breakdown of the approval of the schools and the funds they received:

1. The Robert Louis Stevenson School, approved under both under G.I. and disabled veterans programs in 1946. Dr. Rubinstein owned the school until June 1952, he said. In that period, it received $2,081,397 from the Treasury.

2. California Labor School, approved Oct. 8, 1945 by the State Board of Education, an action canceled July 27, 1947. It held a VA contract for disabled veterans' training from May 16, 1943 to Aug. 17, 1946, and received $196,947.

3. The Radio and Television Technical School — approved July 1, 1949 by the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction for G.I. training, and Sept. 8, 1952 under the Korean G.I. Bill of Rights; still approved under both. Approved by the VA in December 1953 for training disabled vets, and still doing so. Received $215,523. Last Oct. 31, it had 115 veterans enrolled.

4. The Cartoonists and Illustrators School, approved by the New York State Board of Education Sept. 30, 1947 and by the VA the same month. Still training 278 veterans last October. Received $1,176,712.

Uses Fifth Amendment.

Silas Rhodes, director of the cartoonists' school, refused to tell the subcommittee whether he was a Communist before the school was opened.

Rhodes testified he was not a party member when the school started operating in August 1947. He said he has not been a member since then. He invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to say whether he had been a Communist before the school was founded.

Senator McCarthy told him, "I personally don't doubt a bit that you are a full-fledged Communist as of today, getting Government money."

Rhodes was asked whether he subscribes to the Communist philosophy "today." He said he did not.

But when he was asked if he followed the Communist philosophy in the past, Rhodes again drew a line at 1947 and shouted: "The witness doesn't like to be pulled over the coals for everything he has done in his life."

He also invoked the Fifth Amendment when McCarthy asked if Rhodes was a Communist when he thought of establishing the school. McCarthy said his refusal indicated a "yes" answer.

Would Match Record.

"Sir, that is your inference, not mine," Rhodes shouted. "I'll match my record against yours in service any day. Sir, that's a horrible thing to say."

When the committee recessed, Rhodes handed reporters a statement, labeled as coming from the owners of the school. It said:

"We are not Communists. The committee cannot show anything subversive was ever taught at our school. We have given the Government and each and every veteran their full money's worth. Veterans have been proud to study under our distinguished faculty."

Subcommittee counsel Robert Kennedy named Rhodes and Burne Hogarth as owners of the school.

By the Associated Press.

Lt. Thomas F. H. McGuire of the Eighty-seventh detective squad, New York City police, testified that as a policeman who infiltrated the Communist movement in New York he had known "Silas Rhodes, a Communist," in 1941. Stepping from the witness chair, McGuire leaned over and tapped Rhodes on the shoulder, and said he recognized him as the Silas Rhodes he had just named.

Denial From Woman.

In Allentown, Pa., Mrs. Michael Freedland, wife of the operator of the radio and television school, said, "we both deny the charges." Mrs. Freedland said her husband was in Washington for the hearing.

In San Francisco, the director of the California Labor School, Dr. Holland Roberts, has denied repeatedly that it is or has been a Communist front organization.

"We are not a front of any kind," he said, "and we will not register as a front for anybody or any organization." In 1946 the school was approved for G.I. educational payments. The American Legion and other groups protested, and the school withdrew from the G.I. program, at its own request. In 1948 it lost its state tax-exempt status.

HEAD OF ARMY COMMAND

Col. Richard V. Hart has been named head of the Directorate of Supply of the Army Transportation, Supply and Maintenance Command here, it was announced today.

Col. Hart, who has been in the Army 15 years, has served in Greenland, Labrador and Newfoundland, and came here from Fort Lee, Va. The command to which he has been assigned here is the Transportation Corps field logistics office for the Army's aviation, rail and marine programs throughout the world.

HEAT WAVE BOILS UP TRAFFIC JAM AT RIO'S COPACABANA

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 18 (AP)—Copa-cabana is a beautiful beach. It's world-famous. The only trouble is getting to it.

Traffic to the beach is a mess. In Rio's current 100-degree heat wave, people stand in long lines to get aboard buses for the shore. Then the loaded buses wait in long lines to file into the tiny area behind the beach. Coming back the lines are longer and the day hotter.

The trouble is that Copacabana is a long, narrow area—three miles long and three blocks deep—jammed in between the mountains and the sea. All traffic has to filter along three streets parallel with the beach.

The heat wave traffic jam touched off complaining editorials in Rio papers. The editorials fired up plans to improve traffic. Buses are barred from the street along the beach. Each of the other streets will be made one way to carry buses and streetcars. (In a town where a Buick costs $12,000 and the average wage is $100 a month, streetcars and buses carry most of the traffic.)

PASTOR CITES DAY NURSERY AID TO WORKING MOTHERS

The work of the Catholic Women's League in helping working mothers to keep their homes intact through its day nursery at 1515 Market street, was cited yesterday by the Rev. Joseph A. McNicholas, assistant pastor of Most Holy Name of Jesus Catholic Church, as an example of women taking a larger role in combatting social evils.

Father McNicholas told about 300 women at the annual meeting of the league at Hotel Chase that they are building a reputation of competence through their volunteer efforts, but society can derive great benefits from more active participation by women in social work.

He quoted a principle expressed by Pope Pius XII that women have an obligation to act, in a manner suitable to their state in life, against forces threatening the home, and to prepare to achieve its restoration.

PRESIDENT TO ADDRESS G. O. P. RALLY IN PERSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (UP)—President Eisenhower will address the "salute to Eisenhower" Republican rally here Friday night in person, the White House said today. It will be his first public appearance of this type since his heart attack Sept. 24.

The affair here is one of a series of nation-wide dinners being held Friday night to honor the President, and to raise money for the 1956 election campaign. The President's remarks, lasting about eight minutes, will be carried by closed circuit television to more than 50 dinners across the country.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the speech, also will be available for live television and radio if the networks desire to pick it up. The President will not attend the dinner, but will arrive just in time for the start of the nation-wide program at 10 p.m. (9 o'clock, St. Louis time).

GEN. GATES WON'T APPEAL HIS REPRIMAND AND FINE

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 18—Maj. Gen. Byron E. Gates, former commander of Chanay Air Force Base near Rantoul, will not appeal a recent reprimand for violations of Air Force regulations, it was announced today.

James H. Wheat, attorney for the general, said he advised against an appeal because a possible court martial had been ruled out in the case. The attorney said Gates agreed an appeal would not be worth "the time and money involved."

Gates had been accused of giving preferential treatment at Chanute to private insurance firms for his personal gain. A spokesman for the Air Training Command at Scott Air Force Base announced last week that Gates had been fined $500 in pay and had been reprimanded by Lt. Gen. Charles T. Myers, commander of the A.T.C.

CHILEAN SENATE APPROVES PLAN TO CURB INFLATION

SANTIAGO, Jan. 18 (UP)—The government's American-proposed program to curb inflation in Chile went to the Chamber of Deputies today for a vote that will complete congressional action on the measure.

The Senate voted final approval of the anti-inflationary program last night, passing each of its several articles by a majority that never exceeded three votes.

The plan, drafted by the private American management firm of Klein & Saks, calls for a freeze on prices and a "chill" on wages, eliminating automatic annual rises and limiting increases to half the annual rise in the cost of living.

MRS. LUTHER ELY SMITH'S ESTATE VALUED AT $179,513

An estate valued at $179,513 was left by Mrs. Luther Ely Smith, widow of a noted St. Louis civic leader, it was shown today in an inventory filed in probate court.

Stocks with a market value of $160,076 formed the major part of the estate. Other items included $15,287 in cash and $4,000 in bonds.

Mrs. Smith died Dec. 24 at her home, 4969 Pershing avenue. Her husband died in 1951. Under terms of the will, previously filed, the estate is to be given in equal shares to her son, Luther Ely Smith Jr., and her two daughters, Mrs. Ingram F. Boyd Jr. and Mrs. John W. Sedon.

CANADA ADMITS SELLING TRAINING PLANES TO EGYPT

Three of 15 Shipped on Weekend — Government Had Persistent Denial Action.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18—After days of denials, the Canadian government admitted yesterday that Egypt had bought 15 Harvard training aircraft in Canada.

Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson told the House of Commons, in reply to persistent questions from the opposition, that "early last summer" the government had issued an export permit covering these World War II vintage trainers.

Three of the Harvards, he said, were aboard the ship Star of Assuan, which sailed from Halifax last weekend, bound for Mediterranean ports.

Pearson told reporters later that the government had no present intention of interfering with the shipment of the remaining 12 planes by Canadian Car and Foundry Co., which sold them to Egypt.

Pearson described the planes as "not combat aircraft." When asked by an opposition M.P. if the planes were fitted with gun mountings, he replied that "I do not know how you could put a gun mounting on a Harvard training aircraft."

Royal Canadian Air Force sources said the R.C.A.F. had used Harvards for armament training during World War II, and had fitted the planes with .303 cal. Browning machine guns and with rockets.

In the Commons last Wednesday Pearson told Socialist M.P. Alistair Stewart that he knew of "no shipments of Canadian

2 SEIZED MINUTES AFTER COUNTY OIL STATION IS ROBBED

Two transient burglars admitted that two St. Louis county detectives were "too sharp for us" following their arrest minutes after stealing four tires and six batteries early today from a service station at 3129 Lindbergh boulevard, St. Louis county.

Detectives James Graves and Thomas Brown arrested the pair after seeing their automobile pull away from the station. The officers found a window of the station had been broken and pursued the car, stopping it at Page avenue and Lindbergh.

James T. Martin and Herbert F. Brown, former convicts, admitted stealing the merchandise and were charged with burglary and larceny. Martin told police he and Brown were en route to Las Vegas from Michigan and had been in this area only two hours.

Theory on Horse's History.

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—In a booklet on the paleontological history of the horse, author James H. Guinn suggests that Texas ancestors of the horse date back 30,000,000 years. It has been generally believed, the booklet says, that the horse's race history began a little more than 1,000,000 years ago.

aircraft to Egypt or of any orders for such shipments."

El Hussein el Khathib, Egyptian ambassador to Canada, described rumors of such shipments as "absolutely false."

The Conservative military critic, Gen. G. R. Pearkes, brought up the question of the cargo aboard the Star of Assuan in the Commons yesterday. Defense Minister Ralph Campney said in reply that he had no knowledge of any military shipment on the weekend. Yesterday Pearson informed the House that the Star of Assuan carried, in addition to the three planes for Egypt, 36 artillery tractors and 32 4.7 naval guns for Turkey, and "spares for electronic equipment and aircraft" for Turkey, Greece and Portugal.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH Wed., Jan. 18, 1956 5D

Defendants in Tax Case

MR. and MRS. ERNEST KONZE, leaving Federal Building today.

INDICTED AD MAN AND WIFE FREED ON BOND IN TAX CASE

Ernest R. Konze, former advertising agency president, and his wife, Mrs. Frieda C. Konze, who were indicted on a charge of evading $46,719 in income taxes, appeared before United States Commissioner Edwin J. Bean today and were released on $2000 bonds each for a hearing Monday before United States District Judge Roy W. Harper.

Mr. and Mrs. Konze, 7572 Oxford drive, Clayton, were charged with filing fraudulent joint tax returns for 1949-52, inclusive, when Konze was president of the now defunct Ernest Konze Advertising Co., and his wife was an employee of the agency.

The indictment against them charges that they reported only $51,193 of their alleged $181,700 income for the four-year period.

E. ST. LOUIS GETS 'A' IN FIGHT ON VICE

Survey Shows Police Are Doing 'Good Job' Suppressing Prostitution.

East St. Louis is relatively free of organized prostitution and is rapidly approaching an irreducible minimum in vice, William J. Petrus, regional representative of the American Social Hygiene Association, reported to Police Commissioner Russell Beebe today.

Petrus said police were "doing a good job" in suppressing prostitution.

The survey was made last month by the association. The organization was called on by Beebe to investigate the area in an effort to determine effectiveness of police efforts. Officials were not notified when the survey began.

Petrus said the city had been given a Grade A rating by the association, which investigates vice in areas surrounding military installations. He said no houses of prostitution were found in the city and only a few taverns were found to be places for clandestine meetings.

The Bell-Scott Committee, composed of Scott Air Force Base officers and a Belleville citizens' group, was praised by Petrus for its successful efforts in virtually eliminating prostitution in Belleville and for providing entertainment and recreation for personnel at the base. Petrus said the Scott Base area is generally free of prostitution.

Work Formula.

HENRYETTA, Okla. (AP)—Dr. A. E. Darlow, vice-president of Oklahoma A. & M. College, said in a speech at a 4-H club banquet: "You have to do more work than you get paid for before you can get paid for more work than you do."

More Steel and More Jobs

A report by BENJAMIN F. FAIRLESS President of American Iron and Steel Institute

I want to tell you about one of the biggest jobs in steel's whole history—the expansion in the industry now and in the years ahead.

In undertaking that job, the steel companies recognize that they have an obligation to provide all the steel the country will need over the years—for civilian use, for defense and for continued national growth.

Increasing demands are making it tougher for us all the time. But we like it that way. And I think the industry's record shows that it has done big jobs before.

For example, we have built in America almost one half the steel producing capacity of the entire world. Since the end of World War II, we have added 36 million tons to our annual steelmaking capacity, bringing it up to 128 million tons. That is an increase of 40 per cent in 10 years.

Still more expansion to come

But still more steel is needed, and the companies are stepping up sharply their rate of expansion. During the next three years alone, they plan to build 15 million tons of new capacity.

This is at the rate of five million tons of new capacity a year compared with 3½ million tons a year added in the 1946-55 period.

I offer these facts to demonstrate quickly the huge task the steel companies are undertaking.

FREE: Latest issue of the magazine, Steelways, with an interesting story on steel's expansion plans, illustrated in full color. Just mail your request to American Iron and Steel Institute, 350 Fifth Ave., New York 1, N. Y.

Good jobs and more jobs

As the steel companies carry out this expansion, many new jobs will be created—and they will be good jobs.

Wage levels in the industry place steelworkers among the top ten per cent of all industrial workers in the country. In addition, steelworkers have liberal pensions, insurance, paid holidays and paid vacations.

Why more expansion?

Why is steel lifting its sights to an expansion undreamed of a few years ago?

That's easy to answer. It is because of the astonishing rise in America's population and because each American is using more things made of steel than ever before.

The population of the United States was 76 million in 1900. Now it is 166 million. By 1975, it is expected to be close to 200 million.

And we have not only grown in numbers, but we want more things—more houses, more roads, more automobiles, more of everything which raises our standard of living. Steel is needed for all of these.

Of course, very few people buy steel outright in the form of hard metal. But everyone buys or uses steel every day in the form of thousands of products—from kitchen knife to skyscraper. During this century, the per capita use of steel in the United States has increased five-fold.

Tomorrow will bring new needs

The needs of the world tomorrow will be quite different from the needs of yesterday and today. Science is bringing into being a new age of nuclear energy, electronics and supersonic speed. And, given peace, this will mean a still further expanding economy. As always, steel will be the basic material for the nation's growth, because steel is so versatile and also it is the cheapest of all the metals.

Steel companies will continue to expand to meet all these new needs as fast as they are able.

Expansion calls for billions

I say "as fast as they are able" because the job of building new steel plants and replacing old ones, of providing the ore and other raw materials needed to make steel is enormously costly. Each of the individual competing steel companies must raise staggering sums, totaling many billions of dollars, in order to meet these costs.

This money can come from two sources only: directly from the earnings of these companies, and from the savings of investors who have confidence in the ability of the companies to earn profits attractive to such investors.

Given the understanding and support of the public, the many individual steel companies across the nation will carry forward this job so vital to America.

YOU'D SPEND HALF A DAY to make such fine Green Pea with Ham Soup as this. Yet here it is, ready for you. It's Campbell's... IT'S FROZEN! ❄️

FROZEN:

Sure as anything, whenever people get their spoons in the new and very, very special Green Pea with Ham Soup which Campbell's now has for you, the immediate reaction is: why have the Campbell's chefs been holding out on us?

They haven't. No one knows better how inspired this soup can be when it's made the right way . . . slow simmered for hours with rich, tender ham. And no one knew better how to make it just this way.

The problem was to keep all the flavor and goodness until you are ready to use it. Only by the quick-frozen method was this possible. It took freezing to bring you this soup with all that fabulous flavor intact.

You know the rest. How easy it is now to serve a Green Pea with Ham Soup that you'd spend half a day making . . . a soup that puts you on a par with the best of them, just by reaching in your grocer's freezer.

That's the place where you find this Campbell's Frozen Green Pea with Ham—in your grocer's freezer. This one and three more real soup wonders that you never expected to find in prepared form.

All thanks to freezing! It's wonderful!

MORE WORKING MOTHERS, FEWER CAREER WOMEN

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—The old time career woman is disappearing and her place is being taken by the mother of children who goes to work when her children reach school age. Dr. Henry David, executive director of the National Manpower Council, said yesterday that this was one of the most significant opinions brought forward in a two-day working conference of 21 representatives of leading American women's organizations. He said the situation is a complete revolution in the pattern of women in relation to gainful employment.

The conference was called in connection with the study of womanpower in the nation, nearing completion after a year's work by the National Manpower Council. Early marriage and concentration of childbearing in the early years brings women permanently into the labor market at around age 35, Dr. David indicated. Women live longer, he said, and can work longer.

With 30 per cent of the present total labor force women, 60 per cent of employed women are married and half of them are over 40 years of age, figures presented to the conference showed. Of all wives in the country, one-quarter are in the labor force.

COMPLAINTS RISE OVER DELINQUENT RUSSIAN YOUTHS

MOSCOW, Jan. 18 (UP)—Law-abiding Russian people are complaining bitterly about juvenile delinquency. Their particular targets are the stilyags—Russian for zootsuits—who wear gaudy clothes, brawl over girls, assault citizens and damage property.

The official trade union newspaper Trud last week took law authorities to task for "inactivity" in cracking down on hooligans and delinquents.

The stilyags use English slang and refer to Moscow's Gorki street as "Broadway." Their number has declined since the immediate postwar years, but frequent references to juvenile delinquency in the Soviet press indicate they remain a problem. Newspapers have published accounts of brawls at sports matches and in youth clubs.

Trud published a summary of letters to the editor complaining about the situation. One letter said the "hooligan element runs loose" in the town of Lipetski where drunken youths smashed windows. The writer refused to give his name or address for fear of reprisals.

"This fact testifies to the inactivity of police and the prosecuting attorney," Trud commented.

SUBURBS POSE CHALLENGE TO CHURCH, METHODIST SAYS

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa., Jan. 18 (UP)—Increasing population and the growing trend toward suburban living will in the next 10 years present an "unprecedented challenge" to the Methodist Church, a Methodist leader said yesterday.

Dr. Earl R. Brown, New York, told a meeting of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church that Methodists "must assume our full share of responsibility for the retreat and breakdown of the church in many large cities."

"As our people and their churches move to the suburbs, we find great difficulty in maintaining successful church programs at the center of the city," he said. "Surveys show that in most instances it is not for lack of people but of a program that grips the people. Without the church, the individual becomes lost in mass hysteria, often promoted by self-seeking demagogues," he said.

Soviet Gen. Bogatkin Dies.
MOSCOW, Jan. 18 (AP)—Pravda announced today the death of Lt. Gen. Vladimir N. Bogatkin on Jan. 17 after a brief illness. Born in 1903, he joined the Red army as a volunteer and fought in the civil war. Pravda said in World War II he was a "capable organizer." After the war he was a leader in Communist party work in the army and central apparatus of the ministry of defense.

MASS MOVEMENT BÉGUN IN FRANCE AGAINST POUJADE

PARIS, Jan. 18 (AP)—A mass movement against tax rebel Pierre Poujade was launched yesterday. Its leader appealed for supporters who would "go into the streets" if necessary to fight what he called fascism.
The leader is Michel Maurice-Bokanowski, a 43-year-old corporation executive recently elected to the French National Assembly by the small party which still looks to Gen. Charles de Gaulle.
Maurice-Bokanowski told a news conference France now has "53 Fascist deputies" elected under Poujade's sponsorship. He said Poujade would turn to mass action and terrorism to maintain his power.
"During the campaign," he said, "he showed us varied samples of the methods he intends to use generally and which are those of all fascism — threats, brutality, reprisals, calumny and demagoguery."
The Communists, he added, should not be allowed to monopolize the title of "anti-fascist." Poujade denies being a Fascist.

EX-P.O.W. DENIES WORKING WITH REDS

Former Pic. Leo Freelon Disputes Receiving Special Care.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—A Purple Heart veteran of the Korean war denied yesterday that he had collaborated with Chinese Communists who held him prisoner for more than two and one-half years.

Former Pic. Leo Freelon of Monroe, Mich., asked who his accusers are but they remained nameless in a 90-minute hearing before a foreign claims settlement commission staff member.
The commission, which denied Freelon's claim for $2486 in prisoner-of-war hardship pay on the grounds of alleged collaboration, arranged the hearing to allow him the opportunity to dispute the allegation. A final decision by the commission is expected within a few days.

Freelon, a slightly built Negro who was honorably discharged from the Army with a 60 per cent disability pension, said:
"You asked me for substantial proof that I didn't do such things but I don't see any affidavit that I did such things," he said.

Far from being a "progressive" as prisoners who collaborated with the Reds were called — Freelon said he was known as a "reactionary" who was always getting into trouble for sleeping in lectures on Communism.

One charge was that Freelon had received better medical care than the other prisoners. He said he spent five months in a prison hospital and came out weighing 60 pounds as compared to his normal weight of 156.

Most Korean war P.O.W.s received $2.50 for each day spent in captivity on the assumption that they were ill-fed and suffered inhumane treatment.

However, the commission has rejected numerous claims where there were allegations that the former prisoner collaborated with the enemy.

WHOLESALE WIN DIRECTED VERDICT IN LIQUOR SUIT

A directed verdict for the defense was entered in United States District Court yesterday in a suit by Happy Hollow Liquor Stores for $225,000 damages and an injunction against two wholesale liquor distributors.

The suit, seeking triple damages; alleged that Happy Hollow Stores suffered $75,000 loss through failure of McKesson & Robbins Co., and the Gordon Distributing Co., to furnish liquor in sufficient quantities to supply the Happy Hollow demand. It also was alleged that the defendants charged United Liquor Co., Inc., operator of the Happy Hollow chain, higher prices than those paid by other retailers. Happy Hollow Stores are in the process of liquidation.

A defense motion for a directed verdict in favor of McKesson & Robbins and its co-defendant, filed at the conclusion of the plaintiff's case, was sustained by Judge Roy W. Harper. The motion contended the evidence failed to support the allegations in the petition.

REPAIR SHOP TO BE CLOSED

The office equipment repair shop at Scott Air Force Base will be discontinued at the end of this month. It was announced yesterday at Washington, where the House Appropriations Committee upheld the recommendations of a subcommittee. The shop at the Illinois air base is one of 52 industrial type activities ordered closed by the Defense Department on the ground that private business could furnish such services for military bases at reasonable cost.

VATICAN SAYS 150 PRELATES ARE PERSECUTED BY REDS

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 18 (UP)—About 150 Roman Catholic prelates are in jail, deported or otherwise prevented from carrying out their duties behind the Iron Curtain, the Vatican said yesterday.

The official Vatican news bulletin said the 1956 Pontifical Annuario listed "about 150" cardinals, archbishops and bishops as "in jail for the faith."

ing out their duties behind the Iron Curtain, the Vatican said yesterday.

"deported to unknown location" or otherwise "impeded." It said this was "evidence of the silent martyrdom of about 150 prelates persecuted for their loyalty to Christ and His Church."

WHITE HOUSE KNEW OF ILLINOIS PETITION

Stratton Aid Says Filing for Eisenhower Was Cleared in Advance.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 18 (AP)—An aid to Gov. William G. Stratton says the White House was consulted before President Eisenhower's name was entered in the Illinois Republican presidential primary.

Stratton personally filed a petition Monday putting the President's name on the ballot. William W. Downey, administrative assistant to Stratton, said last night that the Governor conferred in advance with Sherman Adams, consultant to the President; Attorney General Brownell and Tom Stephens, former White House appointment secretary.

Downey said Stratton did not talk about it with Mr. Eisenhower, who has not disclosed whether he will seek re-election, or Vice President Nixon.

When Stratton announced last week that he would enter Mr. Eisenhower's name, the President authorized a statement that he was neither assenting nor dissenting at the time.

However, White House Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President's first information on Stratton's plans came when he read about it in news reports from Springfield.

The Chicago Tribune said yesterday it had learned that the action was cleared and approved in advance by Adams and Chairman Leonard Hall of the Republican National committee.

The paper said Stratton's only comment in an interview was: "I would not take a step to embarrass the President."

Antarctica a Single Land Mass, Flight Over South Pole Reveals

Range of 15,000-Foot Mountains Found Where Scientists Thought a Strait Might Be.

ABOARD U.S.S. GLACIER, Antarctica, Jan. 16 (Delayed) (UP)—A series of exploratory flights has proved that Antarctica is a single land mass, R. Adm. George Dufek said today.

Scientists had long debated whether the area is divided by a strait leading from the Ross to the Weddell seas, but the flights discovered a range of 15,000-foot mountains where scientists thought the strait might be.

The explorations were made in 10 history-making extreme range exploration flights by aircraft of Dufek's task force 43. The flights ended yesterday with a series of three across the great unknown.

The last flight, which crossed the geographical South pole for the fourth time, was made by pilot Capt. William (Trigger) Hawkes of Jersey City, N.J., Lt. Comdr. John Torbert of San Francisco was plane commander. Marine S-Sgt. Robert Spann, Buffalo, N.Y., was the navigator.

Other members of the crew were crew chief Frederick Ferrara, ADC, New York City; photographer Jack Hill, PHCA, of Falls Church, Va., and radioman Francis Gorecki, ATC, of Ware, Mass.

The flight over the South Pole, at 2 a.m., was made in bright sunshine. Clouds which often cover the area thinned and, exposed the peaks of four ranges unknown until then to man.

Another flight, by Marine Lt. Col. Hal Klops, penetrated still another unknown area to the "pole of inaccessibility"—the point on the earth's surface considered the hardest to reach. Navy sources said the flights left only about three-tenths of the entire continent still unmapped and unexplored.

Four Planes From Antarctic Arrive in New Zealand.

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand, Jan. 18 (AP)—The four long-range planes from the United States Antarctic Operation Deepfreeze arrived here today after a 2280-mile flight from the polar continent.

The two twin-engine Neptunes and two four-engine Sky-masters made the trip two hours ahead of schedule. They will remain here about 10 days for maintenance before being flown to the United States.

Aboard one of the Sky-masters was Comdr. George R. Oliver of the Patuxent River (Md.) naval air station, who was injured Dec. 22 when his plane crashed on the ice.

WOMAN DRIVER IS KILLED IN CRASH NEAR WARRENTON

Miss Corona Ann Powers of Paducah, Ky., was killed today when an automobile she was driving skidded on a patch of snow on U.S. Highway 40 and struck another machine east of Warrenton, Mo.

She was thrown from the automobile, which then rolled over her. State patrolmen said her car was passing another eastbound automobile. Charles Thomas of Jefferson City, the other driver, was not injured.

Miss Powers was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital in St. Charles. She was 23 years old and director of youth activities at First Christian Church in Paducah. Warrenton is about 60 miles west of St. Louis.

JUDGE AGAINST TOY GUNS, COMIC BOOKS

Head of Chicago Boys' Court Talks Here on Crime Prevention.

Crime prevention begins in the high chair and should be followed up in later years by discouraging children from playing with toy guns and from reading comic books, Judge J. M. Braude, presiding judge of the Boys' Court of Chicago, said here last night.

He spoke before 1225 members and guests of the Traffic Club of St. Louis at its forty-eighth annual dinner at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel.

"Toy guns and comic books leave bad impressions on the mind of youth," the judge said. He added that too much is said about "bad boys and not enough about good boys."

Judge Braude, whose court deals with youths between 17 and 21 years old, said that "human beings' and souls are not salvaged by sending them to jail. They usually come out worse and are stamped as criminals." The truth of each case is of the utmost importance in judging the youth, Judge Braude said.

He was introduced by Arthur K. Atkinson, president of the Wabash Railroad, who was toastmaster.

Scythe of Time in Tree.

SOUTH PARIS, Me. (UP)—Sawing through a huge log, Gordon Stuart came upon a hand-forged scythe imbedded deep in the wood. The mill man said a farmer must have left the tool on a limb when it was just a small pine tree—all of 150 years ago.

MORE PROXY FIGHT DATA CALLED FOR BY SEC RULE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (UP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission amended its rules yesterday to require disclosure of more information in connection with proxy fights for control of corporations.

Persons seeking election to boards of directors, or actively participating in campaigns for their election, must disclose to stockholders their identity and background and their interest in securities of the company involved.

Among the new rules is one which makes it mandatory to file with SEC copies of speeches, releases to the press and radio-television scripts used in proxy contests. Failure to comply with regulations could cause SEC to obtain a court order to halt a proxy contest.

NUDE GETS PINK SLIP WHEN MOUSE MAKES HER MOVE

LONDON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Peaches Page—a blond show girl paid not to move when standing nude on a stage—lost her job when a mouse ran over her foot. She not only moved, she screamed and ran into the wings.

while the customers collapsed with laughter.

That happened last night at a London music hall. She was fired on the spot.

The reason: The Lord Chamberlain's regulations allow nudes to appear on British stages if they stand absolutely still. If they do anything more than bat their eyes it is considered an indecent performance.

A Tip to the Ladies

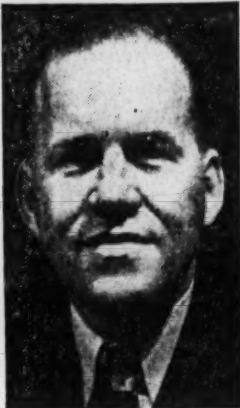

For Real Fun, Attend Men's Clothing Sale

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP).

LADIES, if you want a real laugh, I know how you can get it.

Men's clothing stores across the country now are featuring their semi-annual sales. Go to a few. They hold more real comedy than any show in town. You don't have to buy anything. Just stand around and watch.

HAL BOYLE

For generations the conduct of women at department store sales has been a stock joke in America. They are supposed to be as unreasoning as a herd of cattle in stampede. But today the shoe is on the other foot. If the woman bargain hunter is a scream, the male bargain hunter is an absolute panic.

The American man is more bargain-minded now than ever before in history.

"Frankly, men act much crazier than women during a big sale," an elderly salesman said. "They are newer at the game and don't know the rules. A lot of them would be ashamed to have their psychiatrists see the way they behave."

Any woman who takes up watching men's clothing sales as a spectator sport should remember to keep a safe distance away. A tug-of-war for a prized shirt between two maddened bucks can be physically dangerous to any bystander, however innocent.

THE MALE bargain hunter breaks down into several common types, and here are a few:

The Pirate Raider—He is ruled by the philosophy that "whatever Lola wants, Lola gets." He waits until another customer picks out a good-looking necktie, then grabs it from his hand, throws down his cash and races for the elevator.

The Lost Soul—He never bought anything before in his life without the advice and consent of his mother, his father, his wife or his lawyer. He stands alone, his eyes crying help, while the big bullies shove him out of the way. He ends up buying an overcoat the color of a mildewed fried egg (two sizes too large for him) and goes out the door murmuring to himself, "But all I wanted was a pair of knitted gloves."

THE WANDERING DESTROYER—He paws through and wrecks eight shelves of shirts, paws a dozen neckties off the rack and onto the floor, paws half a dozen sport coats on and off. Then, without purchasing anything, he wades out of the wreckage waving a merry paw in goodbye. He enjoys himself more than anybody.

The Cautious Investor—He begins by fingering the $200 cashmere polo coats marked down to $149.50. He wants to know the name of the manufacturer and whether the manufacturer is happily married. He wants to know what country the cloth came from and the condition of its economy. He finally offers $99.50 for the coat, and when that offer is refused buys a four-bit handkerchief and leaves, blowing his nose in indignation.

The Lord of the Manor—This fellow snaps his fingers imperiously at the salesman, demands the best of service—and for some reason gets it. Awed members of the herd stand aside as he tries on half a dozen suits, loudly criticizing the cut, color and cloth of each. He winds up by taking a 95-cent pair of socks and walks out with the lordly air of a man who has just bought a yacht.

THE GAY SPENDTHRIFT—This cheerful madman seems to be the salesman's best friend, but actually is his worst enemy. He likes anything and everything he sees. He selects a dozen shirts, three suits, two sport jackets, a couple of topcoats, and several pairs of shoes. The bill doesn't worry him. Why should it? Next Monday his wife will send every single thing back to the store.

Girls, don't miss the chance to see the American male at a men's bargain sale. It's your best bargain in entertainment. All it will cost you is the price of the zipper on your girdle. You'll bust it laughing.

The First Date

By Elinor Williams

EVERY boy wonders about this problem sooner or later in the teens . . . and his date-fun depends on how he solves it. A boy's letter asks:

"How do you ask a girl for a date and get one for the first time?"

Answer—Ask for a date when you see the girl in school or telephone her. If you're the shy type and likely to be red-faced or tongue-tied with embarrassment when you ask her, the telephone is usually easier.

Many boys ask for a date like this: "How about a date Friday night?" But girls don't like this date-approach, because they have to accept or refuse without knowing what kind of date is planned.

So the best way to ask for a date is to state the plans right in your question: "I was wondering if you could go to a movie Friday night?" . . . or "There's a basketball game in the gym Saturday night. Would you like to go?"

If she says "yes," now's the time to shake all the arrangements—when, where, what time, so she'll know all the details. You could say, "The game begins at 8 o'clock, so I'll call for you at 7:30." Avoid saying, "Well I'll see you at 7:30"—this doesn't let her know definitely where you'll see her. Be definite.

Never ask a girl to meet you at a movie or anywhere outside her home. Always call for her. It's the only correct way to operate during dates.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

NEWBOLD MORRIS tells of a day he was visiting Radio City Music Hall with the late Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia. The spotlight was turned on the organist, "Newbold," whispered the Mayor, "that's how a city should be run. Like an organist, you must keep both hands on the keyboard and both feet on the pedals—and never let go."

A minute later a cop tapped him on the shoulder and told him a three-alarm fire was raging some miles away. "The Little Flower" charged up the aisle, and minutes later disappeared into the burning building. He was the last to emerge before the walls crumbled to the ground.

A Fashion Headliner for the New Year

The fashions illustrated here are available in St. Louis Shops. Patterns are not obtainable. For information call MAin 1-1111, Station 366, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, or mail self-addressed stamped envelope to Fashions Illustrated, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

By Sylvia Stiles

THE dress that has its own jacket or is cut to give the illusion of a jacket or coat is one of the first fashion successes of the new year. It is appearing in St. Louis at various prices and of many different fabrics. Silk shantungs, silk linens and silk prints are featured materials that are practical for wear now under winter coats and will be of service throughout the spring and summer. Illustrated are typical modes available in the stores.

1—This costume, available at a popular price, consists of a low-necked sleeveless dress and a brief, bolero jacket. Jacket and neckline of the dress are trimmed with white pique. Slim skirt has a low-placed pleat at the back. The dress may be obtained of pure silk shantung in black or navy, or in brown and navy printed silks. Junior sizes range from 7 to 15.

2—This dress is designed to look like a coat with its fitted, unbelted waistline, tailored collar and trim sleeves. The skirt flares into belled fullness and has its own ruffled crinoline petticoat. Fabric is a navy silk shantung dotted with a pink field flower pattern. Sizes range from 10 to 16.

3—A printed rayon taffeta is combined with wool in the design of this ensemble. The dress of the patterned fabric has a full, multi-gored skirt and a low-necked bodice. Jacket with its brief, flaring peplum is of rose colored wool accented with the print. Sizes are from 12 to 18 inclusive.

4—Black or navy silk shantung that has a tiny white scattered pin dot design is attractive for a dress that suggests two parts. Skirt is attached above the hipline with stand-out pockets that seem to separate it from the blouse. The neckline is finished with scarf tie. Sleeves are below the elbows and intended to be pushed up as the wearer wishes.

5—A tiny all-over printed design in white on black, navy or pale blue background is flattering to the figure. The costume, available in sizes from 12 to 18, consists of low-necked dress that fastens at the front, and a fitted jacket with widening collar and tailored tie. The dress has its own attached petticoat.

6—White lace contributes a dainty accent to collar and cuffs of this slim sheath dress that gives the effect of having a separate bolero jacket. The Empire bodice is fitted closely to the figure. Buttons extend from neckline to hemline. Fabric is pure silk shantung in junior sizes.

Our Power Must Come From Outside

By Fulton J. Sheen

THE NINETEENTH century boasted of the power of man; the twentieth century of the power of the atom.

Neither has thought of the Power of God. The power of man built Babel, and the confusion of tongues; the power of the atom destroyed Hiroshima and threatens to destroy the earth. As a result, men live in fear of their fellowman and not in the fear of the Lord.

The two fears are different: the fear we have of our fellowman is the servile fear of being destroyed, such as a slave of a tyrant; the fear we ought to have of God is the filial fear such as a son has for a loving Father.

This manifestation of Babel Power and Atom Power has actually blinded us to our own weakness. We are like dinosaurs with great and tremendous bodies but with tiny little heads that cannot cope with our environment and are in danger of perishing.

As we have gained control over the atom, we have lost control over ourselves; capable of causing great destruction without, we have become blind to the contradiction within our own minds and hearts. Did we but see the world situation aright, we would see that all the contradictions at the U.N. and the contraries of petty little squabbles all over the globe are but the projection of the contradictions inside our own breast. Conflicts with huns are nothing but the externalization of conflicts within ourselves in which we are torn between an instinct to rise higher and an instinct to let ourselves go and follow the path of least resistance.

AN ANIMAL is normally happy in its environment. A squirrel is happy in a tree with nuts; so is a monkey happy with coconuts; a cow is contented in green pastures, but the dairyman is not happy with all his tin cans and milk bottles and cream separators. A little mink is as happy as a mink can be in his natural habitat, but the woman who said "she would give anything to own a mink" is not made happy on the inside—not even for 10 minutes, if her neighbor has a better one.

The sad psychological fact is that the greater our power in one direction, whether it be riches or prestige, the more likely it is to increase our weakness in another direction. How often the amassing of distinction in the sphere of wealth blinds the possessor to the poverty of his soul.

The explanation is to be found in the fact that we have forgotten that our sufficiency is not from ourselves; that for our souls and minds and spirits we need a power from the outside which comes from God gratis—only we have to ask for it and want it. All nature suggests that we have to find power and use it; but we do not create it. We did not create power in the atom, nor in the waterfall, nor in the bowels of the earth. All our machines have "received" power, converted from something else, and without receiving power our machines stand idle. Shut off the electric power from a city, and most clocks will stop and in many houses meals cannot be cooked, music heard, news communicated; food would rot and we would grope around in the darkness.

POWER FROM OUTSIDE.

Painting Hint
When painting the woodwork in a room, always save the baseboard for the last. If you paint this portion of the work before you've finished the rest of the trim you may find that your brush has picked up bits of dirt and dust and spread them over the more conspicuous areas.

Whether you prepare angel food cake from scratch or from a packaged mix, be sure to remove the cake from its pan as soon as it is cool—usually about one hour after it comes out of the oven. This way you will have the greatest amount of crust possible left on the cake.

"Andy says
I'm an angel!"

Andy thinks it's nothing short of a miracle the way I manage to get all my housework done and still have time for the many things I really enjoy doing. The truth is, I've simply found faster, easier ways to do my work. Like wood floors. How I used to dread that chore until I found out about Bruce Cleaning Wax. Now it's almost a snap because Bruce cleans as it waxes. There's no floor washing at all. And, honestly, my floors haven't looked so nice in years. If you have wood floors, you really ought to try Bruce Cleaning Wax. I know you'll like it.

Incidentally, I've found other Bruce floor products help me, too. There's Bruce Floor Cleaner for cleaning and lighter waxing, Bruce Paste Wax, Bruce Asphalt Tile Cleaner, Bruce Asphalt Tile Self-Polishing Wax and the new Bruce Self-Polishing Wax. Yes, for floors it's Bruce!

Word Game.

TODAY'S vocabulary test is based upon 10 rather uncommon words. Most of them will give you little trouble but be on the watch for two or three tricky ones. For each numbered word you will find a word of almost the same meaning among the three words and phrases following it. Thus the word numbered 1 may mean practically the same as the word lettered c. Write this down as 1c.

When you have all the answers, check against the correct pairings at the bottom. Score 10 points for each correct answer—100 is excellent; 80 to 90, superior; 60 or 70, fair.

1. Pawky: (a) tropical fruit; (b) shrewd; (c) peaceable.
2. Reimburse: (a) pay back; (b) retract; (c) bring to high lustre.

3. Pavane: (a) Italian side-walk; (b) formal Spanish dance; (c) Sicilian foremeal.
4. Saga: (a) wise lady; (b) what Groucho smokes; (c) long heroic story.

5. Idyllic: (a) silly; (b) lazy; (c) pleasantly rural.
6. Holocaust: (a) widespread destruction; (b) handwritten document; (c) empty granary.

7. Gauche: (a) expression of astonishment; (b) awkward; (c) left-handed.
8. Hookah: (a) oriental water pipe; (b) Arabian dancing girl; (c) Egyptian tradesman.
9. Glabrous: (a) oily; (b) brightly smiling; (c) bald.
10. Peccatrice: (a) slow walker; (b) trifle; (c) once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

Mid-Winter Skiing Trip For Several St. Louisans

By Marilee Chadeayne Martin

BECAUSE of the lack of facilities for skiing in and around St. Louis, local devotees of the sport must travel great distances to enjoy their favorite winter pastime. Many go to Aspen, Colo., or to Sun Valley, Idaho. Four St. Louisans, however, will go abroad for their annual skiing holiday.

Departing Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brookings Smith, 5 Picardy lane, Ladue, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Walsh, 9 Portland place, will fly from New York to Switzerland, where they will board a ski train for Austria. The vacationers will spend a month at Kitzbuhel, a favorite ski resort of Mr. and Mrs. Smith in the Austrian Tyrol, and will return to St. Louis by plane.

The Smiths and the Walshes have made similar ski trips abroad in previous years, mostly to the Swiss Alps. This is the first excursion to the Austrian Tyrol for Mr. and Mrs. Walsh.

Mrs. Arthur S. Bland, 6425 Cecil avenue, will leave St. Louis tomorrow for New York, to sail Friday on the Corona for a trip around the world. Mrs. Bland expects to be away until May 7.

A group of St. Louisans will depart Jan. 30 for vacations in the West. Mrs. Richard Morey Jr., 13 Warren terrace, Ladue, will go to Santa Barbara, Calif., to visit her mother, Mrs. J. D. Perry Francis, a former St. Louisan. Going to Phoenix, Ariz., will be Mr. and Mrs. John D. McCarthy, 7380 Westmoreland avenue, University City, and Mr. and Mrs. George N. Sardi, 802 North McKnight road, Ladue. On the same train will be Mrs. Frank J. V. Krebs, 9265 Clayton road, Ladue; her daughter, Mrs. Hiram Norcross Jr., 8 Berkley lane, Ladue, and Mrs. Hiram Norcross Sr., of Tyrone, Ark. The Sardis, Mrs. Krebs, her daughter and Mrs. Norcross Sr. will be at Camelback Inn. The McCarthys plan to be in Phoenix for two months.

Florida Vacation for St. Louisans.

MR. AND MRS. WAYNE A. LEE, 4954 Lindell boulevard, will make their annual visit to Palm Beach, Fla., next month. They will spend February at The Breakers. Also in Palm Beach for her annual winter visit is Miss Jessie Pflager of Memphis, Tenn., formerly of St. Louis, who is sharing an apartment with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Pflager, of Chicago. Miss Pflager divides her time between her home in Memphis and that of her nephew, Henry B. Pflager, and Mrs. Pflager, 47 Westmoreland place.

Among other St. Louisans who are planning late winter vacations are Mr. and Mrs. Keith G. Provo, 7103 Westmoreland avenue, University City, who will go to Nassau to spend two weeks in March. There they will join friends from Philadelphia, where the Provos lived until nearly two years ago.

Mrs. Provo is planning to give a luncheon in honor of her cousin, Mrs. Frederick Zeibig Clifford (Mary Louise Reilly), when the Cliffords return later this month from their honeymoon in the Virgin Islands. Their wedding took place Saturday at St. Roch's Church.

The Provos became parents Dec. 14 of a daughter, Carolyn Darcy, named for her mother. They have four other children, all boys. Among other recent parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stuart M. Butler Jr. (Joanne Fister), 1965 North Signal Hills drive, Kirkwood, whose second son was born Jan. 8. They have named him Stuart Markle Butler III. The Butlers have another son, Joseph Fister.

Mrs. Seward McKittrick Hostess at Luncheon.

MRS. SEWARD MCKITTRICK, 7629 Wydown boulevard, Clayton, entertained 40 friends at luncheon yesterday at the Wednesday Club, in which she is active. It was the first of a series of two parties this week. The second, for 30 guests, will be held Friday at the College Club, 5423 Delmar boulevard.

Yesterday's party was in honor of Mrs. Robert Newman Arthur, Wednesday Club president; her sister, Mrs. Thomas Wheeler Galleher, and their mother, Mrs. David E. Woods.

The color scheme was pink, white and silver. The table, arranged in the shape of a U in the large dining room, held centerpieces of pink snapdragon and white chrysanthemums alternating with candelabra filled with pink and silver candles.

Guests were Mrs. Christian Baird Peper, Mrs. Charles Francis Luke, Mrs. George W. Coleman, Mrs. Herbert S. Gardner Jr., Mrs. Marion L. Stuhl, Mrs. W. Clinton Taylor, Mrs. Charles Taylor, Mrs. Harry Bischoff, Mrs. Werner Westphalen, Mrs. Leif J. Sverdrup, Mrs. Burton F. Connelly, Mrs. Hugh W. Baird, Mrs. Ivan Lee Holt, Mrs. Richard Arthur Bullock, Mrs. Edwin R. Waldemer, Mrs. Thomas J. Kemp, Mrs. A. Jack Becker, Mrs. George A. Clipner, Mrs. Frederick Straub Anheuser, Mrs. Leroy A. Weidle, Mrs. Daniel Hundley, Mrs. John O. Price, Mrs. Foster Holmes, Mrs. Garland Brown, Mrs. Thaddeus B. Clark, Mrs. Edwin C. Mueller, Mrs. William R. Bright, Mrs. Melchior A. Wagner, Mrs. Charles Cunliff, Mrs. Al P. Rowan, Mrs. Ray A. Burns, Mrs. Walter J. Knight, Mrs. Walter Wurdack, Mrs. Thomas E. Blackwell, Mrs. William N. Sellman, Mrs. Harry Theis and Mrs. John A. Woodbridge.

Luncheon for Heart Association Chairmen.

MRS. CHARLES M. RICE gave a luncheon today at her home, 1 Oak Knoll, Clayton, for the 40 chairmen of the forthcoming St. Louis Heart Association drive which opens Feb. 1. The luncheon was preceded by a business meeting and followed by a talk by Dr. Arthur E. Strauss, chairman of the drive. Workers received their instructions.

Mrs. C. Oscar Lamy, Mrs. Adolphus Busch III and Mrs. Rice are co-chairmen for the county of Heart Sunday, Feb. 26, when house-to-house solicitations will be made. Mrs. Frederick H. Deibel is Heart Sunday chairman for the city.

A pre-symphony lecture will be sponsored at 1:15 o'clock Friday afternoon at Kiel Auditorium Opera House by the education committee of the Women's Association of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. Speaker will be Miss Helen Graves, general consultant in music for the St. Louis Board of Education.

Rehabilitation Center Seeks Volunteers

AS a result of the expansion of services at the Rehabilitation Center of Greater St. Louis, 608 North Spring avenue, additional volunteer help is needed to serve more patients, according to Miss Susan Barnes, center director, and Mrs. William Grant Armstrong, chairman of volunteers for the center.

Through a grant from the Federal Government, which was supplemented by the Junior League of St. Louis, the services of the Rehabilitation Center, formerly known as the Occupational Therapy Workshop, will now include physiotherapy treatment. This combination of physiotherapy and occupational therapy provides a much more realistic and functional program of service to those who are physically disabled. Miss Barnes pointed out. Well-qualified for the volunteer assignments are the Red Cross Gray Ladies who are now being recruited for services at the center one-half day a week by Mrs. Ray Dilschneider, Gray Lady chairman, St. Louis Chapter, American Red Cross. Trained Red Cross Gray Ladies have assisted in several St. Louis hospitals in occupational therapy tasks. At the center they will work with a registered physiotherapist, Miss Nellie Dodd, who recently returned to

MR. CHARLES KEENE, head of the alumnae fund for Smith College, was a recent visitor in St. Louis. Mrs. Keene, who arrived Monday, was entertained that same day at a buffet luncheon at the home of Mrs. Herbert L. Finch Jr., 424 Park road, Webster Groves. Guests at the party were alumnae of the St. Louis area who are working on the personal interview program for the fund. They were Mrs. Logan Mock, Mrs. Warren Sarff, Mrs. Willard Clark, Mrs. Alfred H. Clarke, Mrs. H. Bethune Hall, Mrs. C. Landon Martin, Mrs. Allen Goodloe, Mrs. Herbert M. Patton, Miss Ann Clifford, Mrs. Robert V. Martin, Mrs. William Clark and Mrs. William J. O'Rourke.

St. Louis from California where she did similar work. The tentative schedule for Gray Ladies services is from 9 o'clock until noon, or from 1 to 3:30 o'clock, on any day Monday through Friday. Their duties include the following: assist patients with disabilities in mastering dressing and undressing; help wheelchair patients to and from the physiotherapy department when needed; assist physiotherapist in emptying and filling whirlpool bath; assist physiotherapist with changing bed linens and pillow slips after each treatment, and assist with positioning and weighing patients.

A training program for Gray Ladies who need it, will begin next Monday. The hours are from 10 o'clock until noon.

My Day

A Weekend Filled With Activity

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK
OUR HOSTS who met us at Sacramento last Friday represented the group in that city working for the American Association for the United Nations. They have never formed themselves into a chapter, but simply affiliated themselves with all the organizations that have an interest in the United Nations to celebrate U.N. day. They discussed with me the need for a chapter and promised me they would form one immediately and notify our San Francisco headquarters, which I hope they will do.

They were able to drive the car near to the plane so we did not get as wet in the storm as I expected. The audience proved good at the evening meeting and the sponsors seemed satisfied. The reception given afterwards by the U. N. group was very well attended and some Democratic women's groups also participated in it, so that I think everyone who had a special desire to see me had the opportunity to do so.

IT WAS PAST midnight, however, when we finally got to bed and we had to be up at 6, as my secretary, Miss Maureen Corr, was taking a train to San Francisco on Saturday morning to spend the day with some friends and I was flying back to Los Angeles hoping to spend a very busy day seeing a great many friends.

I managed to see a young man who has struggled hard to get an education largely by service in the United States Army. I had met him in various parts of the world, but he is now at last on his way to a teaching position in the Los Angeles schools.

MY OLD FRIENDS from Beacon, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Charles McElraith, and their two children came up from San Diego to lunch with Mrs. Hersey Martin and me, and we had a very pleasant reunion. After lunch Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lawson picked me up and drove me out to their new home where I had a chance to see their children.

After my return my great-granddaughter, Juliana, was brought over by her mother to see me, and later Mrs. Alonzo Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lesser and their young son, who is named after my husband, all came to tea. My only disappointment was that I did not see my three grandchildren who live in Pasadena, but their mother felt that fog was too heavy to drive in.

IN THE EVENING Mr. and Mrs. Martin and I went over to

U.D.C. Chapter To Give Program At Maryville

By Fay Proffitt

CONFEDERATE DAMES CHAPTER, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will commemorate the birthdays of Thomas Jonathan (Stonewall) Jackson and Adm. Matthew Fontaine Maury in the Little Theater of Maryville College Saturday at 1:30 p.m. Guests of honor will be the real daughters, new members and former presidents of the chapter.

An illustrated historical program will be presented. The address of welcome will be given by Mother Marie Odele Mouton, president of Maryville College, and the college glee club will sing. Mrs. Frederick James McKenna II (Fay Stickford) will read the poem, "The Concord Banner"; Miss Martha Goebel will read "The Sword of Lee," and "Confederate States of America," and Miss Louise Nolan will be vocal soloist. Mrs. William A. McDonnell, Missouri representative of the Gunston Hall Foundation, will give an illustrated lecture on Gunston Hall. After the program tea will be served in the student lounge. Members of the Chouteau-Chadeayne Chapter, Children of the Confederacy, will usher and will assist at the tea table.

The real daughters are Mrs. R. Shad Bennett, Mrs. Paul Brown, Mrs. Frances S. Burkhardt, Mrs. Howard Doane, Mrs. A. E. Farrar, Mrs. W. H. Flower, Mrs. Joseph C. McKenna, Mrs. R. W. Mitchell, Mrs. William H. Moulton, Mrs. Eugene D. Nims, Mrs. J. T. Pedigo, Mrs. J. E. Ritchey, Mrs. H. B. Voges and Mrs. Charles B. Williams. The following are new members: Mrs. John Coleman Boyd, Mrs. John J. Casey, Mrs. William Nisbet Chambers, Mrs. Lionel Smith-Gordon, Mrs. Rollo Horwitz, Mrs. Vernon Hoerath, Mrs. J. Richard Peat and Mrs. Frank Vandiver.

Past presidents to be honored include: Mrs. Walter Edwards, Mrs. Houston Force, Mrs. Ritchey, Mrs. D. E. Woods, Mrs. James C. Blythe, Mrs. A. P. Richardson, Mrs. George McDonald, Mrs. J. O. L. Goggin and Mrs. Henry Fort Chadeayne. Mrs. Howard I. Young is president of the chapter.

The Ambassador, had dinner, and watched a very delightful show. Then at 6:26 on Sunday morning we picked up Miss Corr at her little hotel nearby where she had arrived after various delays at 2 a.m. and then we were off again to San Antonio. The trip was smooth and very pleasant. We were met at the airport by a delegation including the mayor, Mrs. Maury Maverick, and various members of the sponsoring committee.

On Sunday we proceeded to Dallas, where we caught the overnight plane to New York.

To Be Guest of Honor

MISS ZIEGLER... PRESIDENT OF THE WOMEN'S TRAFFIC CLUB OF METROPOLITAN ST. LOUIS.

PAST presidents of the Women's Traffic Club of Metropolitan St. Louis will give a dinner tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. at Hotel De Soto in honor of the club's president, Miss Clara Louise Ziegler. Miss Mary Selden, first vice president, will preside at a brief business meeting after dinner.

Past presidents are: Miss Martha Moore, Miss Frieda Luckas, Miss Florence Bradley, Miss Clementine Moiser, Miss Ethel Schewepe, Mrs. Frances V. Ford, Mrs. Minnie Tanner, Mrs. Helen A. DeLargy, Mrs. Helen Gettys, Mrs. Mabel Laub, Miss Cecelia M. Noll, Miss Ann Serwan, Mrs. Louise Gibson, Mrs. Iris Abbey, Miss Charlotte Leu, Miss Hazel Diener, Miss Ann O'Brien, Mrs. Angela Schmidt and Miss Louise Gauchat.

Chairmen for the evening are as follows: Miss Jane Morrison, dinner; Miss Gene Kilcullen, decorations; Miss Viola Schanewise, reception; Miss Elsie Kersting, entertainment; and Miss Vera Anne Ducker, publicity.

Mrs. Ruth M. Rocho of Detroit, Supreme Queen of the Supreme Temple, Daughters of the Nile, is making her official visit to Sydk Temple 107, Daughters of the Nile, St. Louis, today. She will be honored at a dinner at 6 p.m. in the Alexandria room of the Melbourne Hotel. After dinner, Mrs. Marian L. Punt, Queen of Sydk Temple, will preside at the ceremonial to be held in

The Vi-Bels Club, composed of 23 young women, will give its annual charity card party tomorrow at Temple Israel at 8 p.m. Proceeds will go to the St. Louis Association for Retarded Children. Last year the group donated $1500 for the treatment of polio patients. Mrs. David Goldberg is president and Mrs. Jack Stein, vice president, is chairman for the party. Mrs. Bernard Kovinsky, club treasurer, will also be treasurer for the benefit.

Martha Carr's

Dear Martha:

I AM 25 and engaged to the most wonderful man. He is attractive, courteous, pleasant and very thoughtful. His one fault is his jealousy. He gets mad if anyone calls me on the telephone while he is there and accuses me of having other male friends. That isn't true, Martha. Then he even drives by my house after a date to make sure I don't go out again with someone else. I know that's his reason because he told me. I hate to lose him but I don't like the idea of not being trusted. He says it just proves how much he loves me. Is that true? JEAN.

It may prove he's crazy about you, but it also proves that he's still a juvenile and mighty unsure of himself and his ability to hold a girl's interest. I'm afraid if you go ahead and marry him now your life will be made miserable by his suspicions and groundless charges. Tortured by that, you'd soon forget the qualities on the credit side of the ledger.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE A GOOD FRIEND who brags all the time. She's a name-dropper and I'm sure she even makes up some of the stories she tells. I don't like to fight with her but this is getting on my nerves and I feel sometimes like telling her to get wise to herself. How can I cure her of this? PEGGY.

Aside from the falsehoods, I suppose it's a harmless habit, but I can see how it would make you uncomfortable. Maybe the next time she starts talking about some important personage, you can question her casually and if she finds herself backed into a corner she may learn to be a little more careful in her conversation. But bragging merely indicates a lack of self-confidence. A kinder act on your part would be to build her up in her own mind. Compliment her good qualities and her accomplishments and as she begins to feel a little more self-confident, she won't have to brag.

Send today for Martha Carr's free leaflet of children's prayers and grace to be said at table. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Egg-Timer Speeches

By Ruth Millett

GET a three-minute egg timer around the house? It just might come in handy for something besides cooking soft-boiled eggs.

In Chicago at a recent breakfast meeting for women

Democrat the lady speakers were told they had to limit their talks to three minutes and were warned that they were to be timed by an egg timer.

Why wouldn't it be a good idea for women to limit the "speeches" they make at home to three minutes?

Often husbands and children turn deaf ears to the woman of the house when she is trying to put across an idea. The reason is that once she's started on a topic it's hard for a woman to know when to stop.

She starts to remind Junior to go hang up his clothes and before she is through she has made a long speech, calling up everything he has done wrong or neglected to do for the past month. Long before she is through, Junior has quit listening.

Or a woman gets upset because her husband is late to dinner. Before she gets through telling him off, she has brought up how he behaved at last Saturday night's party and what she thinks of her mother-in-law.

Setting out an egg timer and saying "I have something important to say and it will only take three minutes" ought to make the family perk up and listen.

And it ought to keep the lady "speechmaker" from going too far and saying things she never had any intention of saying when she started.

There's more to timing than just choosing the right moment for broaching a subject. Timing ought also to tell you when you've said enough.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A HOSTESS writes: "The other evening I invited several couples in to dinner. After dinner was over we all went into the living room where we sat around chatting. One of the guests asked me if he could turn on the television set so that he could watch a favorite program of his. Not wishing to be rude I said he could turn it on and as a result all the other guests were forced to watch the program in complete silence and I could sense their resentment at having to do so. What can a hostess do when she is put on the 'spot' so to speak by one of her guests? Could I have refused him permission to turn the TV set on without hurting his feelings?"

I think you could have asked how many others wanted to watch the program and if the majority were willing to watch it then it would be all right to turn it on. But if he were the only one then you could have said, "I'm sorry but the majority is against you." If you had another room to which the other guests could have gone in the meantime you could have asked those not interested in the program to go into the other room until the program was over.

DEAR MRS. POST: My father-in-law is deceased and my husband was asked to give his sister in marriage. After walking up the aisle with her he took his place next to his mother in the first pew. An elderly aunt of my husband's also sat in the front pew with his mother. I was seated in the fourth pew. Am I wrong in assuming that I should have been asked to sit in the front pew with his mother and my husband, or that my husband should have at least taken his place beside me after walking up the aisle with his sister?

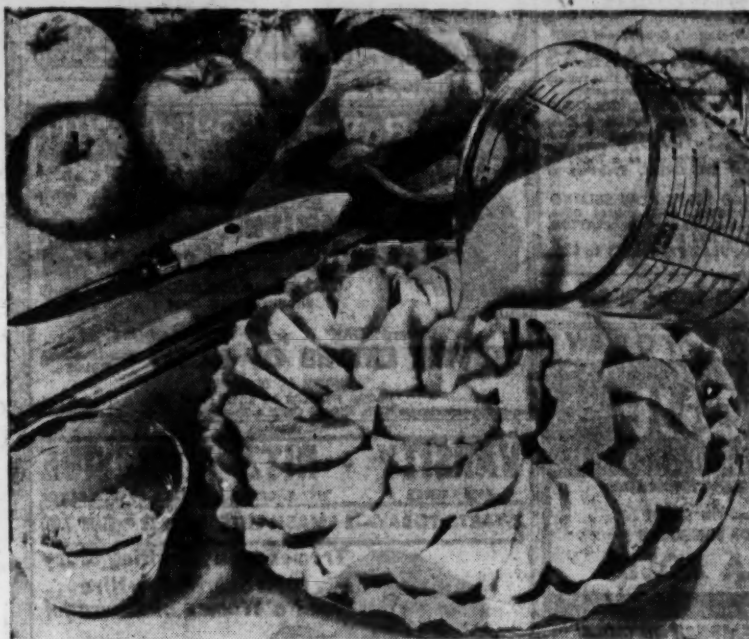

Answer: Although your mother-in-law might have been very unusual. Also, as your husband was taking the place of his father, on this special occasion it was in no way belittling to you for him to sit next to his mother.

A Different Dessert

Country Apple Cream Pie

By Edith M. Barber

A TEMPTING DESSERT AND A FAVORITE WITH THE FAMILY IS A GOOD APPLE PIE. A SLIGHT VARIATION FROM THE USUAL IS COUNTRY APPLE PIE WITH CREAM AND BROWN SUGAR ADDED TO THE FILLING.

APPLE pie—it is a specialty in your country," commented a friend of mine from foreign shores. He heartily approves of this real American dish, but he told me he found some pies were better than others.

We all know he is right and we have all had the same experience. We have also found that even among fine apple pies one may be quite different from another. Of course, there must be tender crusts, apples of fine flavor and plenty of sugar. Some pies are lightly spiced and some more heavily. Often the flavor is supplied just by the apples themselves. A great author, Irvin Cobb, once told me the use of any spice was a sin against a great fruit.

We may not all agree with him, and that is our privilege. We believe in free enterprise in the kitchen and enjoy making variations in standard recipes. You may like to try a type of apple pie that is novel to me and perhaps to you. It may have been originated in an old-fashioned farm house where cream was plentiful. The filling calls for a rather large amount of cream, and for the use of brown sugar.

The crust is also a little different from the usual, as cut seedless raisins are mixed with it before it is rolled.

Country Apple Cream Pie.

One unbaked nine-inch pie shell, six cups sliced pie apples, three-fourths cup brown sugar, four tablespoons flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon ground ginger, one cup heavy cream, one tablespoon brown sugar.

Fill pie shell with apples, piling them high in the center. Mix together brown sugar, flour, salt, ginger and cream. Pour over apples. Sprinkle remaining sugar over top of pie. Bake 50 to 60 minutes in hot oven (400 degrees F.) Yield: One nine-inch pie.

Raisin Crust. One cup sifted all-purpose flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-third cup shortening, one-half cup seedless raisins, cut into small pieces, two to three tablespoons cold water.

Sift flour and salt. Cut in shortening with two knives or pastry blender, until like coarse meal. Add raisins and mix with fingers until all pieces of raisins are separated and distributed through the flour. Add water gradually and toss lightly with fork. Use only enough water to make dough hold together. Shape into ball. Roll out on floured board. Line nine-inch pie plate with dough. Trim. Turn under and flute edges.

House-Building Woes

It's 'The Winter of Her Discontent'

By Mary Margaret McBride

WHAT'll you bet W. Shakespeare thought up that wonderful bit about "the winter of our discontent" right in the middle of building himself a house?

Anyway, the phrase perfectly expresses my state of mind just now.

I should have known this was coming—enough of my home-owning friends warned me about the dark interlude between foundation-digging and house-warming when nothing is going as you thought it would and the whole project of remodeling an old barn into a home as I'm doing seems like sheer madness.

The winter of my discontent began, I think, the day some helpful soul remarked upon the amount and cost of the linoleum I'll need for my vast kitchen. Always an anxious one about money, I began right then to recall that I had wanted just a small, compact kitchen with everything handily within arm's reach. Instead, so as not to lose a single ancient beam, I am saddled with a gargantuan room with gargantuan needs.

SINCE THE LINOLEUM

worry, things have kept on happening. First somebody got the bright idea of using a lamp-black mixture to outline with black each stone in one of my fireplaces. This might be all right in a smart city drawing room, but it is somewhat startling in a pine-paneled kitchen.

One visitor, trying to comfort me, said, "Anyway it makes the room look larger," which thought already had occurred to me. Without such help the kitchen already looked about the size of Madison Square Garden!

To continue with my woes, a mysterious leak on the kitchen floor shows up after each rain though nobody but me seems to worry about it. I'm concerned, too, about the big red maple on the west side of my patio-to-be—the patio is laid out carefully so that it will be protected from afternoon sun by the tree. The men have dug a big trench for drains right beside it, pulling up some roots, cutting off others. How much of this can my tree stand, I wonder?

My bedroom, it turns out, will have plenty of light from three nice big windows, but I wonder nervously where I'll put my bed, for there doesn't seem to be any wall space.

I COULD GO ON like that for hours, though not if I can help it to people who have already had the experience of building. For these listen politely only for a few minutes and then inform me that this is normal in the difficult business of becoming a home owner. After that, they spend hours telling me about the terrible time they had and I have to pretend to listen while actually running over the possibilities of making a living off my land if—as seems likely at the moment—the house eats up all my savings.

I could, I suppose, dig up the hill in front and plant potatoes. The former owners did. I might breed Shetland ponies and raise some cash renting rides to children. I could keep hens and sell eggs, or cows and peddle milk. Or I might take in boarders. And, come to think of it, I could even sell the place!

Anyway, my misgivings are only temporary, I guess. At least my friends claim that once I've moved in, I'll just love everything. They even say that I'll be a new woman. Well, that's good—I need a new self as well as new draperies, refrigerator, cook-stove, garbage disposer, washing machine, and, of them all, the new self ought to cost the least!

Agreement Before the Marriage

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

IF there are really wide differences of religious opinion between two people who plan marriage, the time to iron them out and reach some definite agreement is before the wedding, and not after. You may be sure that the need for settlement will arise sooner or later. It is better that a marriage be avoided than that it crack up on the rocks of a religious quarrel. Fay, who writes me as follows, had better take this advice to heart: "My fiancé and I are far apart in religion, but I figure we can settle this matter better after we are married and I get him away from his own family. They are stiff-necked and old-fashioned, according to my way of thinking, although of course I wouldn't put it that way to him."

SOCIOLOGIST JUDSON T. LANDIS queried 409 couples on this point. Three-fourths of them had made an adjustment of their religious views at the start of marriage and considered this one of the easiest of all subjects to deal with. But the other one-fourth had required an average of six years to reach a reasonable harmony; and we may be sure that some had failed and abandoned their marriages, though they did not appear in Dr. Landis's study because he dealt only with those who were still married. There is some reason to believe, Fay, that men find it harder to make concessions on this point than do women. You should also bear in mind that differences in religion often become acute only with the birth of the first child.

THAT WHEN husband and wife have to stop evading and face the issue. Shall the baby be baptized or not? There are many rites and ceremonies connected with birth and with children, which relatives and friends may consider of the highest importance, even if the young parents do not.

When two persons begin to think seriously of marriage, they should talk over their religious views frankly and consider all these possibilities. If anyone is unwilling to do this, it may indicate a closed mind, an intolerance and inability to make adjustments, which would be a threat to the marriage in many other ways, later on.

Be sure to discard the heavy center rib, when you are getting kale ready for cooking. Put the stripped kale in a small amount of boiling salted water and cook 15 to 20 minutes.

Washington Party Whirl

'Expendable' Social Life

By Patricia Wiggins

WASHINGTON (UP). IN the Washington party whirl, Washington's fast-paced social life has become "expendable" for Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Dem.), Texas, and his wife. The pert Mrs. Johnson—called "Lady Bird" instead of Claudia even in her husband's Congressional Directory biography—says that on the "determined advice" of the Senator's doctor, they will keep socializing down to "one night a week."

"Of course, that will have to be a little flexible," she added. "But there's always so much work to do which isn't expendable, we decided social life is."

The attractive brunette admits to losing 12 pounds to her husband's 17 since his July heart attack. She also concedes that her whirlwind husband wouldn't be happy "without a certain amount of tension and action."

ONE PARTY that was really bipartisan was for young Representative John D. Dingell Jr. (Dem.), Michigan, and his attractive wife. All hands, from both sides of the aisle, turned up at the Congressional Club to wish well the "baby" of the House who, at 29, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of his father. Young Dingell was once a House page.

CLOSE FRIENDS of Mamie Eisenhower are scoffing at all the talk about whether she is exerting strong influence, pro or con, on a second term for her husband. Says one, "I don't think she's pushing him either way... She just wouldn't."

Tasty Tricks

If food is too salty, stretch a clean cloth lightly over the container holding the food, sprinkle a tablespoon of flour over the cloth, and let food simmer a few minutes. Flour absorbs salt.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

THE levitation act has been known, and used, for hundreds of years, but a famous American magician was fooled for a long time by a British expert. The American was Harry Kellar, who held first place in his field in the United States.

Levitation is the rising of a person or other object into the air. One pioneer performer showed his own son held up from the floor with several props. One by one the props were taken from under him, but the boy remained in the air. The secret in that case was a single, well-hidden prop which supported a metal framework under the boy's clothing.

A MORE USUAL KIND of levitation has been performed with black-cloth magic. A young woman, usually of small size, is displayed on a dimly-lighted stage with a black velvet drop at the back. Then she rises higher and higher and swings backward and forward. In other words she becomes one of the "floating ladies."

Clear, Cold Weather to Continue

Clear skies with below freezing temperatures tomorrow were forecast by Weatherman Harry F. Wahlgren. Low temperature in the morning of 15 to 20 degrees with a high to 20 degrees afternoon in the low 30s is expected.

Although traces of snow were reported yesterday in parts of the St. Louis area the severe winter drouth was not broken officially, Wahlgren said. Yesterday was the forty-sixth day without any measurable precipitation. Wahlgren said light snow may fall over the area tonight.

because he wanted to meet her alone, not with the young man she took with her."

Memo to a BLONDE

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

FRANK SMITH boarded a Fifth Avenue bus determined to have it out with Guy Marmo. He'd tell Guy how his father had robbed him of his share in the valuable patent. That would end Guy's interest in Jan, and perhaps Jan would get out of trouble and stay out of trouble, as she had always done before she met Guy and conceived her fantastic idea of punishing him.

As the bus rolled through the stately avenue, Jan's father began to have doubts about this plan. In the first place, Jan was missing and he would need all possible help to find her. In the second place, he had no right to reveal Jan's secret to Guy without getting her permission to do so. By the time he reached Guy's apartment, Smith had weakened. He wouldn't tell Guy of his former friendship with Jim Marmo. The girl at the desk was firm. "I'm sorry, Mr. Smith," she said. "I have absolute orders not to ring Mr. Marmo until after 9."

"This is important and urgent," Jan's father insisted. "I cannot violate rules."

"Then I'll call the police. This is a police matter. If you'll
